KNOX A SOLDIER IN TWO WARS

other surprise which nearly cost him his hearing. Leading up an ammunition train to the support of the guns, he emerged into a field of barbed wire. Just as he rose in his stirrups to locate the guns, a camouflaged and well-concealed battery gave the Germans a blast from a brush-heap only a few yards away. Knox was partially stunned, his horse made frantic and for several minutes he had his hands full keeping the horse and himself out of the barbed wire. When he did dismount, he was stone deaf and remained so for several weeks. In time, however, he regained his hearing almost entirely. After the armistice Knox came home and was chairman of the committee on resolutions at the meeting at St. Louis which resulted in the organization of the American Legion. Knox is neither a jingo nor a militarist. He believes his country should be in shape to defend itself against all comers at anytime. He has volunteered in every war of his country in his lifetime, but he rarely ever talks about them.

Washday Just Another "Recitation" For Girls in New Mexico College

Washday in a home? Oh, no, a classroom scene in a college!

New Mexico believes in giving its up-and-coming generation education of the most practical, usable sort, and so, at the State A. & M. College girl students of the home economics department take regular turns at assuming all the activities of housekeeping in the Home Management Practice House. The college has purchased and installed in the residence all the modern household appliances that every up-to-date homemaker insists on having. When this picture was made Betty Rigney one of the girls assigned to the house for a month at a time was busy with the week's washing, using a washer such as is found in the average family home.

The furnishings and equipment of the home have been kept within the budget of the average family. Florence E. Young, professor of Home Economics, reports.

A typical home has been duplicated at the school, consisting of a living room, taking its keynote from the Southwest, in provincial Spanish style in rust and brown, a green, cream and orange kitchen, three bedrooms in different color schemes, and the laundry a big glassed-in porch which has built-in tubs as well as the up-to-date washer.

Polk Storage Dams Proposed
Dallas—That Polk county agriculture would be benefited by storage dams placed on the headwaters of several rivers of the county is the opinion of the soils and drainage committee which is preparing a report on this subject to be presented at the county farm outlook conference January 16 and 17. Storage dams on both forks of the Luckiamute, the La Creole, Mill Creek and South Yamhill would aid in flood control as well as furnishing a summer water supply members of the committee believe.

Hobby Show To Be Held At Public Program
Under the sponsorship of the Torch Honor Society a hobby show will take place some time in March. It will be held in conjunction with the free public entertainment for that month. All students with hobbies are urged to participate. Those who have none but are interested in a display, still have time to start one.

Hobbies of all kinds may be entered. They will be divided into three groups: stamps, coins, and miscellaneous, with prizes for each.—From the Beaverton Hummer

Teacher: "Willie, what are octopuses?" Willie (fresh from geometry class): "Eight cats, teacher."

Teacher: "Where is the capital of the United States?" "All over the world."

Brown: "Robinson has got a job at last. He's working in Smith's livery stables."

Jones: "What's he doing there?" "Smith has some horses that won't take a bit, so Robinson has to talk to them till they yawn!"

Youth: "Now, on this ring I should like you to engrave: 'For my darling Muriel.'"

Jeweler: "Would it not be better to have simply: 'For my darling? You see, sir, it will be at least a week before we can let you have the ring.'"

Great Dancer Plays Double Role In Ways by Which He Serves Public

"World's finest, most imitated dancers," are the couple so attractively pictured here. Veloz and Yolanda. Millions saw them featured in the Warner Baxter motion picture, "Under the Pampas Moon." Now further recognition has come to them, for they were engaged to dance in performances of the Chicago Civic Opera season, beginning with Carmen.

More than anyone else, they can be credited with the present nationwide interest in fine ballroom dancing and the revulsion against the eccentric types of exhibitions that were in vogue before they inaugurated a new era. They have been seen in the greatest theaters in the United States. The Empire Room of the Palmer House, Chicago, is jammed nightly with hundreds watching them.

There is a business side to Veloz, as well as the artistic nature that has served to give him his standing as a great dancer. He has saved and invested his earnings. He is silent partner in a household appliance business in New York City.

When Veloz dances with the beautiful Yolanda, he has the satisfaction of bringing aesthetic delight to the throngs watching them. He can congratulate himself, too, on playing an equally important part in releasing housewives from the burdens of homemaking, by the extent to which he helps introduce such labor and time-savers as washing and ironing machines into thousands of additional homes.

SHARING--

When a woman finds a delicious recipe she is most happy when she can SHARE the good news with an intimate friend.

When a friendly merchant in a community gets a new value in stock he wouldn't be your friend if he didn't let you know about it.

Advertising of goods or services is SHARING with you something another has which makes living more worth while.

To be sure, the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker who regularly let folks know what is new, what is helpful, find it easier to stay in business profitably.

Sensible, friendly folk, do not hold this against them. Profits are WAGES for services rendered. Life runs smoother when we live in a friendly, sharing mood.

Read our ad columns and see what others have to share with you.
