POULTRYMEN URGED NOT TO WORM FLOCK

(By L. E. Francis, Ass. Co. Agent)

This is the season of the year when poultrymen are urged from many sources to worm their flock of pullets before they are put in the laying house. There is no more inexcusable poultry management practice today than that of promiscuous worming of chickens. Worming is a necessary procedure in the event of an infestation of parasitic worms, but on the whole far more damage has been done to poultry flocks by worming than has ever been done by the worms themselves. It should be determined from competent authority whether a flock has worms and the kind of worms that treat for the specific parasite. Chickens generally have some worms and any spectacular worm medicine salesman can autopsy birds and prove that worms are there. Poultrymen shouldn't be misled by such a fact because a few worms are not going to hurt the chickens and a badly worm-infested bird or flock, which needs worming is outstandingly conspicuous, and readily recognized.

There are several reasons why promiscuous worming is sheer folly. In the first place vermifuge has to be very strong in order to be effective and it is inevitable that it will do some damage to the birds even to the point of being fatal. Finally there are several parasitic worms which can infect poultry and the control measures for each are different. Consequently one worm treatment isn't going to be "a safeguard against all worm infestation" as much practices are frequently advertised. Poultrymen should find it hard to decide between the easy and inexpensive sound management practice of leaving his birds alone and the expensive risky practice of worming.

AMERICAN BOY INTRODUCES A NEW FOOTBALL GAME

In the early fall issues of THE AMERICAN BOY there'll be presented the story of a new game.—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey! The game came to life thru the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues THE AMERICAN BOY tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents The American Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy or 15 cents when bought in bulk. NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect; one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50 cents a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands, the price is 15¢ a copy. Paid Advertisement

OFFICIAL CONTESTS TO BE AUG. 25-26

The official, livestock and crops 4-H judging contests will be held Wednesday and Thursday, August 25 and 26th, according to L. E. Francis, assistant county agent. The livestock contest will start at 9:00 a.m., at the Haag Bros. dairy farm, Reedville. From there the group will go to the farms of Arthur Connell to judge Holstein cattle, and R. Hornecker and Sons for hog judging. This is the official county judging contest states Francis and the teams placing first and second in this contest will represent Washington County at the State Fair and Pacific International, respectively. At the latter fairs the teams will be in competition with judging teams from other counties in Oregon and other states of the Northwest.

The crops judging contest will be held at the fair grounds beginning at 9:30 a.m. This contest will include the judging of classes of wheat, barley, oats, grading potatoes, and identification of field plants and weeds. Winners in this contest will also represent the county at the State Fair and Pacific International.

Last year, states Francis, a record was established by the Tualatin 4-H club group when they won both of these judging contests. Second place teams in last year's contest were Hazeldele livestock judging team and the Chehalis Mountain crops judging team.

What Is the Farmer's Share?

Milk Industry Foundation Chart

A recent investigation of farm income by the Federal Trade Commission shows that the dairy farmer receives a substantial portion of the consumer's dollar.

For milk, 50 per cent of the consumer's dollar went to the farmer, minus transportation from the farm. The figures indicate that the transportation item averaged around 5 per cent, leaving an average return of 45 per cent for the farmer. This is a larger share for the producer than generally credited by the layman.

For butter, the farmer got about 60 per cent of the price the consumer paid, for beef about 40 per cent, for wheat about 35 per cent of the bread dollar and for tobacco 12 per cent.
