Aloha Resident Killed By Fall

Eighty Year Old Man Fatally Injured Trying To Avoid Being Hit

Funeral Services Are Held Saturday Afternoon

Adalaska Frakes, 80-year old Aloha resident, was fatally injured early last Thursday as the result of a hard fall on slippery pavement in the center of Aloha when he tried to avoid being struck by a car driven by Charles Preston of Hillsboro.

Frakes died at the county hospital at 11:15 Thursday night. His injuries were described by hospital attendants as a fractured skull, abrasions and bruises, received when he hit the pavement in his fall.

Preston reported that he was going east on the highway and as he rounded the curve at the west edge of Aloha, saw a man standing on the highway about 10 feet inside the pavement edge. He applied the brakes and swerved to one side to avoid hitting Frakes, he reported, and the man jumped to one side, fell down and struck his head on the pavement. Preston rendered first aid, called Dr. J. O. Robb and took Frakes to the county hospital. Later Preston made a signed statement for Sheriff John W. Connell to the effect that he did not hit Frakes.

Frakes is survived by three sons, Leonard of Yakima, Glenn of Mabton and James of Tacoma, all in Washington and a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Buxby, Troutdale.

Funeral services for the accident victim were held Saturday afternoon from Donelson and Sewell funeral chapel in Hillsboro with Rev. Henry Haller officiating. Interment took place in Hillsboro I. O. O. F. cemetery.

BRIGHT FINISHES SIX DAY TRIP

Verne Bright has just finished a six-day trip through Eastern Oregon. He covered about 1400 miles going by way of Columbia river highway to Wallula, Washington, thence by the Three Flags highway to Pendleton, John Day Canyon City, Burns and Lakeview. On the return he followed the Fremont highway through Paisley, Silver Lake and Lapine to Bend and thence over the Santiam Pass to the Willamette valley. Bright says that the people of Central Oregon are rejoicing over the fact that the present year is the wettest they have had for a decade, and that the lakes which have been dry for several years, are again filling with water. Near Paisley and Summer Lake he ran into a series of sleet and snow squalls that at one place covered the pavement with an inch.

Local Grange Master Attends State Meet

Mrs. Elsie Christensen Is Delegate To State Grange Convention

Interesting Trip Made To Irrigated Farming District

Mrs. Elsie Christensen, Master of Beaverton Grange spent the week as delegate to the State grange convention in Klamath Falls joined on Wednesday by Mrs. M. C. McKechee and Mrs. John Dobbins.

The session was most interesting and the weather ideal in spite of the few flakes of snow that fell on Friday morning. One of the highlights of the entertainment programme was the sight seeing trip to the irrigated farming district. South of Klamath Falls in the reclaimed Tule Lake district of Northern California Thursday afternoon they saw a California dust storm which originated in lower Klamath Lake which has entirely dried up. About three hundred grangers attended the dinner at Tule Lake that evening. Among the 391 Grangers taking the State Grange degree was Mrs. M. C. McKechee of Beaverton Grange No. 324.

CHILD LOSES FOOT IN ACCIDENT SUNDAY

The right foot of Clyde Carey, age two years, of Beaverton, was severed Sunday just above the ankle, when he was run over by a mower driven by his father who was cutting hay. The little boy was hiding in the hay, out of sight of his father, when the accident occurred. The boy is in Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland.

COUNTIES IMPROVE SAFETY RECORDS

Chalking up big decreases in traffic accidents, injuries and fatalities during the month of May, many Oregon counties continued to improve their 1938 safety records, Secretary of State Earl Sell reported this week. May was the first month since 1935 when decreases in all three departments were recorded.

Washington county took third place among the state's Group I counties on the basis of improvement over the first five months of 1937 in traffic accidents, injuries and deaths. Last month this county ranked third in this group.

Secretary Sell has divided the state's 36 counties into four groups on the basis of population density in order to make accurate comparison of accident experience.

Deschutes county led Group III for the fifth consecutive month remaining the only county to hold top place in its class for the entire year to date. Multnomah county, exclusive of Portland, took the lead in Group I from Clackamas county, while Coos county moved from second up to first place in Group II.

Counties which have made reductions in accidents, injuries and fatalities include Clackamas, the city of Portland, Multnomah, Coos and Deschutes.

WARNING AGAINST MUSICAL AGENT

One phase of the Washington county musical situation is decidedly out of key.

This much was revealed this week by District Attorney G. Russell Morgan, who has received several reports of a solicitor, claiming to represent a Portland music academy whose methods are not quite in tune with honesty. The man agrees to give the guitar plus a certain number of lessons for a stipulated sum.

His plea, when he finds a customer, is that he would like to receive all the money as soon as possible, in order to have that matter cleared up, the report disclosed.

Once he receives the complete payment he ceases to report it give instruction, Morgan said. Those who have taken lessons from him report him to be an excellent teacher—the only fault being he doesn't give enough lessons.

"People should be on guard against this solicitor, or his sort of offer," Morgan warned. "His racket is too small to go to court over, and is only a violation of a civil contract, since he does not stipulate the number of lessons to be given in the written contract form used."

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES NOW HELD

Supervised playground activities are now in progress at the Beaverton School grounds. Parents for a long time have requested supervised play activities for the children and now that we have them, they should avail themselves of the opportunity. Let us make this a community project and put it over in a big way.

All boys and girls of school age are invited to attend. Activities four days a week from 11 a. m. until noon. Boys on Monday and Wednesday. Girls on Tuesday and Thursday.

This work is under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. George.

REEDVILLE SCHOOL ADDITION PLANNED

Directors of Reedville school district have applied to PWA officials for a $9,000 grant, which coupled with proceeds from an $11,000 bond issue, would be used for construction of additions to the present school plant.

Patrons of the district, by a vote of 84 to 75, decided on adoption of the full building program plan at a meeting last week. Included in the work to be done will be erection of two new school rooms and a gymnasium-community center, addition of new sanitary facilities and a heating plant, in addition to remodeling of the present school building.

POLICE CHIEF IS SPEAKER AT MEET

Chief Harry M. Niles of the Portland Police Department was the speaker at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the local Kiwanis club. Although the talk was informal it might well have been titled "Crime and the Training of Youth." He stated that criminals rarely come from among children that have had scout or similar training; or from homes where parents and children talk to each other and exchange confidences.

Next Monday, June 27, is All-Kiwanis Night. Radio stations all over the country will carry Kiwanis programs. The clubs in this area will gather at Timberline Lodge for a dinner and dance.

Delegates Return From 4-H School

Clayton Nyberg Wins First Place In Crops Judging Contest

County Broadcast Is Given Monday, June 13

Sixty-two Washington County 4-H delegates returned Friday from the 1938 annual 4-H summer school at the Oregon State College after receiving two weeks of instruction and recreation under the supervision of the Oregon State College Extension Service, reports L. E. Francis, Assistant County Agent.

The outstanding single honor coming to the group this year was the first place in the crops judging contest, which was won by Clayton Nyberg of Tualatin with a score of 409 out of a possible 500 points.

Mrs. Harriet Ford, president of the Washington County Local Leaders Association, who was chaperon of the girls expressed her opinion that this was the finest summer session that she has attended.

Clayton Nyberg, Catherine Cawse, and Claire Walker participated in the Washington County broadcast Monday, June 13. Catherine and Claire played piano solos and Catherine and Clayton, who this year attended their 5th summer session, outlined some of the changes and developments that have been taking place during the year: that they have been there.

SHOWER IS GIVEN AT HANSON HOME

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hanson were hosts at a miscellaneous shower at their home Wednesday evening, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hanson of Kinton who were married Saturday evening.

The entertainment feature of the evening was a mock wedding in which the following took part: Mrs. Carl Hanson, bride; Mrs. Ted Schulmerich, groom; Mrs. Wallace Hanson, best man; Miss Alice Lynum, bridesmaid; Jimmie Croft, train-bearer; Elaine Hanson, flower girl; and Harris Hanson, minister. The honor guests were the recipients of numerous gifts and refreshments were served.

Fire—The Great American Tragedy

Staggering Loss In Life, Property, National Problem

Safety in Home Building, Frequent Inspections by Family, Solution

By PERCY BUGBEE National Fire Protection Association

Fire is the American home's greatest enemy.

Most of us don't realize that, because fire which destroys one home here and another there is not nationally dramatic.

The burning of the Zeppelin Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., May 6, 1937, was one of the greatest disasters in the history of man's aerial conquest, with a loss of 38 lives and nearly four million dollars. That was dramatic, terrifying. The country gasped.

But it would take one hundred Hindenburg disasters to equal our national fire loss for a single year in the United States. And it would take nearly three hundred such disasters to equal our average annual loss of life due to fire.

Fire is an insidious enemy because it strikes without warning. We don't fight it as we should. We take it as a commonplace—until it strikes home to leave smoldering ruins and death behind.

Each year brings approximately 400,000 fires in homes in the United States. The money loss in homes alone is more than $100,000,000—nearly a third of a billion every day.

More terrible is the fact that 10,000 Americans lose their lives every year in fires, 7,000 of them in dwelling fires. And of these, one-half of the tragic victims are children who deserve the right to live.

The solution lies with you, in your own home.

The twin answers are these: first, proper construction of your home; second, frequent, careful home inspection in which every member of the family can take part.

If your home has not been constructed safely from the point of view of fire, lose no time in correcting that condition. Tomorrow, next week, may be too late.

Today's home should have firestops, to prevent fire from sweeping upward from one floor to the next in the space between the inner and outer wall. The chimneys should be built solidly from the ground, depending on no wooden construction for support. The house certainly should have a fire-resistant roof, not a roof that can be set afire by a chimney spark or a flying brand. The wooden shingle roof, which ignites quickly when dry and also results in flying brands that spread fire with incredible rapidity has been a major factor in virtually every one of America's hundred great conflagrations.

Fire-safe homes, frequent inspection by family are solutions to menace that costs millions in money, thousands in lives annually.

no excuse for the presence of gasoline, kerosene or any other volatile liquid in the house. If kerosene lamps or stoves are necessary, fill them by daylight only. If you value your life or those of your family, never use either kerosene or gasoline to start or quicken a fire.

Home inspection should also include the electric wiring where there is any doubt whatever of its condition. Never do electric wiring yourself. If the electric system of your house must be extended or changed, call an electrician and have the job done right.

Special days bring special hazards. July Fourth is one of the year's most dangerous days, especially in the toll of children's lives. Christmas brings the peril of flammable trees and decorations. Brush fires and bonfires in spring must be watched closely. Burn rubbish in an incinerator if it must be burned out of doors.

I have mentioned here no precaution which is not easily within the reach of any household. Observance of these precautions could cut our national fire loss by 75 per cent in a single year.

Let's stop fires before they start.
