CHERRIES NEED POISON BAIT SPRAY

Cherries need one more application of a poison bait spray for controlling cherry fruit fly, says S. C. Jones, Assistant Entomologist, Experiment Station, Corvallis. Even trees of the varieties where the fruit has already been harvested might well be sprayed to prevent flies from infesting Lamberts, or other late varieties later.

The spray recommended is:

Lead Arsenate	1/2 pound
Molasses	2 quarts
Water to make	10 gallons.

MOLALLA BUCKEROO TO BE HELD SOON

Once more Molalla, Oregon, this little city nestled in the foothills of the Cascades is ready to produce its great epic of the old west. On July 2-3-4 the greatest collection of cowboys ever to appear in western Oregon will be at the Molalla Buckeroo to establish records in bull dozing, calf riding and bronc riding. Already many of the top hands in the rodeo game are at Molalla practicing daily for the Buckeroo. Numbered among those are such rodeo stars as E. Pardee, Frank Van Meter, Len Perkins, Dee Hinton, Shaniko Red, Al Allen, Fay Olson, The Canada Kid and Clay Carr.

Six carloads of horses and steers are already on the grounds and among them the toughest backing horses ever seen in the Pacific Northwest. The Brahma steers used in the bull riding take great delight in trying to gore a rider after they have thrown him so the cowboys have to be on their mettle in this event or else take a chance on getting badly hurt. Monty Montana, Hollywood western picture star, and his troupe of trick and fancy riders and ropers will be at the Molalla Buckeroo again this year to thrill the crowds with their daring stunts on horse back while traveling at breakneck speed across the arena. Monty just recently completed two pictures in Hollywood and is making a special trip to appear at the Molalla Buckeroo.

Guy Ray, worlds champion clown and his trick mule will be at the Buckeroo this year to entertain the crowd with their funny antics and stunts.

Besides the big Buckeroo show every afternoon at 2 p.m. Molalla will also have to entertain her visitors a street parade daily at 11 a.m., a carnival company with many concession attractions, a big dance every night, featuring an all-girl band and on the night of July 4th a gigantic firework display.

Fruit Growers Should Apply Spray Now

Second Cover Spray On Apples And Pears Needs To Be Put On

Special Care Should Be Taken In Upper Portion Of Tree

(By W. F. Cyrus, Co. Agent)
Apple and pear growers in the Willamette Valley should apply the second cover spray now for the control of codling moth according to B. G. Thompson, Assistant Entomologist, Oregon Experiment Station. For the past few evenings there has been a considerable flight of codling moths and eggs have been deposited. Under ordinary Willamette Valley weather conditions, these eggs will hatch in six or seven days. The spray should be applied before these eggs hatch.

The recommended spray is powdered lead arsenate used at the rate of 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water. In orchards where codling moth is not a serious problem, two pounds of powdered lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water is sufficient to give control.

Calcium arsenate, used at the rate of 3 pounds powdered calcium arsenate to 100 gallons of water has been used successfully in the Willamette Valley for codling moth control. Tests carried on by the Entomology Department of the Oregon Experiment Station over a period of seven years indicate that under Willamette Valley conditions calcium arsenate is only slightly as effective as lead arsenate in codling moth control.

Thoroughness of application is essential in codling moth control. The foliage as well as the entire surface of every apple and pear should be thoroughly covered with the spray solution if worm injury is to be prevented. Special care should be taken in spraying the upper portion of the tree, as more than half of the codling moth eggs are laid in the upper third of the tree.

ROADS TO BE BUSY OVER WEEKEND

Next Sunday all America will take to the highways as the national holiday, lengthened this year because it falls on a weekend, is ushered in.

Last year five Oregonians lost their lives in highway accidents over the Fourth of July according to Secretary of State Earl Snell, who urges motorists and pedestrians alike to celebrate the Fourth with safety first.

"Nationally the Fourth of July accident death toll runs high into the hundreds every year and traffic accidents are responsible for a majority of the victims," Snell declared. "Oregon has made an outstanding safety record so far this year, and it would be fitting if this state would celebrate Independence Day by keeping its slate free from highway fatalities."

Snell particularly urged that motorists refrain from planning trips which cannot be made comfortably during the holiday period, and that they give their automobiles a thorough check-over before starting. He also advised motorists to drive at moderate speeds and to make a special effort to be courteous since traffic will be unusually heavy.

"Remember to drive slowly past resorts and other crowded spots, and to control your speed on unfamiliar stretches of road," Snell said. "We can prevent the usual number of fatalities if we will make a conscientious effort to give the other fellow every possible advantage."

pie and pear should be thoroughly covered with the spray solution if worm injury is to be prevented. Special care should be taken in spraying the upper portion of the tree, as more than half of the codling moth eggs are laid in the upper third of the tree.

BOWMAN FIGURES IN DAMAGE CLAIM

R. F. Bowman, who lives south of Aloha and who works for the rail way service had a rather peculiar experience the past week. He has been in the habit of having his car washed and polished at the Union Station garage and recently a colored man who had been calling for his car came and he, Bowman, turned the keys over to the man to have the car taken care of.

When the car came back he noticed a few slight marks on it but the garage man said that he had injured it while backing out of the garage. Bowman thought no more of it until a fellow turned up with a claim for damages done in a collision on Portland's east side. It seems that the garage had let the workman go but he wanted a joy ride had taken the occasion to get the car and appropriate it for his own use.

One of the peculiar things about the matter is that when Bowman went down to police headquarters to report an accident they told him that he could not make a report as he was not driving the car when it happened.

Estabrook, Portland warehousemen's union official, on bombing charges, and was discharged shortly before 11 a.m. Wednesday by Judge Frank R. Peters.
