CHOOSING THE NEW CAMERA

For sharp pictures of fast-moving vacation-time games, you'll need a camera with high shutter speeds. A fast lens is helpful, too, when light conditions are adverse.

ABOUT this time of year—and especially with vacations in the offing—many of us feel the need of a finer camera, with greater picture-taking ability.

A fine camera is about as easy to operate as any other, once you are familiar with it. But there is a difference in usefulness between the finer camera and the inexpensive model. Under adverse conditions, especially on dull days or with moving subjects, the inexpensive camera is handicapped. It may fail to get the very picture you want most. But under the same conditions, the fine camera performs capably—insuring good pictures within much wider limits.

In choosing your finer camera, consider these points carefully, so that you can select a model which exactly fits your picture-taking needs:

If you want to be able to take pictures outdoors under all daylight conditions, bright or dull, early morning or late afternoon, choose a camera with a fast lens—an f.8, f.4.5 or faster. For night snapshots by ordinary electric light, without "flood" lamps, get a camera with f2 lens. If "flood" lamps are used, a slower lens will do.

If you want to take pictures of moving subjects—or those likely to move—choose a camera which has a precision shutter with high speeds. A shutter speed of 1/400 or 1/500 second is needed for sports and fast action shots; 1/200 for moderate action; and 1/100 for snaps of slow action or subjects such as babies or pets which may move suddenly and unexpectedly.

Some camera shutters now have built-in self-timer devices, which enable you to appear in pictures taken by yourself. Naturally, the self-timer is an advantage in a vacation or family camera.

Now for picture size. If you expect to have your pictures finished as contact prints for album use, don't choose a camera that takes too small a picture. If, however, you plan to make enlargements, it's safe to pick a camera in the "miniature" group. And, if you want to take full-color transparency pictures, for large-size projection on a home screen, a miniature camera is just what you need.

It's wise to obtain your finer camera well in advance of your vacation, and practice using it. Since these fine cameras are precision instruments, see that yours receives proper care. If treated well, such a camera will give long and meritorious service—service that far outweighs its cost. Just ask the camera hobbyist who owns one!

Wheat Farmers Will Receive Notice Soon

Wheat farmers in Washington county who intend to cooperate under the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program will soon receive notice of their 1940 wheat allotments, reports John W. Kamma, chairman of the Washington County Agricultural Conservation association.

A total wheat acreage allotment of 13,164 acres has been designated for Washington county under the 1940 program of which three percent, or 395 acres, can be utilized for establishing wheat allotments on those farms where no wheat has been grown in 1937, 1938, or 1939, but will be grown in 1940.

Farmers may appeal to the County Committee for adjustment of allotments within fifteen days after notices of allotments have been mailed from the county office. The same fifteen day period exists and offers opportunity for farmers to request 1940 wheat allotments for "new" wheat farms—those which grew no wheat for harvest in 1937, 1938, or 1939. Requests for adjustment or establishment of 1940 wheat allotments must be made to the county committee in writing within the fifteen day period immediately following the mailing of these notices.

"Community committeemen will assist the county committee in establishing 1940 wheat allotments. This arrangement will present the opportunity for a more equitable distribution of the 1940 wheat allotment for Washington county," reported Kamma.

Barbara Cady, Bob Long and Ronald Webb attended the Washington county Christian Endeavor meeting at Nelscott Saturday and Sunday.
