Adequate Speed Laws Needed In Oregon

During a recent motor trip through the state of Washington and British Columbia, Dr. R. S. Welsh noted the contrast in the speed on the highways as compared to our own state. He stated the speed in Washington and British Columbia is limited to 50 miles per hour with a much slower speed in cities and intersections. The highways are adequately posted and patrolled by the white cars of the traffic division.

He stated he soon knew when he had entered Oregon on his return by the reckless manner in which motorists passed him. Oregon, with its no speed limit laws, invites the reckless driver to step on the gas with a disregard for the safety of others.

This is demonstrated here at home every day. Motorists speed to the very center of the town.

Every so often some state or city official bobs up with a "stop killing" campaign by education or merit awards. There's only one effective system of education for the speed demons, and that is an adequate speed law with patrol cars and traffic tickets.

"America"

Here are a few excerpts from a prose poem, written by Alfred Peterson, that should be enshrined in the heart of every man who loves his country.

"I Believe in America"

America, where a humble immigrant lad became the steelmaster.

America, where the blue-bloods and bootblacks, business executives, and bums, have the same privileges.

America, where a tall, homely lad became the leader of a Free People.

America, where fishpoles and golf clubs take the place of swords and guns.

America, where creative thinkers and earnest workers are building a brave, new world in which to live.

America, where man can worship the God of his fathers, or find God in his own way.

One-Syllable Things

The three greatest masterpieces in literature, it is said, are the Lord's Prayer, the Twenty-third Psalm, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Incidentally, recall their wording:

"Our Father which art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name."

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

"Fourscore and seven years ago."

Not a three-syllable word in them; hardly any two-syllable words. All the greatest things in human life are one-syllable things—love, joy, home, child, wife, trust, faith, God. All Great things are simple.

DAD AND THE SCHOOL MA'AM

Of course Dad looks to her to teach the kiddies all that is in the books. That is her job. But does Dad expect her to go on and train them in right living as well? Are these youngsters to be useful citizens in the years to come? Are they to know right from wrong? Are they to escape shipwreck in a day when 800,000 wives commit infanticide; when every fifth marriage ends in divorce; when out crime bill totals around forty-odd millions of dollars per day, as Hoover, head of crime investigations, puts it.

Can Young America escape wreckage in the face of all this? Will your youngsters have the inner strength to stand? Even if teachers did have the time to step in and train them in the right and wrong, would our children still be able to live up to it? A host of parents, all in all, have taken over the holy business of training up their children in the way they ought to go. These grown-ups have said "YES" to the following and have made good.

QUESTIONS. I.—Do you solemnly promise, if God shall spare your life and that of your children, to train them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. II.—To lead them to the Saviour. III.—To pray with them and for them. IV.—To worship God regularly in your family. V.—To set before them an example of piety.

The Apostle Paul wrote to his young friend Timothy: "From a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." By that salvation, Timothy's death sentence was put over into Christ, and Timothy's life-page washed clean in God's sight. Yes, "Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin." And more yet, Christ's eternal righteousness was written over onto Timothy's page and the Spirit of God put into his heart to strengthen him against the hog-wallow of sin.

"My little children, I travail in prayer for you till Christ be formed within you." This tells further what must be to reach the full stature of Christ. Yes, The day-school teacher will give them what is in the books but who will give them what is in the BOOK OF BOOKS, THE BIBLE?

What Is Character?

In the home, it is kindness. In business, it is courtesy. In work, it is thoroughness. In play, it is fairness. Toward the fortunate, it is congratulation. Toward the unfortunate, it is sympathy. Toward the weak, it is help. Toward the wicked, it is resistance. Toward the strong, it is trust. Toward the penitent, it is forgiveness. And toward God, it is reverence and love.

—North Dakota Parent-Teacher.

HUMAN NATURE

Smith—"I could solve the unemployment problem by putting all the men on one continent and all the women on another."

Jones (sarcastically) — "And what would everybody be so busy doing?"

Smith—"Why boatbuilding, of course."

A Difference of Viewpoint

An ardent angler had a four-hour tussle with a huge salmon before he was able to land it. He took it home in ecstasy and related his struggles to his wife, who couldn't see anything in fishing.

She listened in bored silence, and then remarked, "But, my dear Arthur, why didn't you cut the string and get rid of the brute if he was so troublesome?"
