AMERICANISM
 "Americanism is unflinching love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideas; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Costly Delusion

According to a Department of Commerce estimate, the private power utilities of the nation will install 2,000,000 additional kilowatts of generating capacity this year, at a cost of $600,000,000. The estimate is based in reports received from the industry itself, and is some $150,000,000 more than was spent last year.

When one industry spends better than a half billion dollars for plant expansion in a single year, it's news. But such news is even more important when it relates to an industry that has had to face everything the politicians could think of to discourage it, ranging from the indefensible "death sentence" law against the holding companies, to unnecessary, tax-subsidized, tax-free federal electric plants which compete on an unfair basis with the private companies. One result of the political drive to socialize this $12,000,000,000 industry has been to intimidate and discourage new capital—this effectively preventing the expenditure of immense sums that would create new employment, new opportunities, and new taxable wealth.

Normally, say responsible utility experts, the industry would now be spending well in excess of $1,000,000,000 a year on plant expansion and betterment. Any unprejudiced economist will tell you that the utilities would now be one of the greatest contributors to the economic well-being of this county—if they were given a fair break.

So it's good news that the industry will spend $600,000,000 for expansion this year—but one can't help but think how much better the news would be if a minority group of politicians hadn't decided that baiting the utilities was a good way to delude the people into electing them to public office.

Florence Ione Robinson

Florence Ione Robinson was born August 25, 1885, on her parents' homestead near Progress, Oregon.

Her education was acquired in the public schools of the vicinity. She remained at home taking care of her parents in their old age and resided on the old homestead until 1936. She then resided at the home of Mrs. Ed Albin of Scholls until she was called to her final rest on the 11th of April at the age of 54 years, 7 months, 17 days.

She is survived by her niece,

Ora Sylvester of Beaverton, her nephew, Harry Robinson of Tigard. Also six grand nieces and nephews, and one great grand niece Lorraine Stark of Tigard.

The W. E. Pegg Funeral home is in charge of the burial.

Electron of officers will be a feature of the evening.

Gracie Allen
 She's Running for President

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Gracie Allen, announcing her candidacy for President on the "Surprise Party" ticket pledges herself to make no Fireside chats between April 15 and October 15, any year. "Washington is so hot in the summer," Gracie says. "It seems a crime to expect the president to stay at the fireside after April or May. I will talk enough between October and April so that people will know as much about their government as I do." Asked if she thought she'd get along with the U. S. Senate, Gracie says "Well, I've always admired his brother, Mack Sennett, so I don't know why we should have any trouble."

Twelve Hollywood tourists will be drafted from Los Angeles hotels each week to serve as jurors on the Rudy Vallee program. Object is to give audience reaction to Rudy's new show, which stars him each Thursday night as dramatic comedian. Just like a real life jury, the Vallee Radio Jury will be given supper (and breakfast if necessary) to assist them in their deliberations.

Not long ago Lanny Ross, for ten years the number one tenor of the airlines, started his public by deserting nighttime radio for daytime broadcasting. He wanted daytime audiences to have something new in the way of program fare. Now comes word that his sponsor is so pleased with Lanny's job that he will be transferred to a p. m. spot on the Columbia Broadcasting System, probably following Amos 'n' Andy.

Sponsor for Arnold Grimm's Daughter, Joan Blaine and Hymns of All Churches, is making a revolutionary radio move. It's the introduction of "Light of the World," a new program which translates the Bible into modern prose, to be heard daily Mondays through Fridays at 2:00 p. m. EST over NBC. Dr. James H. Moffatt, one of the leading Biblical authorities of the world, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, is being retained as program consultant.

NOTES OF A NEWSMAN:

Grand Ole Opry is being made into a movie and the entire cast will probably broadcast from Hollywood during filming of the picture. Bob Crosby finally gave that Bobcat away. NBC orchestra leader presented the live animal to two kids from Ohio State University to be used as mascot for their football team. Penny Singleton, star of the CBS Blondie series, is a journalist in her spare time. She writes a column in the San Fernando Valley Post. Ilka Chase, femmee of Luncheon at the Waldorf, has gained five pounds during her new program's three weeks on the air. Reason: she eats a big luncheon each Saturday at the broadcast.

Life of Mary Sothern, one of the oldest and most popular script serials on the air, is celebrating its fifth anniversary this month. Betty Caine and Jay Costyn co-star.

COLORS MAKE ROOMS GAY RESTFUL OR FORMAL

Want to make a room exciting? Paint two walls red. If you want to warm up a cold room, put pure red on trim areas or furniture, or a faded down red on the walls. Want to cool down a small, bright room, lighten up a dark room or make a room more formal? Try white.

For years scientists have been gathering such data on the emotional effects of colors in room decoration but not until lately has this data been put to work. This spring you can get a thorough course in paint color use.

RED—is the first color choice of women. It is a stimulating color—an ALL-AMERICAN color. No other color can compare with red when you want attention-value or to add a striking accent note. A red chair or a table in Chinese red, or for interior of a china closet—these are accents that are sure to help in many decorative schemes otherwise lacking in life and vitality.

Red has become an important trim color—an accent in white kitchens that is bright, vivid, and stimulating. In bath rooms, red is an "at home" color universally liked. In play rooms red is usually used to add gaiety to the setting and most any housewife will choose red as her first color for painting odds-and-ends.

Red has range. In its lighter shade pinks and aid rose, it is a beautiful bed room color; in its deeper tones it is gaining favor for living and dining room decoration.

For exteriors, red is an equally important color. It is a natural color-contrast to the green foliage that surrounds a house. A white or cream-gray house with red shutters may be seen in all parts of the country. And always seen to advantage. And the porch of this house, or any house in any color combination, porch furniture painted red is rightly and beautifully part of the house, yard or lawn.

THE FOREST PRIME EVIL

In a Pennsylvania forest there is a fire prevention sign which consists of a huge reproduction of a match, with the following words: "This is the forest prime evil."

That terse slogan speaks volumes. For destruction to our priceless forests is one of the most tragic phases of the fire problem. Anyone who has traveled in timber country has seen the wastelands, covered with black stumps, which fire leaves behind—the ruin where once were stately trees, busy communities of wild life, and beautiful recreation areas.

It will not be long now until the dangerous forest season is upon us. Good weather brings mounting hazards. Trees and underbrush dry to the point where they are virtually explosive. One touch of flame may be sufficient to cause a holocaust. And death and disaster follow.

The primary causes of forest fires are well known. Inexperienced and careless campers are the worst offenders. Every man and woman who goes vacationing in the woods should keep this everlastingly in mind: Never leave a camp fire while a single spark remains alive. Douse it thoroughly with water or smother it with dirt.

Motorists are also responsible for ruinous forest fires. A cigarette butt cast from a fleeting car may supply the tiny flame that will spread until it has devastated thousands of acres of splendid woodland. Most of the states have laws designed to prevent this, but policemen and fire warden can't be everywhere at once to see that the law is enforced. The public must cooperate.

Let's all work to save our forests this year. It takes centuries to replace great trees—and only seconds to destroy them. Don't forget that.

It to see in the classified columns of the Review for results.

S. F. Fair Goes Streamline

Pretty Jeanne Bon of San Francisco (above) was first beauty to try out for the title of "Miss Streamline," Golden Gate International Exposition pre-opening publicity theme girl. Candidates from all sections of California are being tested daily in the Exposition's search for a representative 1940 beauty. "Miss Streamline" will also be featured in Treasure Island's opening-day production, "Days of '40," May 25.

Boy Scouts Selling Skillorama Tickets

When your door bell rings and a Boy Scout from your neighborhood house offers to sell you some tickets to the Skillorama to be held in the Portland civic auditorium April 26 and 27 it will not be long until you really will be glad you purchased them.

Such is the decaration of Field Executive Lloyd Lillie, general manager of the two-day pageant. The Skillorama is for everybody—young and old—and the general public especially is urged to attend. Tickets are exceptionally reasonably priced for holders will get more than their money's worth in entertainment and thrills.

A stage show of seven vaudeville acts, and a display of 101 booths showing scouting at its best and all under the sponsorship of Portland Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, have been arranged to please and entertain parents, friends and neighbors.

Rehearsals have been going on for several weeks under expert eyes and the big affair which is held every two years promises to attract a record attendance.

So remember, when you purchase tickets to the Skillorama which will be held next week in the Rose City, you not only are going to be afforded much pleasure but the cause is a worthy undertaking and will help Boy Scout troops in your district.
