AMERICANISM
"Americanism is unflinching love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

THE WAY OF LIFE

Sound co-operation is good business; and it is also the way of life.

The agricultural marketing cooperatives have demonstrated it. From the purely commercial point of view they have been outstandingly successful in expanding markets, stabilizing prices, improving production methods and acting as the farmers' agent in his dealings with middlemen and distributors.

On top of that, they have tended to bring producers closer together. In this way they have been a progressive social influence. They have encouraged work, educational activities for farm women and for farm youth. They are well grouped organizations, exerting an influence over almost every phase of agricultural life.

MANY FARMERS FILE PLAN SHEETS

Noticeable increase in participation in the 1940 AAA farm program is indicated by the sign-up just completed through Oregon counties, according to the state agricultural conservation office in Corvallis.

N. C. Donaldson, state executive, said that 35,800 farmers signed "farm plan sheets" to show how they had adapted their program of this year's farming operations. These farmers operate 47,400 tracts of land. This compares with 41,000 tracts in the program last year.

Announcement was also made that national, state and county wheat allotments for 1940 will be given out this month.

Farmers in each county will be in charge of determining individual allotments.

GARDEN CLUB HAS NEW PROJECT

Thursday, May 9, the Beaverton Garden Club enjoyed the privilege of meeting at the home of their president, Mrs. R. G. Denney. Even the weatherman contributed a typical Oregon summer day to add to the interest. There are now 35 authorized members of the club with a Children's Garden club project as a goal.

During the business meeting committees for the coming year were appointed and plans for the Flower show on June 1, were outlined.

Mrs. Dorothy Semour of Forest Grove gave a very interesting talk on peony culture.

Mrs. Nelson Walker and Mrs. John Dobbins presided at the refreshment table and a tour of the garden ended a very pleasant afternoon.

America's Wonder Spots

By RICHARD S. BOND

You travelers who this year are seeking wonders at home will find them in abundance. Follow this series and map your tour to cover as many "Wonder Spots" as possible. Your vacation never will be forgotten.

Be sure to see the snowy Egrets of Jungle Gardens, Avery Island, Louisiana. One hundred and thirty thousand of these gorgeous birds may be viewed from April to July — leaving their young each morning to feed in distant streams, and returning in a billowy white cloud at night to where they are nesting in bamboo "apartment houses" or some water growing tree.

These famous gardens are filled with wonders from the four corners of the earth. Flowers of all kinds abound; bamboo that grows eighteen inches in a day; papyrus from the Nile; the Sacred Wasil orange tree and tunnels of wisteria vines. The gardens cover 300 acres — every inch a delight. But upon many, the snowy Egrets make the most lasting impression.

There is an interesting story behind the fact that 150,000 Egrets now display themselves to a touring public in one little bird city. Less than fifty years ago the Egret was almost extinct. Craving for plumage for milady's hat was the cause.

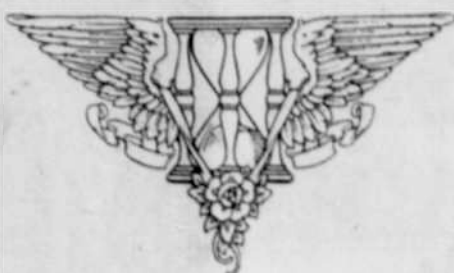

This fact worried Edward Avery McIlhenny, the owner of Jungle Gardens. Then he heard of the Rajah of Juraspore — who, for the gratification of a favorite concubine, had built a vast bamboo aviary for birds of brilliant plumage from all parts of the world. When the Rajah died and the aviary fell apart, the birds stayed.

It might happen in America! Eight young of the few remaining snowy Egrets were captured in the jungle swamps. They were caged. That fall they were given their liberty. In November they migrated but the following spring, six returned to set up housekeeping. That fall, thirteen sturdy Egrets migrated. Next fall there were more. Today there are one hundred and thirty thousand.

It has been necessary to erect "apartment houses" built of bamboo for this increasing throng, for every nesting space has long since been exhausted. Protected by law, these snowy Egrets are bringing thousands of tourists to Avery Island each year. It is impossible to give a complete story of such a "Wonder Spot" in a brief article like this — but a card addressed to E. A. McIlhenny, Avery Island, Louisiana will bring a booklet to those interested.

PAST MASTER PRESENTS CORSAGE

Beaverton Grange met last Saturday with a good attendance.

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. B. K. Denney was celebrated during luncheon hour.

Tables were beautiful in spring colors and a May Day idea was carried out with dolls and centerpieces.

During lecture hour in the afternoon a program was dedicated to Mothers. A roll call on "Mother's Favorite Remedy" was responded to by all members and Mrs. B. K. Denney read a paper on the life and work of Florence Nightengale.

At the conclusion of Mother's Day program, in which members took part, Master Bernice Dobbins was presented with a corsage in honor of Motherhood.

Presentation was made by our Past Master Elsie Christenson. Flowers were passed around to all by the attendants.

Next meeting will be Saturday June 8, at 10:00.
