Betty Barclay's Food Facts

No. 4 Milk

Milk is recognized as the most nearly complete and broadly nutritious of all foods. So rich is it in the nutritive values which supply the daily needs of the body that physicians and recognized nutritionists consider milk the basic food of a well constructed diet.

For example, milk furnishes a type of protein of high biological value. It is abundant in carbohydrate and fat. It is one of the best sources of two most important mineral elements, calcium and phosphorus, needed for growth and maintenance of bones and teeth. It is one of the best sources of vitamins A and G (known as B₂), which are so vital to growth and good nutrition. It is also a good source of vitamin B₁.

Authorities unite in recommending for normal children about a quart of milk each day. For adults they advise a pint a day.

We think of milk as a liquid food. But it is really a solid food because when acted upon by the gastric juice of the stomach it forms rather large curds which are sometimes quite difficult to digest. There are a number of ways to obtain the food values of milk yet have softer, more readily digestible curds in the stomach — such as the use of condensed milk, homogenized milk, and boiled milk.

One of the oldest and best-accomplished methods is through the addition of rennet, which is nature's own way of forming soft milk curds. Fortunately this is also one of the easiest because rennet powder and rennet tablets are available almost everywhere — and are very inexpensive. By using them you can make milk into delicious rennet-custard desserts which tempt both children and adults to take more milk.

Apricot Presto Rennet-Custard
1/2 pound dried apricots
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1 pint milk (not canned or soft-curd)
1 package chocolate rennet powder
1/2 pint whipping cream
1/2 pound sweet wafers, crushed

Wash apricots well and soak overnight in cold water. Simmer in same water until soft, remove from fire, and put through puree sieve. Stir in sugar and cool. Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM, (120° F.) not hot, remove at once from stove. Stir rennet powder into milk briskly until dissolved — not over one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into sherbet glasses, filling to about 3/4 inch from top. Do not move until firm — about 19 minutes. Chill in ice box. When ready to serve add cream or water to apricot puree, if necessary, until it will spread easily. Spread lightly over tops of rennet-custards to a depth of 1/4 to 1/2 inch. Whip cream until stiff and heap lightly over puree, covering surface. Sprinkle with a generous amount of sweet wafer crumbs. Chill until ready to serve. Yield: 6 to 8 desserts.
