Many Grasses survive on Plo's
Vernonia. A test plot of pasture grasses put in on the G. C. Kirkbride farm, about eight years ago, shows a good survival of several of the grasses says George A. Nelson county agent, who arranged a tour of inspection to several of these early plantings. Chewings fescue and tall fescue are still doing well, especially the chewing fescue, which shows considerable spread. Other grasses and legumes maintaining themselves included Reed canary grass, orchard grass, meadow fxtail, English ryegrass, tall meadow oatgrass, and subterranean clover.

TAX REDUCTION BELIEVED POSSIBLE

Mayor W. E. McCloskey, following the August report on city finances to the council Monday night, expressed the probability that the city of Beaverton will be able to trim at least 15 mills from its property tax levy for the coming year. This year's levy was 18.8 mills, which was a reduction in turn from the 21.7 millage of last year.

The forecast was made before the annual budget committee meeting, slated for Monday, September 23. Public hearing on the 1941 budget has been tentatively for Friday, October 25.

Rapid whittling of the bonded indebtedness and unusually good collection of current and delinquent taxes made the levy slash possible, McCloskey pointed out. He stated that the indebtedness which was $101,500 at the start of 1938 has been sliced down to a net debt of about $69,000.

Tax collections were 88 per cent of the current levy as of the first of September, and for the past six years only 8.2 per cent are delinquent. This figure in recent years has been as high as 25 per cent.

This year's levy was calculated to raise $998,374. Assessed valuation of Beaverton at present is $532,168.70.
