AMERICANISM

"Americanism is unflinching love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Merry Christmas

The World pauses in its work—the craftsman leaves his bench—the scholar his books—desks are deserted—shops close—it is Christmas. Soft candle-light becomes the beacon that guides us toward an indefinable feeling we call, "The Christmas Spirit"—the Spirit that brings kin closer to kin and makes all men brothers.

In the lingering light we lean back and think of those who have so generously shared with us their fellowship.

We are grateful for faith and loyalty and understanding. And so, as this Christmas Day approaches, our thoughts go forth to all our friends and neighbors, winged with some sincere wishes that the coming year will yield unto them, with generous portions, wisdom for their work, friends for their firesides, health and happiness and prosperity.

LEAKY ROOF

The Grand Old Capitol of the United States has been temporarily out of commission, because the roof leaks. Consequently the Senate has gone back to the old Supreme Court room which was the Senate Chamber in the early days of the Republic. It was not a "Democracy" then.

The House of Representatives has so many members there is no place for them to meet in the Capitol building so they moved into their House Office Building and hold sessions in a large Caucus room.

These moves have had no effect on the work of Congress as the lawmakers aren't very busy these days. It seems to be their ambition to stay in session on account of fears that "the President needs watching."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD TAKING FLASH PICTURES

With flash, shots such as this are quick and sure—and your subjects don't have to pose in bright light.

ANN turned up with a camera problem the other night. She had been trying to take some snapshots of the pup—a lively little rascal—and he wouldn't stay put. In fact, the warmth from the photo lamps made him even more skittish than usual, and by the time she was ready to shoot, he was usually out of sight.

"All right," I told her, "we'll fix him. We'll use a flash bulb, and get him down on film before he even knows it." So, we arranged things, and in about three minutes she had just the picture she wanted.

Maybe you've taken flash shots—maybe not. If not, winter is a good time to get acquainted with this type of picture-taking, and you'll find it mighty useful. For most indoor shots, I use the regular flash bulbs; but for some shots, flash is much better.

It's simple to use, too, even if you don't have a flash synchronizer. Just put your camera on a tripod or table edge, and set the shutter for "time." Insert the flash bulb in a house lamp fitted with the regular cardboard reflector you use for snapshots at night—but be sure the switch is off at the moment. Now open the camera shutter—snap on the switch to flash the bulb—and close the shutter. That's all, and you have your picture.

Moreover, you can use any film you prefer—the quick flash is bright enough for box camera exposures with daytime film, when the bulb is seven feet from the subject. And if you use high speed film, the bulb can be seventeen feet back.

With a flash synchronizer, flash bulbs are even more useful. You can even use them in the daytime, to brighten up the nearby details in a shady scene. And you don't have to put the camera on a tripod—you can hold it in your hand, and take snapshot exposures. Some of the most attractive daytime shots you see in the magazines are made with the aid of synchronized flash, and it's a real help.

I didn't have a synchronizer for a long time, because they used to be high-priced—but I bought one last year as soon as the inexpensive models began to come out. Now Ann wants one too; she knows a good camera accessory when she sees one. And maybe there's a good hint for your own camera kit. I'd certainly hate to part with my synchronizer—it has already paid for itself in first-rate pictures.

COUNTY GROWS ALBA VETCH SEED

Washington county farmers have seeded approximately 600 acres of alba vetch for 1941 harvest according to county agent

Wm. F. Cyrus. All the seed for this acreage was grown in Washington county. In addition to this local seedling, 188 pounds of Washington county produced alba vetch seed was supplied Linn county growers. Alba vetch is the new white-flowered strain of common vetch.

Approximately 3000 acres of Willamette vetch has been seeded in this county reports Cyrus for the 1941 harvest. Willamette is the special strain developed some few years ago because of

We Call It Romance

IT'S JUST a can of soup. But during a long lifetime, the man who made it found some way to advertise it. At first, just a sign over his little soup kitchen, a few newspaper ads, a few billboards. But as the advertising grew, so did the business.

Now the business employs thousands of workers, helps to support tens of thousands of retail clerks and transportation men, and gives the housewife a better, cheaper soup than she could prepare at home.

Back of every heavily advertised article is a romantic story of this kind—the kind of romance that built America.

Unto Us A Son Is Born

When the fulness of time had come, the angel Gabriel was sent from heaven to a city in Galilee named Nazareth, to the Virgin Mary who was of the house and lineage of David.

Gabriel tells Mary that she has found favor with God and that she is to become a mother. To her will be born the long awaited Messiah-EMANUEL, or GOD WITH US being another of His names. He was to have no human father. How could this be, asks Mary? How could a child be brought to its birth without man to be its father? Gabriel gives answer:—"The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee; therefore the holy thing that shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God." From His mother, He was to take a human body and human nature. By that He would be one with the sons of men; bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh; and yet without sin. God being His father, He would be God and man in one person; as human as you or I and yet Very God of Very God.

We see Him strip off His eternal glory and step down to tent with us.—"Foxes have dens and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath where to lay His head." He became the Friend of the Friendless. We talk of His smiles and His tears; His raising the dead and preaching glad tidings to the poor. At the end we see Him bow His holy head under the curse of our sins. He was crucified, dead and buried. Up from the grave He arose and ascended into heaven from whence He is to come the Second Time when He is to stay wars and banish whatever maketh a lie in Him shall all the nations put their trust.

World Peace In Sight

Gas and dynamite are out of hand. Tanks and planes have no human master. Only the Son of God can banish these. His First Coming nineteen centuries ago, was to die for our sins and make peace between God and sinful man. His Second Coming will be to set up peace between the nations.—"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." His wrath at our sins or His peace in our heart? Which?
