AMERICANISM

"Americanism is unflinching love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

PLAY WRITING FOR RADIO SLATED

Four-H club members throughout the state have again been invited to participate in the 7th annual radio play-writing contest sponsored jointly by the state station, KOAC, and the club department of the OSC extension service. Oregon has been one of the leading states in radio play-writing, says H. C. Seymour state club leader.

A manual containing the rules and suggestions for the contest, and a copy of the winning play last year have been prepared for free distribution by James H. Morris, member of the KOAC staff, in charge of this activity.

John Watkins of Washington county won first place in last year's competition with a play called "A Lesson in Applied Veterinary," which dramatized the experiences of a club boy whose calf became seriously ill.

The contest is in three divisions again, including the statewide and county contests, and the special traipse safety state contest in which Earl Snell, the Secretary of State, offers a summer school scholarship for the best 4-H club radio play dealing with traffic safety.

CERAMICS

Words cannot always tell
The thing we mean to say,
Speech is the crucible
That holds the untempered clay.

We mould the lovely shapes
That compass our desire,
Trusting no curve escapes
The final test of fire.

Beautiful is the bowl
If its design has caught
The intricate, the whole
Irradiance of thought.

FOR OUR COUNTRY

If we would help our country,
Each one will stand in line
With qualities of honesty,
And purpose, clear, defined.

At each decide before he acts,
If each or person a deal,
Or person a deal,
Large.

His own, his brothers' need,
Thus bringing in the glorious
day

As told in olden time,
Of peace on earth, good will to
men

God's reign of love divine.
—William Edward Johnson

JUST SO!

The shepherd's daughter was getting married to a city fellow, wishing to make the Father look smart at the ceremony, she got him to agree to wear a hat. The shepherd went into a store.

Clerk: "What size, please?"
Shepherd: "I don't know"
Clerk: "Well, try a six and a half first."

Shepherd: "Six and a half be-hanged, I wear a 16 collar and I know my head is bigger than
my neck."

—Montreal Star

A Verse For Today.

Behold, God will not cast away
a perfect man, neither will He
help the evil doers—

THE QUESTION

Lawyer—"Do you think your writing will live on after you?"

Editor—"That isn't what worries me. What I want to know is whether my writing will keep me living on before I go."

BRIEF

Florist: "Would you care to say it with flowers sir? Perhaps a dozen roses?"

Highlander (in love): "Aye,
mon, but I'm a man of few words
—two will do!"

Not His Statement

Teacher: "How do you know that the world is round, Willie?
Can you prove it?"

Willie: "I don't have to prove it, I never said it was."

Always do right. This will gratify some people and astonish
the rest.— Mark Twain

It is better to think a good thought about a bad man, than an evil thought about a good man.

SEED POTATO GROWERS LISTED

The list of Oregon growers of certified seed potatoes in 1941 has just been compiled and is being sent, for to all those who request it, says E. R. Jackman, Farm Crops Specialist at Oregon State College.

About 3,900 acres, the most ever entered for certification, were inspected, in spite of the increased fees for the work. Of the total area, 2,654 acres passed the field inspection for certified seed.

Netted Gems led with 834 acres, the largest acreage being in Klamath county, white rose followed with 655 acres, the bulk of which were in Multnomah county. Burbanks followed with 476 acres, and miscellaneous varieties contributed the remaining 89. The leading counties in acreage were Multnomah, Klamath, Lake, Clackmas, and Deschutes.

Model Boy Gets Jolt

Late that Sunday afternoon over at the local Y of the little Indiana city two High school fellows were debating the basket ball program. As one turned away, the visitor handed his pal a newspaper clipping that carried a Gospel strip with "Paid Adv." at the bottom.

"Huh! Do they let you run the sort of thing in the papers?" There was contempt in his voice.

The visitor confessed to it and in a moment learned what had offended the chap. The copy charged us all with being sinners in God's sight. A few questions brought out the boy's good opinion of himself. He was the model young man it seemed. His friends and the High school all sang praises into his willing ears. By his effort the young people had bought a lot and set up a basket ball court to keep the young chaps off the streets. He knew for sure that his good works had made him solid with God his Maker. All was well with his soul for time and eternity.

First, the visitor showed him out of the Bible that in God's eyes all are sinners and lost, with Christ dying for such as would be saved. He used— "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him—Christ—the iniquities of us all." — BIBLE. Then was pressed home—"What will you do with Jesus Christ?" There in the quiet of the late Sunday with the shadows of evening pressing in, this son of one of their first families asked an occasional question. Repeatedly, from this point and from that, the visitor worked into the heart of the Gospel ending always with—"What will you do with Jesus Christ?" There must have been half an hour of this and finally after a long pause came—"I'll take Him!" And would he then and there tell God? He would. First a word, then a pause. Again a word and another long moment. It was a manly prayer from the heart and as he finished, the thing happened. He grabbed the stranger's hand and shook it with—"This is the greatest day in my life!" His face and voice told it. It was a moment of moments. The Holy Spirit had spoken—"The Spirit beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." —BIBLE. After that a heart to visit for the petted son had become a sinner and out of that a child of the Most High God. —The Sunday School World
