This Month's STAR RECIPE

By BETTY BARCLAY

They tell us that bread is the staff of life. All right! This month we'll hoist our prize flag on the staff and give you orange bread as the winning recipe. If you would like to present your guests with bread that is different; that goes like wild-fire; and that deluges you with "won't you give me the recipe?", serve the following:

Orange Bread
(Makes 1 loaf)

- 1 yeast cake
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - Let stand a few minutes. Add:
 - 1 cup orange juice, heated to lukewarm
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
 - 1 cups flour
- Beat well. Let rise until double. In bowl. On board put:
- 1/2 cup flour
- Mix and this in with:
- 1/2 cup finely cut candied orange peel
- Shape into a loaf. Let rise until light. Bake in a moderate oven 35° F. = 30 to 40 minutes.

Two B's Salad

- 3 cups diced cooked potatoes
 - 4 tbsps. chopped dill pickles
 - 1 cup diced celery
 - 1 tbsp. diced celery
 - 1 tbsp. grated onion
 - 1 1/2 teasp. salt
 - 1/2 cup chopped cooked beets.
 - 1/2 teasp. pepper
 - 2 tbsps. vinegar
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 - 1/2 cup sliced Brazil nuts
- Combine the potatoes, pickles, celery and onion. Add salt, pepper and vinegar to the mayonnaise. Add to the potato mixture and chill. Just before serving, add the sliced nuts and the shop-ped beets. Makes 6 servings.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
MAKING PICTURES BETTER

Enlarging helps any picture—especially if you find the real picture first. Above, the final enlargement. At right, the part of the original that was used. The original has about 500 percent too much building—and the figure is "lost."

IT'S wonderful what a bit of trimming will do for the average picture—and it's especially worthwhile if you're planning to have an enlargement made. For the past few evenings, we have been going through our summer shots, studying the prints and trimming those that include too much—and we're getting a lot of pleasant surprises.
 For example, here's a landscape shot that looks just so-so. Too much blank sky—no clouds that day. So, we try covering up part of the sky, and mask out a telephone pole at the left that doesn't "belong." It now becomes a very pleasant scene—worth at least a 5 x 7 enlargement. As a guide for enlarging, we mark the print, and then trim away the parts we don't want.
 Then here's a shot of Jack climbing into his canoe. Good action—but the camera was too far away, and tilted a bit to one side. So, we mark off just the part we want, and the action that takes in only about half of the original picture.

This trimming idea works for everybody's pictures—yours as well as ours. Pick the part you want—throw away the rest—and you have a better, more interesting picture. A good system is to cut out two L-shaped pieces of cardboard, turn them end to end, and use them as a movable "mask" over the print. By adjusting the cardboards, you can really find the "heart" of the picture.
 Then, having found the real pictures, you can proceed to make enlargements, or have them made—thus bringing out the detail and quality that comes with large size. And, chances are, you'll find you're getting more pleasure from your photographs.
