STORM TOOK DECK LOADS

Lakme and Washalore Lose Lumber--Reached Frisco Sunday

The Nann Smith reached San Francisco Sunday morning with the Lakme in tow, the latter boat having been reported in distress last week. It is reported that the Lakme lost her deck load at sea and was in much distress before she accepted the line from the Nann Smith.

The Washalore is also reported as having lost her deckload of lumber in the storm last week off the southern coast of Oregon. Just how heavy the loss was has not been reported.

Mail Delayed

A slide on the Sugar Loaf mountain Wednesday night so delayed the incoming mail that none was received at this city until Friday morning's boat. These delays in the mail will no doubt come quite frequently during the present winter or until all the loose dirt on the grades has slid down. However, even with the two or three delays of the present winter we are getting better service than was the case last winter when the entire mail for this county and for Curry was coming over the Middle Fork road. We are getting better service this winter than the bay is getting over the Coos Bay wagon road. It was reported here last week that they were without eastern mail four days last week.—Coquille Sentinel.

New Mill for Coquille

Coquille is going to have a new mill according to reports in the Herald and Sentinel. That's good, we are glad to see our sister city forging to the front.

The current issue of the Sentinel is also advocating a good live commercial club. It seems as if Coquille's commercial club has the same fate as all others; it has its ups and downs. Just now we are glad to say that Bandon's commercial club seems to be very much alive, and it is a mighty good thing for the town.

However, Coquille business men do not seem to be entirely asleep, as they seem to be landing new industries occasionally, and that is what makes a town.

RAILROAD TALK FOR OREGON

Looks Like Both Harriman and Hill Will Build to Coos Bay

Considerable speculation has been aroused in Oregon regarding the meaning of the transaction reported from Portland whereby the Hill interests have disposed of the right of way they have secured through the Malheur canyon in eastern Oregon to the Harriman interests. This is the gateway through which Hill was expected to enter with an east and west line across the state terminating at Coos Bay and with connections in Idaho. It is not believed that the Empire builder would abandon the greatest and best empire he has yet discovered to his keenest rival, without some very great consideration and it is just now a matter of surmise what that consideration might have been. It is recognized that such a line would be of immense value to the Harriman crowd, but with their tactics of repression it is believed that they will take their own time in building.

At about the same time this deal was announced the Oregonian published a story to the effect that both the Hill and Harriman lines were to enter the Coos Bay country over a single line of track, coming in by way of Siuslaw. It is said that Hill has been backing the Lane County Asset Company which has completed a survey from Eugene to the Siuslaw and that the S. P. has a force of engineers at work along the same route. The authorization of construction work has not yet been made by the Hill board of directors, but is expected soon. The return of President Stevens from Chicago may bring announcement of the work. The Oregonian article says in part:

With so much activity on the part of railroad officials having Coos Bay as their objective point the construction of a road into that territory is no longer a remote idea. The theory, so often advanced in the past, that as soon as one of the two rival concerns obtains an entrance the other, too, will be found on the ground, seems likely to be vindicated.

But two separate lines will not be built into Coos Bay at the outset. One set of rails will suffice for the two roads.

Coos Bay will find itself possessed of all the advantages of two railroads with none of the inconveniences of two separate systems of tracks.

With $200,000,000 of new foreign capital at his command, James J. Hill will be in a position financially to carry on a railroad development which is believed will include plans more far reaching in character than heretofore undertaken by the builder of empires.

Advices from apparently reliable sources indicate that the next territory to be exploited is Southern Oregon and the entire state of California.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.

DREDGE OREGON HERE IN SPRING

Big Suction Dredge Will Be Put to Work in Coquille River Soon

C. R. Moore, secretary of the Bandon Commercial Club received a letter from headquarters stating that the Dredge Oregon will be brought around to the Coquille river in the spring to do the government work outlined to be done by the $56,000 appropriation. The letter stated that the dipper dredges and snag boats are merely for the purpose of cleaning out the snags and doing such work as the Oregon could not do.

Junior Engineer Leefe and Donald Charleston were over from Coos Bay yesterday looking into the situation as to where the dirt from the Oregon could be lodged in certain locations. The fact that the Oregon is coming to this river will be good news to those who are interested in the development of this harbor.

Open Jewel Mine

We are glad to note that the Big Jewel placer mine on Sixes river is to be reopened. The company spent over $30,000 on a ditch and flumes to bring on water from an inadequate supply, and then had but one third the necessary pressure to handle a 50 foot bank of gravel. They now propose, we understand, to put on centrifugal pumps, and if they equip them with ample size and power there is no reason, except management, why the mine should not pay a handsome profit, for the bar is very rich. There are in that vicinity about a thousand acres of rich bars besides the river channel, that would have been worked years ago if they had been ten thousand miles away. There is no better field in Oregon for competent men, with ample capital, than to open these mines, as they can be and ought to be opened. Charles Fitzhugh who knows this mine and is a competent engineer, is now in charge of the Big Jewel, and he will succeed if his pumps are powerful enough to supply the necessary water and pressure. We hope these two essential points will not be overlooked, and would like to go up and see the first clean up when they get going.—Port Orford Tribune.

Educational Club

The regular meeting of the Bandon Educational Club will be held in the High School auditorium on Friday evening, Jan. 27th. The topic for discussion will be:

"The training for citizenship in the home and in the school."

1. What constitutes a good citizen? C. R. Wade.
2. Some things the home can do for better citizenship. C. B. Zeek.
3. Some things the school can do for better citizenship. Dorothy Gibson.
4. Do the home and the school fail in establishing effective civic ideals in our children? If so, why? Rev. Hartranft.

Miss McNair, Miss Marsh, Mrs. Garfield and J. W. Roberts will sing.

These meetings are for the public and all interested are invited to attend.
