Constipation is the cause of many ailments and disorders that make life miserable. Take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, keep your bowels regular and you will avoid these diseases. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

There is a belief, to which many sentimental people still hold, in spite of all contradictory evidence, that marriages are arranged in heaven, and that no amount of earthly wire pulling can alter the decrees of the Supreme Court. Many beautiful sentiments have been expressed bearing on this alluring theme, but none more comprehensive than Aunt Kate Shenstone's brief summary. "You'll get whoever is for ye, and that's all there is to it."—Nellie L. McClung in "The Second Chance."

A burglar or burglars entered Charles Walker's tailor shop Saturday night and succeeded in getting the trousers to a new suit of clothes; they had also taken the coat from a hanger and had deposited it in the rear room. It is presumed they became alarmed for fear of being caught and made their escape, or more would have been taken. They secured entrance at a side door, leading into the room formerly occupied by Newhaus the shoemaker, but which has been partly torn down for repairs.

T. T. Hill informed a representative of the RECORDER that he expected to begin work on the Cessna building, north of Rosa Co.'s store, some time this week. Unless the plans are changed the building will be a rooming house with about 25 rooms.

The Jeffries Johnson fight pictures were shown in the Grand Theatre last night to a well filled house, and many remarked that there was nothing so immoral about them as to cause so much of a stir as has been the case with these pictures.

W. C. Sellner was a Marshfield visitor the last few days of last week.

A. J. Thrift had business which called him to the bay side last week.

Friends of the Oregon State Horticultural Society are urging the passage of a bill now pending before the legislature asking for the appropriation of $5000 every two years for necessary expenses of the society, such as prizes for exhibits made at the annual show, services of exhibits committee, judges, salary of secretary, printing, postage, etc. It is pointed out in the arguments advanced for the bill that Eastern states, with very much less prominence than Oregon in the fruit growing business, appropriate large sums annually to promote the growth of the industry.

Plant Will Quit

Unless present plans are changed the M. F. Plant will make only one more trip between San Francisco and Coos Bay. Word to this effect was brought by Agent F. S. Dow who returned from San Francisco today. She will be tied at San Francisco for the present.

With the closing down of the Libby mine, the coal business which has been a big factor in the M. F. Plant's freight business ceases. The mine was owned and operated by the owners of the Plant. While there has not been much doing at Libby for the past year, the owners were until the present figuring on opening a new shaft.—Times.

Resolutions of Condolence.

While the Grand Guardian of Heaven and earth has seen fit to call at the home of our esteemed neighbor, Cora Conrad, and plucked from their midst a flower that was yet in its tender years and taken her with him; therefore, be it Resolved, That Seaside Circle, No. 662, Women of Woodcraft, extend to our dear Neighbor and family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in this hour of sorrow —Committee.

Teachers' Examination.

Notice is hereby given that the regular semi annual examination of all applicants for state and county papers will be given by the county board of education of this county in my office in Coquille, beginning February 8th, 1911, at 9 a. m., and continuing three days. 612F W. H. BUNCH, Co. Supt. Dated this 23d day of Jan. 1911.

Forester's Ball a Success.

Those who attended the Grand Ball of the Foresters of America Saturday night report a fine time, and they say that the Foresters maintained their reputation of always showing the people a good time. The hall was filled and the music and decorations were fine and everything went off in a most enjoyable manner.

High School Notes

Mayor Nora Gibson of the Bandon High School City gave a short inaugural address yesterday morning just after the installation of the new officers for the coming semester. The address made all the citizens realize that the new administration meant business. A synopsis of the Mayor's platform as given by her is as follows:

"The success of the closing administration has made us all proud of our High School city, and while we have succeeded in carrying out the plan of self government there is yet room for improvement and we should profit in the coming administration by the experience of the past. Whether or not we are able to accomplish the desired advancements rests with each individual citizen.

In our city charter in Art. 7, Sec. 3, is a statement in regard to the duty of the citizen. This section reads—"It shall be the duty of its citizens and its officials to maintain such order as is necessary for the best interests of school life, to become thoroughly familiar with their city charter, to secure justice to every citizen, and to enforce as laws, all ordinances that shall be made by its legislative body, and such rules and regulations as have been established in the school either through custom or by direction of the principal."

In my opinion a large part of our success depends on how this clause is carried out. We should all make it our one aim in all our witnessing in the court to tell exactly what we saw, regardless of favor or bias. Favoritism and partiality lead to failure.

As to the officials, a very important part of our success rests on their shoulders. In regard to their duties, I hold that two essential and necessary qualities are: First, a strict enforcement of the law, and, Second, without regard to persons and without fear or favor. I feel as though this would be a desired step towards advancement. I think the officials all realize this and I hope they exert all their power to see this carried out. Perhaps it is not always easy to avoid favoritism for fear of hard feelings, but we must not let this be our drawback, and in the end we all will pardon the mistakes, if any, and agree that the intention was justice.

British Briefs.

For the first time in its history London now has a teetotal lord mayor. The pawnbrokers of Great Britain issue over 190,000,000 pledges a year. Marriage with a deceased wife's sister has been valid in Tasmania since 1874, in England only since the act of 1907.

Besides the embankment Cleopatra's Needle, there are four other Egyptian obelisks in England, one each at Abwick and Soughton Hall and two in the British museum.

To Show It Off.

"The Cross of the Legion is a wonderful thing for health." "How's that?" "There's nothing like it to encourage long promenades in the park."—Filegeude Blatter.

Parental Blunder.

"I know it's ridiculous for me to powder my face so thickly," said the dashing brunette, "but my parents named me Pearl, and I've got to live up to the name."—Chicago Tribune

Happier Days.

"My poor fellow, were you always a tramp?" "No, mum. Once I was known as a man about town."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WANTED HIS PAY.

The Husky Jamaican Didn't Care to Work For Nothing. An English naval officer tells of being on a war vessel which took provisions to St. Kitts, one of the British West India Islands. A hurricane had left many of the inhabitants in a destitute or even starving condition. Hungry crowds gathered at the wharf, but refused to help unload the food that was to be given to them unless paid for their work.

A similar story sheds light on the Jamaican negro. Some years ago a hurricane devastated the island, and a large relief sum was raised, much of it in England and the United States. The committee having charge of this fund sent a wagon load of lumber to a husky black man whose house had been scattered over the parish. He and his family were living in a rude shack, made out of odds and ends.

"What's that for?" he asked of the men who were unloading the material in front of his patch of ground. "That's for your new house," was the reply. "It's from the relief fund and won't cost you anything." "Who's goin' to build mah house?" "You are, if anybody does." "Who's goin' to pay me fur mah work?"—Waynesboro Record.

An Old Garret on a Stormy Day. I know no nobler forage ground for a romantic, venturesome, mischievous boy than the garret of an old family mansion on a day of storm. It is a perfect field of chivalry. The heavy rafters and dashing rain, the piles of spare mattresses to carouse upon, the big trunks to hide in, the old white coats and hats hanging in obscure corners like ghosts, are great! And it is so far away from the old lady who keeps rule in the nursery that there is no possible risk of a scolding for twisting off the fringe of a rug. There is no baby in the garret to wake up. There is no "company" in the garret to be disturbed by the noise. There is no crochety old uncle or grandmamma with their everlasting "Boys, boys!" and then a look of horror.—Donald G. Mitchell.

Jack Sheppard as a Text. Jack Sheppard had a great hold upon the imagination of the people of his time. The fact that 200,000 people witnessed his execution at Tyburn on Nov. 18, 1724, "upon the tree that bears twelve times a year" is some witness to his grim popularity. But one of the strangest tributes ever paid him was the sermon preached upon him in a London church.

"Oh, that ye were all like Jack Sheppard!" began the preacher, to the stupefaction of his congregation. He went on to draw a parallel between things of the flesh and those of the soul and to point out that the genius shown in housebreaking might have been bestowed upon "picking the locks of the heart with the nail of repentance."—London Standard.

Sure on One Point. "Do you believe that great wealth has a tendency to keep a man out of heaven?" queried the party who was addicted to the conundrum habit. "I am not prepared to express an opinion on that subject," answered the student of human nature, "but I know that great wealth has kept many a man out of the penitentiary."—Chicago News.

TIPS FOR SEA BATHERS.

How Hair Injured by Salt Water May Be Restored.

First an application of grease and then a most thorough shampooing and massaging are the two agents most beneficial for restoring color and texture to hair that has been injured by salt water. Unfortunately the treatment is not unlike that given when effort is being made to restore color after bleaching, for in both cases the condition is similar. Natural oils of the scalp have been dried, and it is many weeks before they are brought back to normal.

When salt water is the cause of injury it becomes necessary before doing anything else to remove all the stickiness which sea water makes. Its effect upon the hair is very peculiar, being almost "messy," so gummy do the locks become, and, while it may seem easy to wash this out, it is very difficult. Soap cannot be used. It only makes a bad matter worse, so there must be repeated rubbings in fresh warm water, changing it frequently so that the salt may not be worked back to the scalp. Hair which is clean has a creamy feeling between the fingers when wet, and the test should be made when trying to remove all salt. The touch to the fingers is not unlike that of silk, and when this is pronounced it is safe to think the locks are clean. Drying should be done both by exposure to sun and by rubbing with soft towels, when the scalp is ready for treatment.

Particularly well suited to the condition is a cream made from one and a half ounces of white vaseline, three-quarters of an ounce of cold drawn castor oil, seven-eighths of a dram of gallic acid and fifteen drops of lavender oil. This is made into a smooth paste, and the hair is divided on the scalp, rubbing the application in the line left bare. The finger tips are really best for putting it on.

Divisions should be made close together, rubbing well until the whole scalp has been anointed, after which ten or fifteen minutes' massage is to be given. This treatment should be had every night, and if the grease is put on carefully it will not show through the hair. If an oily look begins to appear the ointment may be omitted for a night, but massage and good brushing daily are to be kept up. It is so much easier to prevent injury from salt water than to remove it that effort should be made in the former direction. Treatment for bleached locks is the same, save that quantities of oil must be used daily if any benefits are to be derived.

CANNING SEASON HINTS.

How the Vegetables and Cans Should Be Prepared.

Absolute sanitary cleanliness and the best materials procurable are the first essentials for success in canning. The vegetables should be as fresh from the garden as possible. They are better picked in the early morning with the dew still on them. As a general rule, young vegetables are superior in flavor and texture to the more mature ones. Corn and beans should be canned as soon as possible after gathering, as sweetness and flavor are absorbed by their pods and husks. If for any reason the canning of spinach or other greens, string beans, asparagus or okra cannot be attended to at once, put in cold water or a cold, damp place until ready to attend to them. All root vegetables and greens must be thoroughly washed. Have the kitchen well swept and clean before beginning canning and the towels and aprons of the workers beyond suspicion. Even if the cans to be used were clean when put away sterilize them afresh, together with all the other utensils used in the work. The best way to do this is to put cans and covers, together with any other glass that is to be used, into a kettle of cold water and bring gradually to the boiling point. Then boil fifteen minutes. Leave the cans in this hot bath until ready to use, then take out one at a time and fill. Be sure tops and cans are a perfect fit and that the can rubbers are new. Black rubbers are more durable than the white.

Glass is the most satisfactory jar to use in canning. Not only will a good glass can last indefinitely with intelligent care, but tin is more or less soluble in the acids or juices of fruits and vegetables. While there are many kinds of glass jars, the one with a glass top and spring clamp proves most satisfactory. In selecting a jar give the preference to those with the wide mouths.—Delineator For August.

How to Avoid Sagging Skirts. Even when properly made a skirt of few gores will sag in the wearing, because the cloth is heavy or is twisted in the laundering. There are too many bias lines to them. To avoid this choose whenever possible a pattern of many gores. The seams give strength, and the lower edges are not wide enough or bias enough to do much if any drooping.

How to Tie Dress Shields. Instead of sewing or pinning shields in a waist, sew a thin ribbon at each end of the shield and sew similar pieces at the proper distance apart in the armholes of all waists. The shields are quickly tied in place, they are easily changed in wash waists, and there are no pins to rust or prick.

How to Draw Threads Easily. To draw threads easily in articles for hemstitching first soap the goods where threads are to be drawn. Make a lather and apply with a shaving brush. When the linen is dry the threads will then pull out easily.

THE VEILED PROPHET.

He Was the Most Noted Impostor of the Middle Ages.

The celebrated "Veiled Prophet" of history was a Moslem fanatic whose real name was Hakeem Ibn Hashem. He was born about the middle of the eighth century and became the most noted impostor of the middle ages. He pretended that he was an embodiment of the spirit of the "living God" and, being very proficient in jugglery (which the ignorant mistook for the power to work miracles), soon drew an immense number of followers around him. He always wore a gold mask, claiming that he did so to protect the mortals of this earth, who, he said, could not look upon his face and live.

At last, after thousands had quitted the city and even left the empire of the Caliph al Mohdi to join the fanatical movement, an army was sent against the "Veiled Prophet," forcing him to flee for safety to the castle at Keh, north of the Oxus. Finally, when ultimate defeat was certain, the prophet killed and burned his whole family and then threw himself into the flames, being entirely consumed, except his hair, which was kept in a museum at Bagdad until the time of the crusades. He promised his faithful followers that he would reappear to them in the future dressed in white and riding a white horse.
