Big Ballot for 1912.

A report from Portland says: While standpat members of the legislature were ready at all times to complain of the overburdened ballot, and Senator Jay Bowerman took great glee in referring to the "nine foot ballot," the complete record of the late session shows the legislature has done its share toward loading the ballot for the next election.

No less than six amendments to the constitution have been ordered submitted to the people in 1912. Besides these the legislature gave its approval to resubmission of the woman suffrage question by a formal joint resolution, and it named a committee to frame and submit initiative laws on the subject of taxation, from which it may be expected that two or three bills may emanate. Eight or ten propositions on the ballot in 1912, therefore, will owe their position upon it directly to the legislature of 1911.

Most important of the amendments are the three dealing with taxation, one of which repeals the amendment carried at the last election, whereby counties may adopt their own tax systems and experiment, if they choose, with the single tax idea. The other two submit to the people once more what were known as the grange amendments, defeated last November. These are based upon the Wisconsin law and permit the classification of property for tax purposes, though preserving the requirement that taxation must be equal and uniform.

The legislature thought well of the two bills introduced by Representative Beals, imposing increased taxation upon gifts, legacies and inheritances. The house passed both of them, but they were halted in the Senate, where certain features were objected to and where it was decided the better plan would be to let all tax bills, as distinguished from constitutional amendments, be framed by the special legislative committee.

If the Beals bills had been passed, they would still have required submission to popular vote, under the amendment adopted last November. Thinking the Beals measures were defective in some respects, the senate yielded to the argument that they should be defeated and the special committee given a free hand in framing comprehensive legislation.

The only other important measure affecting taxation was the bill imposing a tax of one-half of one per cent on mortgages. As Senator Calking, one of the strong champions of this bill, is a member of the special committee, this may also find its way to the ballot one year from next November.

Miscellaneous Items for Ballot. Aside from the three tax amendments ordered submitted, the people are certain to vote on the following questions, because the legislature has so determined:

Creation of the office of lieutenant governor.

Making stockholders of state banks liable to depositors for twice the amount subscribed, the same as stockholders of national banks.

Requiring a majority of all votes cast at an election to carry a constitutional amendment, instead of a majority of those voting on the particular question at issue.

Do you know that of all the minor ailments colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the cold itself that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that it often leads to. Most of these are known as germ diseases. Pneumonia and consumption are among them. Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and cure your cold while you can? For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Oregon Development.

The first organized party of settlers to come to Central Oregon by the new railroad now in operation into the interior arrived during the past week and took possession of the Baldwin ranch of 30,000 acres at Hay Creek, which they have bought; there were 25 in the party, which traveled in special car from the East. The newcomers will begin the development of their property at once and the big ranch will be cut up into small farms in order to bring it up to the maximum of production.

The people of Florence will hold the annual rhododendron festival this spring, and a committee has been named to make the arrangements. This festival is one of the most attractive of its kind held anywhere, and many people of the Willamette Valley visit it each year.

Tom Richardson, father of the Oregon Development League, who was active for years in publicity work in this state, has accepted an invitation to visit Baltimore from March 6th to 20th, at a large salary, to advise the Greater Baltimore Committee and assist in raising a promotion fund of $500,000. This money will be used in bidding for trade in the South. Mr. Richardson will return shortly to Oregon, but will make addresses in a number of Eastern cities this spring.

A suggestion comes from Polk county that people of the whole state might adopt with profit. A family recently came there from the East, bought a farm and intended to live there permanently. After a time they sold their land and returned to the East. The reason was that nobody visited them, their neighbors did not seem to know of their existence, and the newcomers quit the state in disgust. The Dallas Itemizer has the right idea when it says: "If you want newcomers, make them feel at home."

The events of the past week illustrate in a striking way the advantages of the Oregon climate. The first was the planting of roses in Portland parks on Washington's Birthday, and the second was the Multnomah Club swim in the ocean at Gearhart last Sunday. Such stunts as these call attention to the mild winters of the Northwest and attract people here from the frigid East.

A sore throat can be treated best from the outside. The throat should be rubbed gently with BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. Apply at night and cover with a cotton cloth bandage; by morning the soreness will disappear. Price 25c 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.

Vast Sum for Publicity.

A million and a quarter for publicity—that's the appropriation made by the directors of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroad recently. This huge sum, the largest ever set aside by any transportation company for advertising, is to be used in peopling the West—to fill up the fertile lands of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, California, Nevada, Oregon, Idaho and Washington. It is the greatest development of the science of railroading, the creating of traffic. While it is true that the railroads expect to make all of the money back, at the same time they will help to make this vast section productive. Of the appropriation, $500,000 has been apportioned to the Northwest and will be spent through the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation Company. The major part of the advertising is to be done through newspapers. In addition to exploiting land opportunities, the development of industries and communities will also be fostered.

Now, if these railroads would just get busy and build to Coos county, and spend some of the money to help develop this section, then we of Coos might be somewhat appreciative of their efforts, and if they only knew it, there is no better place to develop in all these states than Coos county. Come over and take a look at us, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific.

John W. Sickelsmith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children, they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but have never found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Oregon Gets Immigration Commissioner but Fund is Withheld.

Officials of the Oregon Development League, who had worked for the passage of the bill providing for a state immigration commissioner, were non-plussed when Governor West announced last week he would veto the measure. They succeeded, however, in inducing him to change his mind by waiving any claim to the $25,000 appropriation the bill carried, so that the law will give the state the benefit of the United States Immigration Bureau work in placing desirable immigrants on the Oregon lands.

Lacking the necessary appropriation to carry on the work, public spirited citizens of Portland will shoulder the expense. The passage of the law will at least provide for state indorsement of promotion literature that shall be issued to attract immigration, and this will make this matter authoritative so it will carry more weight and at the same time guard against boomer matter. This will be for the benefit of the whole state and not any section alone. A state book, showing Oregon's advantages, will be issued under the seal of the new commissioner.

If you have trouble in getting rid of your cold you may know that you are not treating it properly. There is no reason why a cold should hang on for weeks, and it will not if you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Get The Spirit.

Everybody who lives west of the Rocky mountains is glad that San Francisco gets the World's Fair in 1915, but we should do more than to merely be glad, we must get the spirit of action and heart for the big fair. Coos county should have a big exhibit at the Fair, and now is the time to begin preparations for such an exhibit.

The various commercial bodies of the county should take the proposition up at once and act in conjunction in the matter.

Let's get the spirit of the West and advertise our section of the country at the big Fair.

Not So Bad. "What's the worst you can say about him?" "He hasn't an honest hair in his head." "Well, that's bad enough." "Oh, not so bad as you think. I mean he wears a wig."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Dining Hint. Fletcher says you should "hold your face down" when you are eating, so that your tongue will hang perpendicularly in your mouth. To do this most comfortably get down on your hands and knees when you eat, explains the Chicago Record-Herald.
