IRON ROADS IN THE FUTURE?

Experiment Made With Success Near London.

"WILL LAST EIGHTY YEARS."

Many Countries Interested In This New Movement—Mud and Dirt Almost Entirely Eliminated—Cleanliness of Roads Helps Housewives to Keep Their Homes Also Clean.

Borough councils of London have developed a sudden interest in what is called the "iron" road, and the national road board is equally alive to the possible revolutionary importance of the innovation. Several lengths were laid in Fulham some months ago, and Francis Wood, the borough engineer, declares that the results are more favorable than anybody concerned dared hope.

America, the West Indies and the principal countries of continental Europe are besieging the London authorities for information, while engineers in the English provinces and in Scotland and Ireland are showing the liveliest interest.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Wood, who is the pioneer in this kind of construction, "that the iron road is the road of the future. One of its best features is its hygienic effect on the districts in which it is used. Fulham has become decidedly healthier. Nearly 6,000 tons less of mud and dirt have been removed from the paved areas recently than during the corresponding period when the roads were of macadam.

"So smooth is the pavement that children returning from school may be seen chalking their sums on it. The effect of clean streets in the poorer neighborhoods has been to make the inhabitants ashamed of their dirty homes and bring them up to the standard of cleanliness outside.

"The new road promises a great reduction in taxes, for while it costs 2s. 6d. (84 cents) a yard compared with 2 shillings (48 cents) for macadam it lasts seventy or eighty years, or probably five times as long.

"In the manufacture of the new material sand and granite are shoveled into hoppers and automatically passed over hot cylinders, which thoroughly dry them. Then the two constituents are separated and left to await the arrival of bitumen or binding material, a black, fatty substance of volcanic production brought from Trinidad. The bitumen is put in tanks, melted and fluxed. Petroleum is then poured into a funnel shaped centrifuge with proportions of the dried sand and gravel. The whole is mixed by machinery consisting of grinding iron teeth. Below the mixer carts wait to carry away the material for use."

GOOD ROAD REMINDERS.

Good roads never grow—they are made. Take a few minutes' time and drain that mudhole. It's as much your neighbors' place to do that as it is yours. Yes, but that doesn't drain the mudhole! Spare the time to climb out of the wagon or buggy and toss a few of these stones from the track into the ditch. Every time you pass over them you fairly grit your teeth with vexation. The remedy is yours to apply.—M. Coverdell.

A Striking Example.

What does a good road mean to a rural school? What does a good road mean to a rural community socially? A certain township in southeast Kansas saw fit to construct two miles of rock road, from a small town south through a rural school district. Six children of school age lived on farms adjacent to the rock road, six on the same length of earth road in the west part of the school district. The earth road was in poor condition most of the time, says the K. S. A. C. Industrialist.

The children on the good road went to city schools, walking most of the time. The children on the almost impassable earth road went to a rural school.

Two of the children living on the rock road are now sophomores in agricultural colleges, two are seniors in high school, and two are freshmen in high school.

Two children living adjacent to the earth road finished the rural school. Now they are hardly average farmers. Four became discouraged and quit the rural school before they were graduated. They are day laborers in a nearby town.

It hardly seems possible that a stretch of two to four miles of poor road would make a difference in one's life, does it? But it did.—Wichita (Kansas) Eagle.

Offered Roads a Success.

Because a superior grade of oil was used on thoroughfares by the city of Milwaukee, Wis., last year no additional street oil may have to be purchased by the board this year. Oil to the amount of 70,000 gallons was purchased, and 9,000 gallons remaining may be sufficient to meet all requirements this year.

A LEADING CALIFORNIA DRUGGIST

Pasadena, Cal., March 9, 1911. Foley & Co., Gentlemen:—We have sold and recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years. We believe it to be one of the most efficient expectorants on the market. Containing no opiates or narcotics it can be given freely to children. Enough of the remedy can be taken to relieve a cold, as it has no nauseating results, and does not interfere with digestion. Yours very truly, C. H. Ward Drug Co., C. L. Parsons, Sec. and Treas. Get the original Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the yellow package. For sale by Bandon Drug Co.

SKIN OF A BADGER.

So Loose the Animal Can Almost Turn Somersaults In It.

The pelt of an adult badger is extremely thick and difficult for a biting adversary to penetrate, writes a trapper in Fur News, and so loosely does the skin cover the body that the animal is able to turn almost around in its hide.

Should a dog acquire a hold on the throat the badger turns himself so that the dog's grip is on the back of the badger's neck without having loosened his first hold. Then the badger secures a vice-like grip upon some vulnerable portion of his enemy, and while his long tusks penetrate to the limit he darts and scratches with his front feet that are furnished with claws almost as formidable and deadly as might be expected from an ant eater of the dark continent.

He who has removed the pelt of a badger and is at all observing does not wonder at this animal being sharp bit and that he is able to hang with bulldog tenacity when the formation and adjustment of its jaws are noted. Neither is it so much of a mystery how he manages to bore through the soil so rapidly that half a dozen men with shovels cannot overtake him, for he is a mass of cords and muscles, particularly in the neck, chest and shoulders, very similar in physical construction to the ground mole.

The badger toes inward sharply when traveling and always on the walk, twisting about here and there very much like the movement of a skunk, while if it be in winter he makes a business of hunting buried dormant woodchucks.

He is a fur bearer of rather coarse quality, and there is a great range of value in the pelts taken, depending upon the length of the coat. A badger is chiefly valuable when it has a long coat, so that the guard hairs can be plucked and used to make shaving brushes.

Foley Kidney Pills are a true medicine. They are strengthening, healing, antiseptic and tonic. Foley Kidney Pills take hold of your system and help you to rid yourself of your dragging backache, dull headache, nervousness, impaired eyesight, and of all the ills resulting from the impaired action of your kidneys and bladder. Remember it is Foley Kidney Pills that do this. For sale by Bandon Drug Co.

Manganese and Its Uses.

Manganese is one of the substances which had long been used in the arts before its existence as an independent metal was recognized. From prehistoric times it was employed as a coloring material, but it was not known to be a distinct metal until 1774. In India the primitive smiths used it as a flux and as an alloy for holding iron and bronze. Today its power as an oxidizer, rendering it a most important disinfectant, and its value as a chemical reagent, as well as its increasing use as an alloy, caused an active search to be made for its ores. It is widely distributed, forming about one-thousandth of the substance of the earth's crust.

CORSICAN CRUELTY.

It Loomed Up Large In Napoleon's Treatment of Children.

Napoleon had a singular rage for pulling children's ears, sometimes so hard as to make the poor children cry. Caroline was very vexed when she saw her little Achilles the victim of his uncle's excesses, and more than once her son's tears made her weep too.

One day the First Consul, pulling the ears of the little fellow, hurt him, and he cried out. To reach him not to cry his uncle pulled his ear again, louder. Achilles, having freed himself, came back to him in a fury and, raising his little fist, shouted:

"You are a villain, a wicked, wicked villain!"

To prove the contrary Napoleon should have embraced his nephew and made him forget the pain he had gratuitously inflicted by some show of affection. But tenderness was not in his character. Corsicans scarcely know what it means, and though Napoleon used to say, "I am less of a Corsican than one thinks," he was really more so than any one or he himself thought. Instead of quieting his nephew he became angry and gave him a violent slap on the face. The child ran weeping to his Uncle Lucien, who was present, while Mme. Murat was so upset that she was taken ill. "From the effort," says Lucien, who relates this episode, "she made to control her feelings, when such violence to her child outraged. As for the First Consul, he left the room, shrugging his shoulders and slamming the door and saying that Caroline had always been an affected creature and acted like all parents who spoiled their children."—Targuin's "Sisters of Napoleon."

Old Time Smallpox Cure.

To cure smallpox was apparently a very simple matter in the good old times. John Gaddesden, court doctor to Edward II., has recorded that he got rid of the disease by the simple expedient of wrapping his patients in red cloth.

"Let scarlet red be taken," he says, "and let him who is suffering smallpox be entirely wrapped in it or in some other red cloth. I did this when the son of the illustrious King of England suffered from smallpox. I took care that all about his bed should be red, and that cure succeeded very well."—London Chronicle.

Would Do Just as Well.

A well known clergyman who is very stout was having unusual difficulty one morning in lacing his shoes. "My dear, you ought to have a valet," remarked his wife sympathetically. "A valet?" echoed the clergyman. "Well, my dear, if I had a valet, where I now have a mountain it would answer."—Ladies' Home Journal.

IN THE WAKE OF THE MEASLES

The little son of Mrs. O. B. Palmer, Little Rock, Ark., had the measles. The result was a severe cough which grew worse and he could not sleep. She says: "One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles cough all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The genuine is in the yellow package always. Refuse substitutes. For sale by Bandon Drug Co.

Shifting the Burden.

"I note that you employ a great many quotations from the poets in your speeches."

"Yes," replied the orator. "Just now in my district it is desirable to say as little as possible for which you can be held personally responsible."—Washington Star.

A Better Way.

"I never throw away old junk, for that would make me feel wasteful." "What do you do with it?" "I give it away and feel charitable."—Washington Herald.

Paying His Lawyer.

Lawyer (annoyed)—Better take your case somewhere else. You are too thin skinned for me. Client—Hardly pay to skin me, eh?—Boston Transcript.

Is there anything in all this world that is of more importance to you than good digestion? Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested and converted into blood. When the digestion fails the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Self Restraint.

"Doctor, I've come to see you about my wife. I'm afraid there's something serious the matter with her." "I'm sorry to hear that. What are her symptoms?" "Why, the other day, when I was out of town, she had occasion to go to my office, and there she found several letters marked 'Private' that she didn't open."—Chicago Record-Herald.
