REARING CALVES FOR THE DAIRY

A calf for the dairy should be from the best cows and well developed and at three days old active and bright. As soon as she is born take her out of sight and hearing of the mother, as the mother will be more quiet and the calf will learn to suck more readily than if allowed to suck. Be sure to give her a small feed of the first milking, as this is just what the calf needs to start its digestive organs working properly.

It is well to continue to feed whole milk until the calf is well started, say ten days to two weeks out, then gradu-

It is essential that the calf have plenty of exercise for the development of bone and muscle, and if a yard or paddock is provided in which the calf can run and play it will get all the exercise it needs. It is natural for an young stock to run and gallop about as soon as they have received strength enough to do so, and it is best never to keep them closely confined.

ally add skim milk with a very little fine middlings until the calf is entirely of skim milk with a grain ration of equal parts by weight of fine midlings, oilmeal and cornmeal ground very fine.

I have found calf meat to be an excellent substitute for milk and grain, as it takes the place of both. Above all things, do not overfeed the calf, as the calf's stomach until it is two months old is very susceptible to all sorts of derangements from sudden change of diet or overfeeding.

When the calf is about two weeks old keep her where it can nibble at it at leisure, and the youngster will soon learn to eat it, and it will tend to keep the calf's stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition.

Do not be too great a hurry to turn the calf out to grass in the spring, writes a Kentucky dairyman in Farm Progress. She should not be allowed to eat her fill of grass until she is five or six months old. The first year of a calf's life is the making of the cow.

All the utensils from which the calf eats should be kept as clean as possible, especially the vessel in which milk is provided. Clean feeding pails, clean quarters, plenty of sunlight, fresh air and pasturage as soon as the grass has reached the stage when it will not be injurious to the calf will insure gratifying success.

Calves need water, but while they are given milk they may refuse water, even when thirsty, because it is tasteless and probably cold and they are expecting warm milk to moisten their throats. If shortly before feeding time the calf is offered milk warm water from the same vessel that it is in the habit of drinking milk from it will drink readily. Do not feed milk immediately after the water.

Condition of Breeding Ewes.
Every flock master of long experience in handling breeding ewes fully realizes that the condition of ewes at mating has a decided influence upon the breeding qualities of both ewes and progeny.

Horse Notes.
Blanket them warmly and do not allow them to stand uncovered in the wind.
Keep the mud cleaned off the horses' legs and they won't have cracked heels.

Do not nag at your horse. The constant clicking spoils a horse and is a nuisance to a crowd.
The pure bred draft breeding mare will do as much work as a grade, and her colt will be worth much more.
Balking is inexcusable and is always the fault of the driver, not of the horse. It is the direct result of bad management.

Clip the heavy coated horses now as the hair begins to loosen. Brush them thoroughly every day from head to heels and note the improvement in condition.

It will pay any farmer of good judgment and intelligence to raise high grade or pure bred draft colts, says the Farm Journal. One important requisite is that they should be good feeders.

It isn't a good plan to hang anything up in the stall where horses are kept, even if the nails or hooks are high above them. Colts are particularly apt to be scared if such things drop on them, as they are likely to do, and so be made skittish.

Warning a Serpent.

Down in Bermuda Mark Twain made a speech about snakes to a group of little girls. The speech was great. The only trouble was that the little girls could not appreciate it. It flew over their heads. This was the humorist's conclusion:
"Never warn a serpent in your bosom. It is far easier to warn it by placing it under the pillow of an intimate friend."—Harper's Weekly.

Recklessness.

Singleton—Wingwing seems frightfully despondent. He says he doesn't care what happens to him. Henpeckle—The first thing you know that fellow will be going off and getting married.—Philadelphia Record.

Bungalow.

The word bungalow is an Anglo-Indian version of the Hindu banga, which primarily means Bengal, or of Bengal, and is also applied to a thatched hut.

Fitting Trait.

"Young Billins' infatuation for pretty Miss Gladys is merely puppy love."
"I suppose that accounts for his dog-like devotion."—Baltimore American.

Idleness is the sepulcher of a living man.—Holland.

A regular morning operation of the bowels puts you in fine shape for the day's work. If you miss it you feel uncomfortable and cannot put vim into your movements. For all bowel irregularities Herbine is the remedy. It purifies, strengthens and regulates. Price 50c. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.

A Spurgeon Sermon.

Mr. Spurgeon, taking a quiet holiday in the country, was moved to spend his Sunday morning at the little village Bethel, where he listened to one of his own sermons. At the end of the service the pastor of the Metropolitan tabernacle walked unrecognized into the vestry and thanked the preacher for the edification he had derived from his sermon. Then the flattered preacher did a foolish thing and asked his visitor's name. Mr. Spurgeon was in the best of moods. "My name? Oh, Spurgeon—you may have heard it; I preach a bit in London myself." "My dear brother's face," said Mr. Spurgeon in telling the story, "turned as red as scarlet haze."—St. James' Gazette.

There is one medicine that every family should be provided with and especially during the summer months viz: Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed. It costs but a quarter. Can you afford to be without it? For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Robin Redbreast.

The familiar name of "Robin redbreast" is now borne in North America by a large red breasted thrush, in the island of Jamaica by a tiny crimson throated kingfisher and in British Guiana by a ground starling which presents the suggestive coloring.

THE ROAD TO BALTIMORE.

It Was Over Floating Bridges in the Old, Old Days.

The road to Baltimore is over the lowest of three floating bridges which have been thrown across the Schuylkill river in the neighborhood of Philadelphia. The view on passing this river, which is about 250 yards wide, is beautiful. The banks on each side are high and for many miles above afford the most delightful situations of villas. A very elegant one, laid out in English taste, is seen on passing the river just above the bridge. Adjoining to it are public gardens and a house of entertainment with several good rooms, to which the citizens of Philadelphia resort in great numbers during the summer seasons.

The floating bridges are formed of large trees, which are placed in the water transversely and are chained to each other. Beams are then laid lengthways upon these and the whole hoisted over to render the way convenient for passengers. On each side there is a railing. When very heavy carriages go across these bridges they sink a few inches below the surface of the water, but the passage is by no means dangerous. They are kept in an even direction across the river by means of chains and anchors in different parts and are also strongly secured on both shores. Over that part of the river where the channel lies they are so contrived that a piece can be removed to allow vessels to pass through.—From "Travels Through the States of North America," by Isaac Weld, Jr., 1795.

In every home where there is a baby there should also be a bottle of McGee's Baby Elixir. It may be needed at any time to correct sour stomach, wind colic, diarrhoea, or summer complaint. It is a wholesome remedy, contains no opium, morphine or injurious drug of any kind. Price 25c and 50c per bottle. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.

Grange News Notes.

Ulysses grauge, at Jacksonville, N. Y., dedicated a new grange hall last month.

A resolution was defeated by the national grange to allow granges to confer the four degrees at one session.

The legislative committee of the national grange was right on the job during the Canadian reciprocity fight at Washington.

The Patrons' Fire Insurance Company of Rhode Island carries $422,930 in risks. It has $7,139.74 in its treasury and had only one small loss last year. The "moral hazard" in co-operative insurance reaches to minimum in the grange fire insurance business.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Patrons' Fire Insurance Companies.

The question is often asked if a granger who is a member of a Patrons' fire insurance company should have a fire loss and he was not in good standing in the grange would the loss be paid? We believe it is the custom to include in the insurance policy a clause to the effect that any member of the Order in good standing may apply for such insurance. This is practiced in the Jefferson County Fire association, the largest in the world. It insists that the insured must hold in good membership in the grange during the term of his insurance, otherwise it will be declared void.

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Bldg, Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys, and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." For sale by the Bandon Drug Co.

Parcels Post.

An Ohio man wanted to send a package of four pounds a few miles by mail. It cost him 64 cents to do it. The package weighed exactly four pounds and one ounce. The postman made him undo it and take out three plants. The package contained strawberry plants. The gentleman says: "Right over the desk where we undid and repacked the plants hung a placard that proclaimed the rate for foreign countries to be 12 cents per pound up to eleven pounds. Had I wanted to send that four pound package to New Zealand it would have cost me 48 cents; to Toledo, O., it cost 64 cents. I wonder if our national lawmakers ever attempt to reconcile this inconsistency?"

A bilious, half-sick feeling, loss of energy and constipated bowels, can be relieved with surprising promptness by using Herbine. The first dose brings improvement, a few doses puts the system in fine vigorous condition. Price 50c. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.
