The Scrap Book

Rather Liked the Affront.

Edward B. Clark, the Washington correspondent, was the agent for a Chicago paper at Pine Ridge at the time of the Indian uprising there. After the difficulty had been composed Clark got a telegram from his paper asking him to get an interview with Young Man Afraid of His Horses, a chief who had taken part.

Clark took an interpreter and went to the chief's tepee. The chief, still in his war paint, received him in the tepee and asked Clark to sit. Then, wanting to do the right thing and not knowing whether it was proper to tip a big Indian chief, Clark dropped three silver dollars into the hand of the chief's wife, and for fear the paint streaked but dignified warrior might consider this an affront he had his interpreter say to the chief, "In my country a compliment to a man's wife is thought a double compliment."

The interpreter repeated this sentiment to Young Man Afraid of His Horses. That dignitary granted, rose, left the tepee and came back with four more wives.—Saturday Evening Post.

Life's Mirror.

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave. There are souls that are pure and true: Then give to the world the best you have. And the best will come back to you.

Give love and love to your heart will flow. A strength in your utmost need. Have faith and a score of hearts will show Their faith in your word and deed.

For life is the mirror of king and slave. 'Tis just what you are and do. Then give to the world the best you have. And the best will come back to you.

A Trifling Incident.

An Irishman went into a barber shop, and the unsteady gait with which he approached the chair showed that he had been imbibing of the produce of the still. He wanted his hair cut, and while the barber was getting him ready went off into a sleep. His head kept bobbing from one side to the other, and at length the barber in making a snip cut off the lower part of his ear. The barber gasped, then jumped about and howled, and a crowd of neighbors rushed in. Finally the demonstration became so great that it began to attract the attention of the man in the chair, and he opened one eye and said, "Wh-wh-what's the matter wid yez?"

"Good Lord!" said the barber. "I've cut off the whole lower part of your ear."

"Have ye? Ah, thin, go on wid yer business. It was too long anyhow!"

An Oversight.

"I trust you slept comfortably and had everything you needed," said Sandy Macpherson's hostess one cold morning last winter.

"Ay, well enough," replied her guest, a venerable Scot, "but I dinna see the guid of you bottle in the bed."

"Why, wasn't the water hot?" the hostess asked in surprise.

"Verra hot," responded Macpherson, "but ye forgot to put anything in it."

Expecting Too Much.

"A rather finicky old chap who was traveling off the beaten paths struck a somewhat shabby hotel, which was principally used by workmen from a nearby construction camp. He paid a dollar in advance for room and breakfast, the clerk remarking caustically that 'a suit case isn't a guarantee that the bill will be paid, especially when a guy has a room on the second floor.' And just before midnight the indignant Mr. Smith piled down into the hotel office, almost dressed.

"What's the matter?" asked the sleepy clerk, shifting his pipe to the other corner. "Anything wrong?"

"Wrong!" gasped Mr. Smith, trembling. "Wrong! Confound your old dump, anyhow! I saw a pair of rats as big as hedgehogs fighting in the middle of my room."

"Hub," said the clerk, closing his eyes and preparing to return to sleep. "What do you want for a dollar—a bullfight?"—Herbert Corey in Cincinnati Times-Star.

Out of His Element.

Bob Ingersoll was once ridiculing a sermon he had heard in Italy on the miracle of St. Anthony preaching to the fishes, which, the better to listen to the pious discourse, held their heads out of the water.

"I can credit the miracle," said Bishop Potter, "if you were at church."

"I certainly was there," replied the famous infidel.

"Then there was at least one fish out of water."
