Look for the Grange Fair, Oct. 7th.

Mrs. E. D. Moore departed yesterday for Wisconsin, called by the serious illness of her mother.

F. H. Colgrove, who now lives on a ranch near Langlois, was in the city yesterday laying in his winter's supplies.

FOR SALE—Mare with foal; weight about 1000 pounds. Inquire of F. E. Hess, Dyer's ranch on Two mile.

Capt. Donaldson, of the steam schooner Brooklyn, at one time ran the tug Barclay Golden into this river, and has also been in the Coos Bay trade for years, gave this office a pleasant call this afternoon.

Some hunter or hunters shot a valuable horse of R. P. Hempel's on his ranch last Wednesday, badly disfiguring the horse. Mr. Hempel is afraid of blood poisoning setting in, as there is indication of it at present. If people want to hunt they should be more careful where they shoot.

Childrens, rain capes and rubbers now on sale at Bandon Dry Goods Company.

Sam has a little fresh advice for you in our advertising columns this week. Don't overlook it.

A reader asks what I think of Canadian reciprocity. I have changed my mind about that three times, and am again on the fence.

When a wife says: "Sh! The children will hear," occasionally the husband replies: "I don't care if they do; the truth will do them good."

White Wayandottes. A few choice young roosters for sale. Fred Mcson, opposite Geo. W. Moore saw mill.

"I suppose she is as happy as other people," a woman said, speaking of a friend. How happy are people generally? Ever think about it? Are the people generally tolerably miserable? Or, do they have a pretty good time?

We carry Nemo Corsets in all styles. Bandon Dry Goods Co. 11

Today Reskey & Ford are driving 50 head of prime Curry county sheep to Marshfield, having sold them to Foyer Bros., local butchers of that place.

Don't lay this issue aside until you note what Reubenack, the tailor, has to say. It will pay you.

The Evening Record, Marshfield's new daily, has reached our table. It is a neat, newsy 6 volume quarto and starts with a fairly good advertising patronage.

M. G. Pohl left yesterday on a business trip to Port Orford, and will be away a week or ten days.

Lost—Purse with large sum of money. Finder please return to N. Nygren, and receive liberal reward.

Lost.—Small, black purse containing sum of money. Reward. Finder return to this office. 76-12

That popular institution, the First Nat'l Bank, makes a business-like proposition to you in our advertising columns this week. You will miss it if you miss it.

The chicken pie supper given by the Hurry-Up Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church, Saturday evening, was a decided success, and a neat sum was added to the treasury.

The stairway running along the west side of the Bandon Dry Goods Co.'s store is being removed today and the space, about 5 feet, added to the interior, which will give much more room for the display of goods.

WANTED—Watches to repair. H. Sabro, Atwater St. 76-11

Sunday evening's program at the Grand Theatre was unusually good, the Vitagraph film "Death of King Edward III" being intensely realistic. The Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Kaurud, was at its best in the rendition of an Overture between the shows.

FALLS ONLY TO RISE.

An Experiment Which Shows a Sort of Perpetual Motion Effect.

A novel experiment in the demonstration of perpetual motion is to be performed simply. A glass beaker about six inches high and four inches in diameter is filled with water to the height of about four and a half inches, and two and one-half to three ounces of commercial aniline are added, which will sink to the bottom of the vessel. The temperature of the beaker and its contents is now raised to 170 or 175 degrees Fahrenheit by means of a burner, when it will be observed that the aniline will rise to the surface of the water, from which it will hang in a mass of curved outline. Almost immediately the suspended aniline commences to alter in shape, and gradually a large drop an inch or more in diameter detaches itself from the mass and falls through the water.

And now, the detached drop having fallen to the bottom of the beaker, comes the surprising part of the experiment. The fallen drop is seen gradually to rise to the surface, where it joins the mass from which it previously broke away. At once another drop commences to form and, having become detached, falls and rises in the same manner as the previous drop.

So long as the temperature of the water is maintained at 170 degrees Fahrenheit or over this procedure continues indefinitely. —Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Work at Both Ends. Queens at their best are but women. Said Mary of Modena once in her days of exile. "It took all the jewels that all the goldsmiths could procure to decorate my crown." She was "powdered" with gems, which Fountain-hall says "made her shine like an angel."

And Queen Caroline, too, the wife of George II., used to allude to Lord Hervey's rather personal remark that her crowning dress "was as fine as the accumulated riches of the city and suburbs could make it, for besides her own jewels, she had on her head and shoulders all the pearls she could borrow of the ladies of quality at one end of the town, and on her petticoat all the diamonds she could hire of the jewelers at the other."

The Polar Bear. The polar bear is a pretty formidable brute. A specimen of this species has been killed weighing 1,000 pounds and measuring nearly thirteen feet from nose to tail. The strength of the polar bear is beyond belief. One was seen feeding on the body of a white whale fifteen feet long and weighing at least three tons. The whale had been dragged by the bear out of the water on to the ice.

Touchy. She—Is it really true that the blind can determine color by the sense of touch? He—Certainly. I once knew a blind man who was able to tell a red-hot stove by merely putting his finger on it.—Illustrated Bits.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH
PERT PARAGRAPHS.

SOME people have the faculty of pleasing, and others have that of being pleased. Either sort is a good sort.

We are all both brave and beautiful—in our dreams and sometimes in the tales we tell of ourselves.

When a thing is effective it often changes from a bluff to the real thing.

Conversely, a real thing sometimes fades into a busted bluff—when it fails to work.

Easy street is an indefinite address and hard to acquire.

The products of some thought factories seldom rise to the dignity of second class matter.

The things that some people know that aren't worth talking about are starting in their insignificance.

There are some persons that really seem to glory in wrong. The reason is they think it right.

It is good to be off with the old love before the new one gets wise to the situation.

Moonlight is so exciting to weak brains that girls are advised not to permit their escorts to take evening strolls.

Making Believe. Little Miss Makebelieve sits in her chair, playing her dollies. Were taking the air, telling the coachman. Her pick of the drives, giving her babies. The time of their lives.

Pointing out scenery. As they proceed, telling her treasures. To give closest heed. They must remember some special sight, so they can tell it. To papa at night.

There they go galloping. Down through the park. Hurry up, driver! It soon will be dark. Time to put babies snugly in bed. Night air will give them a cold in the head.

Horses are skittish. See how they foam. Thank you, dear driver. Now we are home. Little Miss Makebelieve helps them alight. Tucks them up snugly. Away for the night.

Unquestionable. "It is true." "What is?" "That there is no fool like an old fool."

Not an Everyday Article. "She has a beautiful smile." "I never noticed it." "She takes good care of it." "What do you mean?" "Only uses it on Sundays and when she's photographed."

Businesslike. "But why did you ask her to marry you?" "Just to see what she'd say." "What did she say?" "'Yes, if possible.'"

Their Amusement. The natives down in Haiti are people of this sort: They have a revolution in lieu of other sport.

Neighborly. "Yes, Jones is the limit." "What has he done now?" "He wanted to borrow my husband for his dog to practice on. Asked him to play burglar and come in through a window to see how the dog would act."

The Difference. Once if he showed a Latin twang. He had a college air. Now if he slings the sporting slang. We know he has been there.

Neighbors. "Yes, Jones is the limit." "What has he done now?" "He wanted to borrow my husband for his dog to practice on. Asked him to play burglar and come in through a window to see how the dog would act."

Couldn't He's It. "You don't know which side your bread is buttered on." "Oh, yes I do." "Which side?" "Neither."

As a Matter of Course. "Mrs. Brown has an awful lot of trouble." "What does she do with it?" "Gives it to her husband."

EVERYBODY DRAG ROADS!

Plan Provides That All Tax Payers Must Keep Highways Clean.

A plan is on foot in some parts of the country to have the whole community see to it that the roads are kept in good condition. The proposed plan provides that the road authorities shall divide the roads into short sections, according to the number of poll tax payers, and assign to each man the section nearest and most convenient to him, who would assume the responsibility of keeping the same in good condition by working his poll tax on it, not all at once, but at intervals, as needed. It is estimated that in no case would these sections comprise more than a half mile of road.

As soon as the frost is out in the spring and while the road is yet some what soft and plastic these men would go on the road each of his own section, dragging it thoroughly, using a homemade split log drag, scraping down the ridges, filling the ruts and holes and crowning and smoothing the surface so that it would shed water. Not more than two hours would be required to do this, and it would be done at a time when it would least interfere with farm work. Later in the season, whenever there was a tendency to develop ruts or holes, each would again apply the same treatment just following a rain.

A very important point may here be noted, viz.—that by this plan the roads in any district, no matter how large, even in an entire county, could all be dragged and smoothed and put in good condition within a few hours.

Today the need for better wagon roads is greater than at any previous time in history. The belief has been proved fallacious that as railroad mileage increased the need for good country roads would diminish. The fact has been established that the greater the railroad mileage the greater the movement of freight on the common roads that act as feeders to the railroads. It has been shown that over had roads in the United States a team on the worst hauling season is able to transport on an average only about 800 or 900 pounds, while in France every good draft horse is expected to be able to draw 3,200 pounds a distance of eighteen miles any day in the year.

UP TO THE WOMEN TOO.

Improvement of Country Roads Should Be of Interest to Mothers.

That the movement for the improvement of roads now being pushed by the government throughout the country affects the women as vitally as it affects the men was the assertion of Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads, in the course of his address to the Mothers' Congress held in Washington recently. The women, Director Page pointed out, are the mothers of the nation, and it is to their interest to see that country roads are improved for the benefit of their own health and happiness and the health and happiness of their children.
