Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SARAH MOORE, PATRIOT.

One of the constant needs of humans is the inspiring example of noble deeds.

And that is why the story of Sarah W. Moore is worth while.

Where most people see in a group of Italian workmen a "lot of dagoes" Miss Moore saw in them brothers in need.

About ten years ago Miss Moore, a woman without influence or wealth, undertook to do something for the incoming aliens who land in such numbers at New York. She selected as the object of her labors the most despised and rejected of these—the Italian laborers.

Because of her persistent efforts the Society For Italian Immigrants was organized, which society has accomplished a world of good.

And then—

Not satisfied with this society, which greets and cares for the ignorant immigrants from Italy, Miss Moore turned her attention toward making these aliens into good citizens.

During the building of the New York aqueduct, the great artificial waterway by which the city gets its water, thousands of Italian laborers have been employed.

These gangs live in camps such as one seen when railroads are being built.

Manners and men are in the rough.

In these crude camps Miss Moore opened camp schools for the education of the Italians. Repeatedly told by the water commissioners and the contractors that schools would not be permitted, Miss Moore persisted and succeeded.

Moreover—

It is told of her that in writing the little primer which she printed for the use of the workmen she learned the words which the men needed to know by sitting on the bank of an excavation and listening to the orders given.

Stricken with paralysis, Miss Moore continued to the time of her death to inspire the young women teachers who were her helpers.

Her was a patriotic mission.

At the melting pot of America is daily to fuse into one citizenship the dissimilar elements that are cast into it for the melting it must be by such sacrificing labors as those of Sarah W. Moore, patriot.

And—

Although there were no great headlines in the newspapers the day after this heroic woman died, whose life better deserved such notice?

AN ACT OF SIMPLE JUSTICE.

A New Zealander was convicted of stealing sheep. After he had been in prison for five years it was discovered that he was innocent, and he was offered a pardon.

The convict refused the pardon. He had not committed the crime and therefore had done nothing which called for clemency.

Now—

In this country and everywhere, except in New Zealand, when such a discovery of innocence is made the pardon is offered, and if the prisoner accepts well and good. If he does not accept the pardon he may stay in prison until he serves his time.

Such is the tender mercy of civilized states toward one whom it has wrongfully punished.

New Zealand believes that justice should be meted out to all equally.

The parliament directed the supreme court to reverse its decision—an act of justice never done by our courts—which cleared the man's name from every taint of legal guilt. And then—

It voted the unfortunate man $25,000 to compensate him for the injustice done him and for his time and labor.

You see, conscience is king in New Zealand.

Frequently in our country men are pardoned on account of innocence of crime for which they have suffered years of punishment. Lately there have been several such cases.

Do our courts reverse their decisions? No. Do the victims receive pay? Not a cent.

What cruelty of treatment! Think of the indignity, the humiliation of public trial, the long imprisonment, the hard labor, the bitter sense of injustice, the suffering of relatives, the deprivation and disgrace of families!

And the state thinks it does its duty when it sets the sufferer free!

One innocent convict when offered his freedom asked—like the prisoner of the French Bastille—to be allowed to stay in his cell until he died. The prison brand was on him. He had given his best years to the state; his immediate family was dead; he could only go to the poorhouse.

THE IDEAL.

The ideal is in thyself. The impediment, too, is in thyself. The condition is but the stuff thou art to shape that same ideal out of. What matters whether such stuff be of this sort or that, so the form thou givest it be heroic, be poetic?—Carlyle.

Take Your Common Colds Seriously.

Common colds, severe and frequent, lay the foundation of chronic diseased conditions of the nose and throat, and may develop into bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption. For all coughs and colds in children, and in grown persons, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. Bandon Drug Co.

Origin of Blackguard.

Scullions and lower servants of the English court, who were clothed in sable garments, were originally called blackguards. Gibbon informs us that "those who carried coals to the kitchen or rode with the pots and pans were in derision called the blackguards." A proclamation issued in England in 1683 officially recognized the title by applying it to "a sort of vicious, idle and masterless boys and rogues, commonly called the blackguard, with divers other loose fellows."

When the chest feels on fire and the throat burns, you have indigestion, and you need Herbine to get rid of the disagreeable feeling. It drives out badly digested food, strengthens the stomach and purifies the bowels. Price 50c. Sold by C. Y. Lowe.

A Witty Scot.

At an auction sale in a Scotland village the auctioneer was trying to sell a number of domestic utensils, including a porridge pot. As usual, he was making a great fuss. Finishing, his keen eye caught a well known worthy, the headle, standing at the back of the crowd, and he shouted out:

"Maister McTavish, make an offer for this pot. Why, it would make a splendid kirk bell!"

"Aye," replied the headle, "if your tongue was in it!"

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one tenth as much. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.
