The Aeroplane Will Act as a Sword of Damocles to End Future Wars

By M. VEDRINES, Well Known European Aviator

THE aeroplane is the little joker in the game of international diplomacy today.

Diplomatists may claim that their cleverness causes the peaceful solution of international differences, but the present aerial conditions FORCE AGREEMENTS upon the nations, for, as their ministers argue, there is a SWORD OF DAMOCLES hanging over them in an UNKNOWN, UNTRIED POWER, the destructive possibilities and fear producing effect of which are only just beginning to be realized.

THESE CONDITIONS HAVE CREATED A PSYCHIC SITUATION SUCH AS THE WORLD HAS NEVER BEFORE KNOWN—WHEN AN ALL POSSESSING GENERAL FEAR WILL FORBID WAR.

The Scrap Book

A Crushed Statesman.

Martin Regan was a quiet figure in the local politics of Kansas City in the early eighties. In one of the mob primaries in which Martin's nomination as alderman was involved the Regan faction was the more numerous. Regan was elected chairman, and after a short speech thanking the meeting for the honor "on behalf of my friends and myself" he proceeded to ask what was the further business of the meeting. Instantly Jerry Dowd was on his feet to protest against Regan's nomination.

"Sit down, Jerry Dowd!" yelled Regan. "You are out of order."

"I am not," retorted Dowd, struggling with Regan partisans who were trying to force him down. "Mr. Chairman—Mr. Chairman," he yelled, "I appeal from the decision of the chair!"

"Sit down, Jerry Dowd, sit down!" replied the alderman. "It takes two thirds to appeal from the decision of the chair, and there's not that many here."—Kansas City Star.

Optimism.

I'm no reformer, for I see more light Than darkness in the world. Mine eyes are quick To catch the first dim radiance of the dawn And slow to note the cloud that threatens storm. The fragrance and the beauty of the rose Delight me, so slight thought I give the thorn. And the sweet music of the lark's clear song Stays longer with me than the night hawk's cry. And even in the great throes of pain called life I find a rapture linked with each despair. Well worth the price of anguish, I detect More good than evil in humanity. Love lights more fires than hate extinguishes. And men grow better as the world grows old.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

He Appeared.

In one of the provincial appeal courts in France a boy about fourteen was summoned to give evidence, and his appearance as he stood before the judge was such as to move the whole court to laughter. He was small even for his age. He wore a long redingote, peculiar to the Basque country, and immense boots. His trousers, collar and hat were unquestionably those of a man. The court was convulsed, and the president asked the boy how he dared to treat the court in such a manner. The boy seemed as surprised as the president and, taking out the citation from his pocket, read the formula commanding him, "Comparetre dans les affaires de son pere" (to appear in his father's suit).

A Problem in Spelling. George Lacy Hillier, English bicycle and tricycle champion in the days of the high wheel and hard tire, used to tell an amusing story about his training. It appears that the trainer would at times get on Hillier's nerves by calling him Mr. 'Hiller. One day, in exasperation, Hillier said to him: "Why do you always call me Mr. 'Hiller? It is not my name, you know." The trainer stood back in astonishment and replied: "Well, if a batch and a h and a hel and a hel and a h and a he and a har don't spell 'Hiller I'd like to know what it do spell."—Lippincott's.

Gags, With and Without. D'Oyly Carte once produced "The Gondoliers" at Windsor by command of the late Queen Victoria. A finely bound volume of the libretto had been provided for the queen, who referred to it frequently to keep abreast of the opera. When the curtain fell she sent for D'Oyly Carte to express her approval and, having done so, remarked that she had noticed that some of the actors had said things which were not set down in the book.

Mr. Carte explained that they were "gags."

"Gags?" queried the queen in a puzzled tone. "I thought gags were things put in a person's mouth by authority."

"Not always," was the reply. "These gags are what people put in their mouths without authority."

Crackers For the Rabbit.

The city couple vacationing in a country cottage decided to have a late supper and called at the little store and roused the proprietor from his nap on a bench at the door. They followed his lumbering footsteps into the building and told him that they wished a pound of cheese and some large square crackers for a Welsh rabbit. The old man tapped his wrinkled brow reflectively. "Got the cheese all right," he said, "but hasn't got no large square crackers. Won't yer rabbit eat the small ones?"

Bedroom Air.

What constitutes bad air in a bedroom? The answer to this is, Any air that has been rebreathed. To what extent should the window be kept open in cold weather for one in ordinary health? The answer to this is, To the same extent that it should be kept open in all weather and in all states of health—wide! Furthermore, when it can possibly be managed window should be opened with an "a." Fortunate is the sleeper who has one on at least two sides of his room. Let such a person fear no drafts, for these are the friends of mankind. Bad air and drafts do not live together. Neither do colds and drafts, hard as many people find it to believe this. It is not wise to feed cold; neither is it necessary. It stands to reason that with wide open windows in winter warmer coverings will be needed. A properly ventilated bedroom will be of the temperature of the outside air, or very nearly so, and summer blankets will not avail. It also stands to reason that if one covers the head for exposure in the daytime one should do the same at night. A soft cap made from a Shetland veil lined with silk and made to pull over the ears and down to the brows will be found a most luxurious nightcap.—Youth's Companion.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

I am prepared to go and make groups or private Photos night or day at reasonable prices. Call and see me. —The Walker Studio.
