THE PILGRIM SPIRIT.

The pilgrim spirit has not fled; It waits in noon's broad light, And it watches the best of the glorious dead. With the holy stars by night; It watches the bed of the brave who have bled And still guard this icebound shore. Till the waves of the bay where the Mayflower lay Shall foam and freeze no more. —John Pierpont.

PRAYERS.

Make us of quick and tender conscience, O Lord, that discerning we may follow every suggestion of thine indwelling spirit. —Christina G. Rossetti.

Grant unto us, Almighty God, of thy good spirit, which if we have the storms of life can hurt us but little and the cares of life vex us not at all. —George Dawson.

Grant unto us that the fire of thy love may burn up in us all the things that displease thee. —Roman Breviary.

Lift my soul above the weary round of harassing thoughts to thy eternal presence. —Pusey.

As thou hast given to us a life of high vocation, so may thine own breathing in our hearts interpret for us its sacred opportunities. —James Martineau.

TOO MANY LAWS.

There are too many laws, too many courts, too many appeals, too many technicalities. Nobody knows the law. In these days a law library would fill a barn. The human mind cannot comprehend such a mass of stuff, and its bulk is increasing at an appalling rate. Judges, governors and legislators are working at a feverish pace making lawbooks. Thousands of thick volumes constitute the written law. Five appellate courts may be in session at the same time rendering decisions and writing opinions necessarily and, in fact, in conflict with each other. One legislature makes a law for the guidance of the people; the next legislature repeals it. A governor advocates the passage of a law and then in a few months urges its repeal. Under such conditions who can know the law? The law should be firm and positive. It has come to be like quicksand and slips faster than you can place your feet. This uncertainty of the law propagates litigation. It breeds lawsuits. Its havoc upon the taxpayer is frightful. In a large percentage of cases it costs the public more to foot the bills of the litigation than it would to pay the claim in dispute. —W. O. Howard of New York Supreme Court.

RACE SUICIDE.

The people who are maintaining the human race today are the barbarians, the half-civilized and the ignorant and brutalized people, not the people that have inherited the wealth, the morals, the knowledge and the advantages of civilization. The human race of the future will not be the descendants of the people that we now regard as superior. A great many persons have an idea that if every family has two children that will maintain the race. It won't. Every family must have an average of four plus two, because you have to allow for the children that die in infancy, those who do not marry and those who do, but have no children. Those who have a family of less than that number are not maintaining the race. It is perfectly plain the American race of the future is not to consist of the posterity of the people that are doing things today. Their days are about over. —Professor Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia University.

Gave Him a Boost.

The would-be contributor wrote: "Your office boy has been returning my jokes. Please look into the matter." And the editor replied: "I have. He is now my chief assistant." —Satire.

MUSIC.

When I hear music I fear no danger. I am invulnerable. I see no foe. I am related to the earliest times and to the latest. —Thoreau.

Just as gymnastic exercise is necessary to keep the body healthy, so is musical exercise necessary to keep the soul healthy. The proper nourishment of the intellect and passions can no more take place without music than the proper functions of the stomach and the blood without exercise. —Plato.

Accent on the "Know."

Marks—If you had to live life over again would you marry the same woman? Parks—You just bet I would. I know what she is, and women are too uncertain for me to experiment with another one. —Exchange.

Spiteful.

Ida—Why, he actually wanted to kiss me! I think he must have lost his senses. May—I think so, too, dear.
