

WHAT MEN LIKE

is a question that often puzzles women folks who wish to make some mere male a gift. If those ladies will take a look at our collection of scarf pins, cuff links, shirt studs, etc., they will be gazing at just the gifts every man appreciates. For they are for manly men who know what is what. Come and look at the collection.

The Force of Momentum.
The old mountaineer, who was standing on the corner of the main street in a certain little Kentucky town, had never seen an automobile. When a good sized touring car came rushing up the street at about thirty miles an hour and slowed down just enough to take the corner on two wheels, his astonishment was extreme.

The old fellow watched the disappearing car with bulging eyes and open mouth. Then, turning to a bystander, he remarked solemnly: "The horses must sho'ly ha' been travelin' some when they got loose from that gen'lemen's carriage!"—Youth's Companion.

WEALTH AND SUCCESS.

The question is constantly asked whether our colleges prepare their students to be successful in after life. In one sense out of ten the man who asks this question measures success in terms of wealth. He thinks of the whole world as playing a game in which money is the prize and the man who makes most money is the winner. If this were the right way to look at life the inquiry would be an overwhelmingly important one. The true measure of a man's success is the service which he renders, not the pay which he exacts for it. The true measure of a man's ability is the power to help others and to contribute to their advancement. The effort to make money is an important incentive to social service and industrial progress, but the amount of wealth each man acquires is no accurate indication of the service he has rendered or the progress he has made possible.—President Hadley of Yale.

THE PILGRIM.

Give me my scallop shell of quiet,
My staff of faith to walk upon,
My scrip of joy, immortal diet,
My bottle of salvation,
My gown of glory, hope's true gauge,
And thus I'll take my pilgrimage!
—Sir Walter Raleigh.

REVOLUTION NOT NEEDED.

It is not the wild, swirling, cruel methods of revolution and violence that are needed to correct the abuses incident to our government as to all things human. Neither material nor moral progress lies that way. We have made our government and our complicated institutions by appeals to reason, seeking to educate all our people that, day after day, year after year, century after century, they may see more clearly, act more justly, become more and more attached to the fundamental ideas that underlie our society. If we are to preserve undiminished the heritage bequeathed us and add to it those accretions without which society would perish we shall need all the powers that the school, the church, the court, the deliberative assembly and the quiet thought of our people can bring to bear.—Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker.

MAN.

To a normal, healthy man life is best when it is something of a game. To have your living assured, to know that all you have to do to be provided for all your days is to be careful and not to be impudent to your employer, is something like shooting sitting hens instead of flying ducks. Very little good work in the world has been done by men in securities. The great inventions somehow do not seem to come from endowed professors. The telegraph, the phonograph, the cinematograph, the sewing machine, the steel wool rubber, the automobile, the card index system, the fountain pen—what universities or technology institutes projected them? What literary scholarship produced a Kipling, a Bernard Shaw, a Maupassant, a Wagner or a Glotot? And as for religion, St. Paul and Savonarola, Luther, Knox and Wesley, General Booth and Mrs. Eddy were only successful (I speak only of their results; I am no judge of their rightness) when they cut loose from all safety and risked ridicule, starvation or worse. Of all the people in the great business house the man who is getting the most out of life is the man who is at the head, carrying the responsibility, not knowing whether tomorrow will bring loss or gain, putting his brain against all the chances of failure.—Dr. Frank Crane.

FATE.

Deep in the man sits fast his fate
To mold his fortunes, mean or great,
Unknown to Cromwell, as to me,
Was Cromwell's measure or degree.
Unknown to him, as to his horse,
If he than his groom be better or worse,
He works, plots, fights in rude affairs
With squires, lords, kings, his craft compares,
Till late he learned through doubt and fear
Broad England harbored not his peer;
Obeying time, the last to own
The genius from its cloudy throne,
For the provision is allied
Unto the things so signified,
Or, say, the foresight that awaits
Is the same genius that creates.
—Emerson.
