For a long time we have been "playing the game." We have gained a false sense of security by contributing to a system of a nation of 200 million that is upon the verge of collapse. Too many people believe in the theory that every dollar spent is a dollar saved. The time has come for a change of thinking and action. Every American should realize that the problem is too big, no matter how small it appears. We shall be able to buy the world's products only if we continue to pay for them. We cannot continue to pay for a service that does not exist. We must pay for it ourselves. We must stop the waste of money and energy, and make the most of what we have. We must cut down on our consumption of goods and services, and make the best use of the resources we have. We must learn to live within our means, and do not spend more than we earn. We must work hard, and save money, and be thrifty. We must be careful, and not waste our money. We must be honest, and not cheat. We must be kind, and not harm others. We must be true to our country, and not betray it. We must be true to our loved ones, and not be false to them. We must be true to ourselves, and not be false to ourselves. We must be true to our friends, and not be false to them. We must be true to our God, and not be false to him. We must be true to our country, and not betray it. We must be true to our loved ones, and not be false to them. We must be true to our friends, and not be false to them. We must be true to our God, and not be false to him. We must be true to our country, and not betray it.
