

UNEMPLOYED GET WORK ON FARMS

State Lends Aid In Solving Vexing Labor Problem.

EXAMPLE FOR ALL CITIES.

Following Recommendations by Governor Glynn of New York, Labor Bureau Sends Jobless Men to Farmers, Who Find Great Difficulty in Obtaining Laborers.

Albany, N. Y.—In his efforts to solve the problem of providing labor for the vast army of unemployed men in New York and in order to set an example for other cities where similar industrial conditions exist Governor Glynn and his investigators have hit upon a novel scheme and one which, it is hoped, will in a measure solve the vexing question.

Investigators for the state get into communication with farmers who need farm hands. Their expenses are paid to the farms, and the men accept jobs that pay from $20 to $35 per month, including board.

This was the first practical application of Governor Glynn's plan of solving the problem of unemployment in the cities and meeting the unprecedented demand for labor in the rural districts. Two car loads were shipped first under the direction of C. W. Larnon, deputy state-commissioner of agriculture, in charge of the state's labor bureau, and it is expected that they will be followed by many more before the supply in New York city is exhausted.

The farmers round about Ponda, N. Y., were on hand to offer the men jobs as soon as they arrived. A part of the courthouse was set aside to accommodate the influx of farmers and job hunters, and the local grangers made all the other arrangements for the bringing together of the men who want work and the men who want workers.

Two or three of those who started are married men, and they were permitted to take their wives with them, as there is opportunity for women to get work on the farm as house workers.

"I have every reason to believe that this plan will succeed," said Larnon. "Most of these men are honest men very eager for work. The vagrants and the perennial out-of-workers don't care to go out into the country to work on a farm. Of course, I am not egotistical enough to think that this is going immediately to remedy the whole unemployment question in New York, but even if we only send up state 4,000 or 5,000 men it will help.

"Just as the supply of laborers is greater in the city this year than ever before the demand for laborers in the country is greater than in any year I can remember. As soon as the laborers arrive in these places they will be met by an agent from the department of agriculture and they will be at work a few hours later. We are sending, naturally, only such men as we are satisfied will make good on the farm. "What we are doing in the majority of cases is simply correcting the fault the men made when they drifted to the city. We are carrying them back again from where they started and, contrary to a prevalent belief that they won't want to go, they are enthusiastic about it.

"The department feels humiliated to see eggs, meats and all the farm products coming in from the Argentine and even from countries as remote as Siberia. There is no reason why there should be such a falling off in agricultural production. During the past year there has been a decrease of 45,000 in the number of tons kept in New York state. This example is typical."

Eagle Comes to Town.

Pittsburgh—An eagle perched on the window sill at the office of John Hurrell, general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines in Union station. When S. J. McDonald, a clerk, tried to capture it the eagle cut his hands with its beak until he was forced to release it and let it fly away.

In the News and Out of the Ordinary

A court at Cologne, Germany, holds that the term "suffragettes" is blasphemous and imposed a fine.

A Pittsfield (Mass.) man bought a second hand piano. Inside the instrument a tuner found a shirt freshly laundered and $100 in nickels.

A man in Portland, Ore., has a taste which calls for sour things as an ordinary taste does for sugar. For every meal he eats a quart of sour pickles.

An Englishman living at Greystone, R. I., has a unique occupation. He peddles hot peas, which he will either serve up with salt, pepper and vinegar or pour into a dish for family use.

The Rev. Edward H. Smith, a "marrying parson" of Oshkosh, Wis., has opened an office in the business section of the city for the greater convenience of those getting married.

TORREON, STORM CENTER; VILLA ON EVE OF BATTLE.

Mexican Town and Rebel Chief Who Planned For Its Conquest.

Torreon, which now occupies the center of the stage in the troubles of Mexico, was founded less than thirty years ago and has a normal population of 26,000 persons. It has large soap, cotton, flour and iron manufacturing, and a great smelter receives ores from neighboring mines. Nine months of the year the landscape is a picture of desolation, but the annual rains bring color and bloom. Normally there is a large foreign colony in Torreon, but most of these have fled, leaving only a few as caretakers of important property.

General Carranza and President Huerta agreed some time ago to the establishment of a neutral zone at Torreon, where foreigners would be safe from bullets.

The adjacent cities of Gomez Palacio and Laredo rise or fall in a military and political sense with Torreon.

A correspondent gives this interesting pen picture of General Pancho Villa as the rebel chieftain was perfecting his plans of attack:

"General Villa was everywhere, a fury of energy, now grabbing the halter of a refractory mule, now criticizing the insublings of a pack saddle or snapping orders at a subordinate officer. He went from point to point in his private car, attached to a light engine, and wherever he alighted his horse, saddled and bridled, was instantly awaiting.

"The light of battle fairly burned in the rebel leader's eyes. These are very wide set, so that when he looks at a visitor at close range they seem almost to cross, and their dark depths, always glowing, seem actually to flame in moments of excitement.

"His subordinates rarely argue with him, and in such moments when he shows intense excitement—never. It is a danger signal—one which the Scotchman, Benton, is said to have failed to heed."

General Felipe Angeles, chief of the artillery corps, named as second in command, to take command in the event of the death or disability of Villa, is a member of General Carranza's cabinet and was detached at Villa's solicitation to participate in the battle. He is an expert in the use of the big guns of the service, and many an artillery officer in the enemy's ranks at Torreon received his schooling from him.

LAKE ELLEN WILSON.

Montana Pond of Surpassing Beauty Named For the President's Wife.

Secretary Lane of the interior department has directed that a lake in Glacier National park be called Lake Ellen Wilson in honor of the wife of the president.

At the time of his visit last summer to Glacier National park, in Montana, Secretary Lane was much impressed with the beauty of this lake, which lies along the trail from Lake McDonald to Upper St. Mary lake. The lake is about a mile long and half a mile wide. Lying more than a mile above sea level, the forests and cliffs which surround it are reflected from its surface as in a mirror. The water of the lake is a deep blue, probably on account of its depth, which is more than 230 feet. Upon inquiry the secretary found that this small body of water, which is probably the most beautiful of its size in the entire west, was without a name and accordingly christened it Lake Ellen Wilson.

SPRING THAW BRINGS GERMS.

The public is at the mercy of millions of pneumonia and other noxious germs with the spring thaw.

How to avoid infection is outlined by Dr. Welschiller of the New York Y. M. C. A., who says:

"Do not overeat. If your system is clogged with food you'll be an easy victim. Eat good food, but not too much of it.

Keep your feet dry; wear your overcoat; exercise, and go to bed early."

SLEUTH IN AIRSHIP CATCHES FUGITIVE

Takes Thief Off Liner After Chase of Twenty-odd Miles.

IS FIRST FEAT OF THE KIND

Pressed Into Service After Robber Seals With Society Woman's Jewelry, Harold F. McCormick's Flying Boat Is Used as a Patrol Wagon—Wireless Telegraphy Aids Pursuers.

Twentieth century inventions have made the work of "Old Sleuth, the detective," much more effective, as has just been illustrated by one of the most remarkable captures known to the police and one which makes the work of detective story writers seem tame. In the remarkable thief chase which resulted successfully at Miami, Fla., wireless telegraphy and the airship were used.

Hitherto a thief has considered himself fairly safe when, after making a haul, he got on board a rapid ocean going steamship and started seaward. At least he would expect to be unmolested until he reached land somewhere. But, now with the wizardry of modern invention, the police may pluck a man from a ship in midocean and bring him back to a cell on terra firma.

A well known New York society woman, who is a guest at a Florida hotel, recently discovered that she had been robbed of a diamond brooch and a large sum of money. She reported her loss to the hotel authorities, and the house detective, Harry Schade, made an investigation. He discovered that one of the negro employees of the hotel had been spending a lot of money, and he was suspected. It was learned, however, that the negro, Juan Gullford, had left the city on board the Miami, bound for the Bahamas. It was feared that if he landed there he would disappear and would not be found.

Start of Spectacular Pursuit.

The detective then enlisted the aid of C. C. Wittner, a professional aviator, who operates the flying boat owned by Harold F. McCormick, a son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller. The aviator agreed to take the detective with him in a pursuit of the steamship. With George Hallett as an assistant, the party of three started. Steering by compass along the route taken by the steamship, after having ascertained the position of the ship by wireless telegraphy and also that Gullford was on board, the air craft went flashing through the air in pursuit.

Twenty-one miles away the ship was overhauled. Like a huge sea gull, the graceful air vessel settled in the water alongside the boat. The detective went on board, found the negro and plucked him under arrest. A search revealed the missing diamond trinket and a part of the stolen cash. The prisoner was lowered over the side of the ship, put aboard the airship and amid the applause of passengers, the air craft took wing, rose from the choppy waters and headed for Miami.

Caught Ship After Chase of an Hour.

Within an hour from the start from Miami the flying boat had overhauled the ship, the prisoner was taken and the return trip made. The negro was in a cell in less than two hours from the time that the first wireless message was sent out over the waters in an effort to locate him, and this despite the fact that there was a high wind and a drizzling rain was falling at the time.

After the man had been locked up, however, it was discovered that the detective had exceeded his authority in making the arrest on the high seas, as the ship was outside of the three mile limit and it was necessary to release the prisoner, but the air voyage was none the less successful, since the stolen plunder was recovered.

This flying boat, the Edith M., is said to be the first aerial patrol wagon on record.

RUBBER PATCHES ON HUMANS

Interesting Experiment Reported to the French Academy of Medicine.

Professor Delbet reports to the Academy of Medicine of Paris that he has used sheets of India rubber for body patches with great success. "Most substances without life are either absorbed by the living tissues or surrounded by them with a cyst, or tumor," said Professor Delbet. "India rubber has no such effect. It causes no coagulation of blood or blocking up of tissues.

"In 1886 I discovered in a cyst on a jaw a piece of India rubber tubing which had been left there in error twenty years before. It was in no way affected.

"I have inserted a thin India rubber sheet between a bone and a tendon which constantly adhered to it, and now there is no adhesion. The patient does not even feel any discomfort.

"More lately, in a case of serious rupture of the main intestine, I repaired the wall of the stomach that had given way with a thick sheet of India rubber, seven centimeters long and three centimeters wide. No irritation resulted and the patient had no ill effects. His stomach wall now is solid."
