Dr. Smith J. Mann and wife returned Sunday from their auto trip. During their absence they visited several California points, also a number of Willamette Valley points, including Salem, Portland, and other places. They report a very pleasant time.

Pat Hanrahan had the misfortune to get thrown out of a rig yesterday in a runaway and was severely bruised up, although no bones were broken. He was driving out to Merchant's beach after his family who had been camping there and as he was near the Fahy place the bolt which held the double tree broke, letting the tongue down and frightening the horses. Mr. Hanrahan held the horses until the dashboard of the rig broke, throwing him under the vehicle.

You Are Cause and Effect.
You are the effect of a cause.
You are yourself that cause.
You are an acme of things accomplished and an encluser of things to be. What you were yesterday, plus your efforts, is the cause of what you are today. And it depends upon yourself whether you will treat your present self as a mere effect, resting in that consciousness, or as a cause to be worked for and with, to the end that your future self be greater and more powerful for good than it is now or has ever been in the past.

It is up to the man. And no amount of sophistry can absolve him from the obligation to choose the highest each and every day, choose to do his best under all conditions.—Elizabeth Towne in Hearting

In the News and Out of the Ordinary

A court at Cologne, Germany, holds that the term "suffragettes" is slanderous and imposed a fine.

A Pittsfield (Mass.) man bought a second hand piano. Inside the instrument a tuner found a shirt freshly laundered and $100 in nickels.

A man in Portland, Ore., has a taste which calls for sour things as an ordinary taste does for sugar. For every meal he eats a quart of sour pickles.

An Englishman living at Greystone, R. I., has a unique occupation. He peddles hot peas, which he will either serve up with salt, pepper and vinegar or pour into a dish for family use.

The Rev. Edward H. Smith, a "marrying parson" of Oshkosh, Wis., has opened an office in the business section of the city for the greater convenience of those getting married.

TORREON, STORM CENTER; VILLA ON EVE OF BATTLE.

Mexican Town and Rebel Chief Who Planned For Its Conquest.

Torreón, which now occupies the center of the stage in the troubles of Mexico, was founded less than thirty years ago and has a normal population of 25,000 persons. It has large soap, cotton, flour and iron manufacturing, and a great smelter receives ores from neighboring mines. Nine months of the year the landscape is a picture of desolation, but the annual rains bring color and bloom. Normally there is a large foreign colony in Torreón, but most of these have fled, leaving only a few as caretakers of important property.

General Carranza and President Huerta agreed some time ago to the establishment of a neutral zone at Torreón, where foreigners would be safe from bullets.

The adjacent cities of Gomez Palacio and Laredo rise or fall in a military and political sense with Torreón.

A correspondent gives this interesting pen picture of General Pancho Villa as the rebel chieftain was perfecting his plans of attack:

"General Villa was everywhere, a fury of energy, now grabbing the halter of a refractory mule, now criticizing the lashings of a pack saddle or snapping orders at a subordinate officer. He went from point to point in his private car, attached to a light engine, and wherever he alighted his horse, saddled and bridled, was instantly awaiting.

"The light of battle fairly burned in the rebel leader's eyes. These are very wide set, so that when he looks at a visitor at close range they seem almost to cross, and their dark depths, always glowing, seem actually to flame in moments of excitement.

"His subordinates rarely argue with him, and in such moments when he shows intense excitement—never. It is a danger signal—one which the Scotchman, Benton, is said to have failed to heed."

General Felipe Angeles, chief of the artillery corps, named as second in command, to take command in the event of the death or disability of Villa, is a member of General Carranza's cabinet and was detached at Villa's solicitation to participate in the battle. He is an expert in the use of the big guns of the service, and many an artillery officer in the enemy's ranks at Torreón received his schooling from him.

LAKE ELLEN WILSON.

Montana Pond of Surpassing Beauty Named For the President's Wife.

Secretary Lane of the interior department has directed that a lake in Glacier National park be called Lake Ellen Wilson in honor of the wife of the president.

At the time of his visit last summer to Glacier National park, in Montana, Secretary Lane was much impressed with the beauty of this lake, which lies along the trail from Lake McDonald to Upper St. Mary lake. The lake is about a mile long and half a mile wide. Lying more than a mile above sea level, the forests and cliffs which surround it are reflected from its surface as in a mirror. The water of the lake is a deep blue, probably on account of its depth, which is more than 250 feet. Upon inquiry the secretary found that this small body of water, which is probably the most beautiful of its size in the entire west, was without a name and accordingly christened it Lake Ellen Wilson.

SPRING THAW BRINGS GERMS.

The public is at the mercy of millions of pneumonia and other noxious germs with the spring thaw.

How to avoid infection is outlined by Dr. Weizsäcker of the New York Y. M. C. A., who says:

Sam Says:

The mill is down but I'm still on the job, ready to furnish you with a skyscraper or a chicken-coop.
