COIN NAME FOR BABY

Nichols Infant Has Original Name, Which Suggests Lineage of Its Parents.

The following story from the Los Angeles Daily Times will be of interest to Bandon friends of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols. The story was accompanied by a picture of the new arrival in the arms of a nurse.

"What is in a name may amount to much if the name is one like that of dark-eyed, bright, little Gawies Nichols, who was born four days ago at the Methodist hospital. Its father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Nichols of No. 499 West Thirty-Seventh street, had to call in all the nurses, including the superintendent, Charlotte Armstrong, to help put together the name that had been chosen. It is an acronym of nationalities that forms the Christain cognomen.

Thus:
German.
American.
Welsh.
Irish.
English.
Scotch.

"The mother, prior to her marriage was Miss Emma Hunter, a German-American girl. Nichols had a Scotch Irish mother and a Welsh-English father. It was decided to preserve this mixed lineage in a name and so the letters were turned, twisted, switched and changed until the final euphonious combination was arrived at. The parents feel that a great step in life has already been accomplished for the young lady, who is expected to be just as wonderful as her name.

"Mr. Nichols is at present attending the summer school for teachers at the University of California and will occupy the chair of English at the Anaheim High School with the beginning of the next term. Gawies is the first arrival in the Nichols family and so important an event could not be slurred over with something simple like Mary Jane, Anna or May. Neither would flowers apply as names. Finally it was the creative mind of the father that found a way out of the difficulty.

"When asked what a girl of such lineage and so strange a name is destined for, Father Nichols instantly declared that first of all she shall be a true woman, with all of the womanly attributes and accomplishments that have placed American womanhood, the evolution of the melting pot of nations, at the head of the women of the world. If musically in lined following the traits of German-Welsh forbears, she shall be trained in that direction. If poetically disposed her early life will be turned toward Irish-English literature. If the commercial instincts of Scotch-American blood predominate, every endeavor to produce a scientific American business woman will be the aim of the fond parents."

MAYOR TOPPING GETS PICTURE IN OREGONIAN

Sunday's Oregonian contains the following about Mayor Topping's purchase of a new automobile, accompanying the article with a picture of Mr. Topping in the new car: "Mayor George Topping, of Bandon, is one of the latest purchasers of Mitchell Sixes. While in Portland last week he conceived the idea of spending the month of August on an 'auto tour' and selected the Mitchell as the car best suited to his fancy and needs. Mr. Topping intends to drive to Grants Pass, taking in the points of interest on the way. He will visit Crater Lake and, after a stay with relatives, will return to Bandon via the coast route. An interesting incident of Mr. Topping's purchase of a Mitchell is the fact that it was a complete surprise to Mrs. Topping. Although Mrs. Topping was in on all of the demonstration trips, she was kept in the dark as to the reasons for them."
