AUTO WHEEL DOES DAMAGE.

After Wrecking Kitchen It Sets House on Fire.

South Norwalk, Conn.—The wheel of a large automobile, said to have been going a mile a minute, went through the pantry window of Mrs. Isabelle Seymour's home here, sending dishes in all directions. Then it entered the kitchen, knocked the stove to pieces and set the house on fire. Next it hit the other side of the house, which stopped it.

The wheel, which weighed more than 100 pounds, was broken from the automobile of William Tucker of New York as it was coming down steep Armory hill. The wheel gained momentum for a hundred feet or so, then knocked over a fence at the side of the road and went down a precipitous incline to Mrs. Seymour's home.

"UNDESIRABLE" SHIPPED.

Locked Up In Tool Box of an Outgoing Locomotive.

Springfield, Mo. — How ten fathers horsewhipped a man who had been accused of improper conduct at his boarding house and then shipped him out of town by locking him in the tool box of a locomotive, was told to the police chief here by a committee of citizens who had been summoned to police headquarters.

The affair occurred the night previous, and its victim, according to the report to the police, was Jerry Malone, an employee at the St. Louis and San Francisco (Frisco) railroad shops.

No trace of Malone could be found the next day, and Frisco officials were asked to open the tool box on every locomotive between here and Newburg, Mo., as it is believed he was sent to that town.

SNOW ENTOMBS FOUR IN TENT

Hunting Party in West Forced to Dig Fifty Foot Tunnel.

Reno, Nev.—Marooned by a twelve foot fall of snow, R. D. Hawley, an eastern banker, and three companions on a hunting trip were forced to spend a week in a tent on one of the peaks of the Peavine mountain range.

The snowstorm was so severe that the men were obliged to remain in their tent until their provisions ran out. They then dug a tunnel fifty feet long and succeeded in killing some game. One of the party fell and sprained his knee.

Mountain lions prowled about the tent and once even penetrated into the tunnel, but were driven away.

CONGRESSMAN HAWLEY ANSWERS McLAIN ATTACK

"That is under the rules of the house, after a bill has been in the hands of a committee has not reported it after due time, a member may move that the house take the bill away from the committee and consider it without a report from the committee. That is what happened in this case. I attended every minute of the meeting of the house for a long time waiting for an favorable opportunity and it came one day after several members of the majority had been recognized for unanimous requests, I asked for recognition and called the bill up. My action secured the passage of the bill as the above quotation from the Record indicates.

"I regret that Mr. McLain has resorted to such a course as he has, glaringly misstating facts contained in public records. I am sure that Senator Chamberlain would be among the first to disapprove such a course. The service of the people is a most honorable service and those who seek public support should do so fairly. I take no pleasure in calling McLain to the bar of public opinion for his misstatements but believe that the public is entitled to know the facts. Possibly he was ignorant of the facts in such case he ought to have informed himself before he assumed to speak. Men may honestly differ on matters of opinion, but surely there can be no ground for difference as to what the public records say.—W. C. Hawley."

CARELESS PEOPLE CARRY CASH

It cost $1,000 sometimes for a skeptical person to learn that a bank is a safer depository for money than a hand bag. That is what it cost a lady recently to learn this bitter lesson. An enterprising burglar who was aware of her foolish distrust of banks watched his opportunity and the money was gone. The savings of almost a lifetime were lost merely because of the foolish ear that the bank would break. Think of the millions and millions of dollars in banks every day and night and the loss by the breaking of a bank is not one in a hundred millions. Don't try to be your own banker. You may regret it.
