Couldn't See the Joke.
"My wife and I came nearly having a quarrel on where we should spend our honeymoon," said the young man who had not been long married. "But it was settled by amicable compromise.
Just as I hope all our trifling disagreements will be settled."

"You see, I could get only a month off. She wanted to go to the seashore, and I wanted to go to the mountains.
Finally I suggested that we spend two weeks at the shore and two in the mountains. She thought it over for a minute and then gave in, very sweetly.
And now she says it was a positive inspiration. She was having a bully time at the shore, but she refused to stay a single day after our time was up."

"How many new dresses did she have in her wardrobe?" asked an interested listener.

"Why—er—fourteen, I think. But what's that got to do with it? Why, damn you fellows, what are you all laughing at?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Somebody's Golden Deed.
Somebody did a golden deed.
Proving himself a friend in need.
Somebody sang a cheerful song.
Brightening the skies the whole day long.
Was that somebody you?

Somebody thought 'tis sweet to live.
Willingly said, "I'm glad to give."
Somebody fought a valiant fight.
Bravely he lived to shield the right.
Was that somebody you?

Somebody filled all the hours.
Carelessly crushed life's fairest flowers.
Somebody made life loss, not gain.
Thoughtlessly seemed to live in vain.
Was that somebody you?

Somebody filled the day with light.
Constantly chased away the night.
Somebody's work bore joy and peace.
Surely his life shall never cease.
Was that somebody you?
—Author Unknown.

What's In a Name?
Corporal Mieczyslaw Smialkowski formerly served in the quartermaster corps at the Presidio of San Francisco under Major K. J. Hampton.

One day Major Hampton had a bad cold and sneezed frequently, and that day Corporal Mieczyslaw went into Major Hampton's office about ten times and asked that officer if he hadn't called him when he hadn't.

A man with a bad cold isn't apt to be in the best of humors, and the eleventh time the corporal appeared without being called the major was mad clear through.

"Doggone it, corporal," he snapped.
"I've got a holy terror of a cold, and if you persist in coming in here every time I sneeze because you think I'm trying to pronounce your fool name I'll have you up before a summary court if it's the last act I do before I sneeze myself to death."—San Francisco Chronicle.

MAN'S TWO MINDS.

To Make an Evenly Balanced Person
Both Must Be Used.

Expounding a theory that man has two minds, or a double consciousness—objective and subjective—Mr. Benson has compared the two activities to an upper and a lower room separated by a trapdoor. Dreams are due to the subjective consciousness working without check from the objective consciousness.

The man who usually claims to have an evenly balanced mind is the one who has shut the trapdoor and remains in the upper room, and those who have closed the trapdoor and remain in the lower rooms are commonly found in lunatic asylums.

The man of really even balance either remains between the two rooms or keeps the trapdoor well oiled.

Napoleon, in the lower room, conceived ideas for ruling Europe and in the upper room put his ideas into practice; Raphael created combinations of colors and then expressed them on canvas, and Beethoven in the lower room composed his sonatas and in the upper room reproduced the notes on paper.

The events of childhood are remarkably clear in the recollection of very old people, though present happenings are forgotten. This may be explained by the decay of the objective consciousness, and it is curious that as this decays the subjective consciousness becomes more acute.—New York Press.

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Mission of the Fuse When the Wires Become Crossed.

"Another short circuit!"
One of the commonest reports heard in all electrical works.

A "short circuit" means that the electric wires have become crossed or connected so as to form a bypath or shunt of comparatively low resistance, through which so much of the electrical current passes as practically to cut out that part of the circuit through which the current originally flowed. In other words, a "short circuit" has replaced the normal circuit, which may be considered a long circuit. The cutting out of the resistance of the long line permits the power to rush over this path of low resistance, and if the apparatus were not protected by the fuse or circuit breaker the electrical machinery would do itself serious harm.

To prevent serious effects from accidental short circuits of electric lighting wires in buildings a "fuse" is inserted in the circuit just inside the building.
In case a pull or some other falling object short circuits the electric wires in the house this fuse blows out—namely, melts out—and throws the circuit open so that no electricity can flow through the wires in the house until the "short" has been found and corrected.—New York World.
