by the name of Welch is now looking over Curry county with a view of investing if suitable property can be found. Mr. Welch is in love with the country so far as he has been able to see, and will spend a portion of the winter here at least before looking for a better country.

Residents from either end of the county will hardly know the court house square the next time they visit the county seat. The stumps have all been removed and the ground plowed up and leveled off which adds 100 per cent to the appearance of the building as well as the town.

Name Wanted for Apple.

Tuesday Judge Harlocker brought in a beautiful, fragrant and toothsome specimen from one of the apple trees in his orchard, for which he has been for some time trying to find a name. None of his neighbors or of the local fruit experts being able to locate it, he sent some specimens to O. A. C., but Prof. Lewis, the head of the horticultural department there, confessed that he was unable to name it. So he has sent more specimens to the U. S. Agricultural Department at Washington, hoping that they can solve the mystery.—Coquille Sentinel.

McVey Bound Over.

District Attorney Liljeqvist went over to North Bend yesterday to conduct the preliminary examination of O. L. McVey, who was arrested Monday night on the charge of contributing to the downfall of a 13-year old girl. The evidence against McVey, who is a cook in the Canton Cafe, in the Wilcox building, was obtained by Chief of police Anderson of North Bend, who secured an admission from the girl. Officer Anderson had been suspicious there was something wrong in the relations of McVey, who is 30 years old, and the child, and on questioning the girl obtained the confession.

McVey was bound over to the grand jury in $3500 bail.—Coquille Sentinel.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

PORT ORFORD

From the Tribune:
The instruments for the Port Orford brass band for which the members of that organization have been impatiently waiting for the past several weeks, arrived in town Sunday.

The firm of McKenzie & Poole have been making some neat and substantial improvements in and about their store on Front Street. During the past week they laid a sidewalk across the front of the block not occupied by the store, and inside they have built shelving, rearranged their stock and otherwise added to the taste and convenience of their store.

Fishing has closed at Rogue river for the season, and W. J. Whitworth passed up the coast yesterday with a four horse team load of Chinamen returning to the Columbia river. The salmon catch on the Rogue river this summer was very satisfactory, being rather above the average.

The bridge across Chetco river will not be completed this year. The Bandon Construction Company, who had the contract for building it, has met with so many mishaps in the loss of material, etc., that it could not fulfill its contract and the county court has extended the time limit. Work will commence again in the spring.

County Judge W. A. Wood has just received word from the Forest Department that they have allowed the sum of $4500 for work on the Rogue river trail at the Devils Stairs and the Back Bone. This sum, together with what Curry county can spend, will complete the work of making a water grade around both of these places.

GOLD BEACH

From the Globe:
E. M. Bogardus has been circulating a petition to the fourth assistant Postmaster General to readvertise the mail route between Gold Beach and Agness. Anyone who has not yet signed the petition should hunt it up at once, as this mail route means more to the residents of central Curry than all the other routes put together.

District Attorney Meredith was called to Port Orford since our last issue in a case in the justice court in which Asa E. Carey was accused of the crime of larceny of sheep. The defendant waived examination and gave three hundred dollar bail for his appearance before the grand jury which does not convene until April. A gentleman from Spokane, Wash.
