- Riley's Gold Mine.
- "James Whitcomb Riley," said a dentist, "carries a great quantity of gold in his mouth. One day, seated in the operating chair, while some minor repair work was going on, I left him for a moment. I heard a gentle murmur. Mr. Riley had taken up a hand mirror, was looking at his teeth, and indulging in a talk to himself. 'Well, well, well,' said the poet, 'what a quantity of gold. Looks as if I had eaten a rational bank and had forgotten to pick my teeth after dinner!'"

20 MILES ON RUNAWAY CAR

Brakeman Keeps Lantern Swinging For Danger Warning.

Medford, Ore.—Clinging to the roof of a runaway Southern Pacific freight car, J. F. Fowler, brakeman, dashed through the Medford yards at a seventy-five mile an hour gallop at night, pluckily swinging his lantern to give what warning he could of his meteoric approach.

The car tumbled twenty miles over the north line from Astoria to Gold Hill without accident, rounding several sharp curves and finally stopping on a long ascent. The operator at Astoria gave warning of its coming, and a freight train was side tracked barely in time to escape the car.

The first twelve miles were covered in fifteen minutes.

THE VOICE OF A CHILD.

How One of the World's Greatest Song Birds Was Discovered.

Many years ago a maid employed by Miss Lundberg, a famous dancer of the Royal Opera in Stockholm, was given a holiday by her mistress and set out to take a walk. Passing a shabby little house in the poorest section of the city she heard a child's voice, which seemed to her wonderfully fresh and beautiful, and, looking up, she saw a little girl sitting near the window singing to a pet kitten. In great excitement she rushed to her mistress and told her of the exquisite voice she had heard.

Miss Lundberg was somewhat skeptical, but finally went to the house and heard the sweet song. She, too, was convinced of the great natural beauty of the child's voice and reported it to Croffins, the singing master of the opera.

Croffins was also somewhat skeptical at first, but at Miss Lundberg's request he, too, went and, standing on the sidewalk, heard the child sing.

Entraptured in turn, he told Count Bahr, manager of the Royal opera, and arrangements were made by which the little girl sang for the court.

She was at once taken as a free pupil in the Royal Opera school and there after receiving the most instruction she could give. The child was Jenny Lind, the famous "Swedish Nightingale."
