

Count that day lost whose low descending sun, Sees goods sold for less than cost, and business done for fun.

We do not like to lose any "days" and are not in the habit of doing business for fun. But we have 89 Hart Shaffner and Marx suits that we are going to close, beginning Dec. 10, at the following prices: All fancy suits over $25.00 to close at $25.00. Suits over $21.00 and including $25.00 to close at $21.00. Suits up to and including 21.00 value to close at $17.50. This is a dependable line of merchandise; if you don't get your money's worth you get stung.

HARD SURFACED ROAD CONNECTING MARSHFIELD AND BANDON NEEDED

There is a strong probability that the railroad will be completed from the Southern Pacific main line to Marshfield during 1915. It is our opportunity and duty to build a modern highway from Marshfield to Bandon. It should be of such construction that it will stand up under the heaviest automobile traffic at all seasons of the year. If we do so we will no longer be in an isolated situation. We would be almost as favorably situated as though the railroad extended to Bandon.

The increasing use of the automobile wherever good roads are provided is amazing and revolutionary. Automobile stage lines operating over sufficient roads are not only successfully competing with the best interurban electric lines, but in several cities are offering an efficient competition to the street cars. They are not only able to make inroads into the street car companies earnings by following shorter routes and steeper grades than the cars do and by running in districts that the street car companies desire to make walk to their existing lines, but also by running on the same streets that the cars run. In sections of the country well provided with suitable roads they are successfully competing with steam railroads in hauling both passengers and freight. Traffic experts predict an increasing use of auto trucks for freight hauling and their use over longer distances.

California is spending millions in building good automobile roads. They have found that the investment pays in attraction of tourists alone, even if other advantages are not considered. The Bandon beach is by far the most picturesque to be found along the entire U. S. Pacific coast line, but is practically unused by tourists owing to the difficulty in reaching it. Tourists at present have to choose between a fatiguing stage ride and sea sickness. An efficient and comfortable hourly auto service between Marshfield and Bandon would offer an additional enjoyment to arriving tourists. Nothing is more enjoyable and exhilarating than a fast auto ride over excellent roads.

With such a road built tourist and vacation patronage might easily become the leading and most paying industry of Bandon. It is a profitable and cash business. It is poor policy for Bandon not to realize on its greatest natural resource.

The rest of the world is fast building durable roads and any community that fails to do so will be left behind in the procession. The Coquille river country has been settled long. Still the rich natural resources have hardly been touched with the exception of lumber. But little land has been cleared, though when cleared it is the best dairy land to be found anywhere and ranks high for agricultural and horticultural purposes. Poor transportation and especially poor wagon roads has been the country's only drawback. The hills are rich in coal and mineral resources awaiting accessibility for their development.

The property abutting such a road would be quadrupled in value immediately while the land within several miles would advance in price.

Nature has been too prodigal with her benefactions. But the time has arrived when we must meet greater opportunities with greater expenditures of energy. When the era of prosperity and development that can not be long delayed arrives it should find us ready to play our part and receive our reward.

The gods help those that help themselves. Opportunity is knocking at our door and we should measure up to our opportunities.

This is a project for a resuscitated commercial club. Come! Let us gird up our loins and put on the whole armour of progress.

Bandon should arise to her opportunity.
