

People of Bandon Given Chance to Save Money

It has often been said that opportunity knocks at each individual's door but once in their lifetime, and if the chance presented, is overlooked, that that one particular chance can be looked upon as lost for ever.

How many people really know when opportunity knocks? Some people say it is impossible to know. Some are never looking for it, others are 'always on the job,' and many are fortunate enough to always be on the lookout for 'opportunity.'

To those that say it is impossible to know, we can put them on the right trail, but before we go into detail we want to say that saving money is as great a virtue and one of the strong features of "opportunity," as is accumulating money.

E. Harriman, the late railroad magnate, once said that a person's financial standing was not really figured from the amount of money he could accumulate, in his opinion, but by the amount of shrewdness he displayed in manipulating a small amount to the least advantage.

Now then for the tip. A certain store in the city of Bandon is offering an opportunity to shrewd buyers—an opportunity that is the chance of a lifetime. A chance to save money. If you have been reading some of the clever advertisements of the BANDON DRY GOODS CO., during the past two weeks, you know who we mean. They must clear their shelves and counters of their entire stock of merchandise, and in order to do it, they have cut the prices of everything so deep that even the thought of cost is ridiculous.

Yes, we admit that this statement sounds rather overdrawn, however upon second thought, did it ever occur to you that a reliable concern like the Bandon Dry Goods Co., could not come out in the papers with a gross misstatement of facts, in order to fool the people into spending their money at their store? The reputation for this concern has always been of the highest and ever since it has been under the personal supervision of Manager Murphy, the public has been able to depend not only upon the high quality of merchandise offered, but upon every article and price advertised.

The Bandon Dry Goods Co., is maintaining a strictly fair and square money back policy. If you make any purchases in this store and they have at all been misstated, or at all unsatisfactory, you only need to return it and get your money back. By this policy and this policy only, can a store succeed. And by the way, this policy has not been suspended during this, the greatest sale ever held in Bandon. No outside goods have been brought in especially for the sale, and everything offered is brand new and right up to the handle.

If you have never given this sale a serious thought now is the time to take a good big think. But don't think too long. Put on your hat and walk down town to the Bandon Dry Goods Co., and look over the various articles of merchandise they have to offer. There are thousands of them, and each and every one is an opportunity in itself for you to save money.

They Can't Make It Go

MAIL ORDER HOUSES CAN'T COMPETE WITH WONDERFUL VALUES OFFERED BY BANDON DRY GOODS CO.

Competition Is Left Far Behind

PUBLIC BEGINS TO REALIZE THAT MERCHANDISE CAN BE BOUGHT FOR LESS MONEY AT HOME.

This is one time that the mail order houses have had something slipped over on them. It is a well known fact all over this country that the mail order houses have been the ruin of many home industries. Not directly perhaps through the fact that they sell cheaper than the home merchant, but from the lack of support of the home people who think that by sending to some distant city for merchandise through pictures in a catalogue that they can do better.

Why people think these things, can best be determined by each individual, as it is beyond the power of any one person to give a good reason for it. This article is addressed to mail order fiends in particular—those of you who have a mania for sending your money out of the community to help some concern who has absolutely no interest in your home town other than to get your money.

If you have never given your merchant the consideration due him, turn over a new leaf now and begin by going to the Bandon Dry Goods Co. and take a look around. Investigate the merchandise. Compare it with the goods you have been buying from the mail order houses. Then COMPARE THE PRICES.

The discovery will be a revelation to you. Others have done it and the result is SATISFIED CUSTOMERS. At all times, and especially during this price slashing sale, you can save all kinds of money over the mail order house prices, and you don't have to pay freight or express charges either. INVESTIGATE!

A Christmas Dinner Free

BANDON DRY GOODS CO. MAKES IT POSSIBLE TO SECURE DELICACIES FOR THE CHRISTMAS TABLE FREE.

Certainly a Liberal Offer

EVERYTHING FROM CRANBERRY SAUCE TO PLUM PUDDING MANY MORE STUNTS TO BE PULLED OFF.

What would a good old fashioned Christmas dinner be without cranberry sauce and plum pudding?—besides a liberal supply of nuts, raisins, figs, sweet potatoes, celery and raffa of other goodies? It would certainly seem as though the bottom had fallen out of the day without all these dainties, but the cost to supply them runs mighty heavy, and cautious housewives might think twice this season before she goes to market and spends good money for all these things. Once more the Bandon Dry Goods Co., comes to the rescue with a proposition worth relating here.

All you have to do, according to Manager Murphy is to make your purchases in this store amount to $10.00 and the whole list of groceries are your.

During this sale, a grocery offer has been in effect, but has been canceled in order to inaugurate this new offer, which includes a list of Christmas groceries worth $2.00, and which is yours free for the asking. A liberal proposition indeed, which is greatly strengthened by the fact that what you pay $10.00 for would ordinarily cost you from $18.00 to $25.00.

XMAS TREE ORNAMENTS

We almost forgot to tell you about the most complete line of Christmas tree ornaments, including gold and silver tinsel, fancy balls, snow, tree wire, coccinellidias, paper bells, etc., etc., ranging in price from 1c to $1.00. Societies and churches will do well to figure with the Bandon Dry Goods Co., before buying decorations for their Christmas trees.

Early Happy Childhood Memories Brought to Mind

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood, When fond recollections present them to view."

Nothing prettier was ever written than the above selection from the famous poem. How the memories of early childhood flood our minds around Christmas time. The memories of the old fashioned Christmas—the glittering decorations—the mysterious packages all tied with fancy ribbons, the tempting bags of candy, the toys, horns and the thousand and one whatnots. Will you ever forget the happy years?

To those of us who have grown up into manhood and womanhood, the fascination of Christmas has passed away but the memory still lingers. We should not let selfishness take possession of us however. In our travels through this world, we should not forget the consideration due others. A cherry word, a happy smile, a bit of kindness here and there and a lot of optimism all help. Then there is Christmas. The time when we can remember those we hold most dear in a more substantial manner. Mother, father, wife, sister, brother, sweetheart and the kiddies. Ordinarily, to buy Christmas presents for all of them would mean quite a sacrifice to the average person, but this season, the difficulty has been removed by the Bandon Dry Goods Co.

Of course you know by this time that they are holding the greatest holiday sale ever conducted in Bandon or vicinity.

All brand new merchandise bought especially for the holiday trade, thrown to the mercy of the public just a few days before Christmas. The profit is one part of this sale that has been entirely eliminated, however. And when we say profit eliminated, we mean just exactly what we say. This is a no profit sale. The entire line of merchandise must be sold. Everything you can think of is included—Fancy tie and handkerchiefs for men and boys, suspender sets, shirts, ties, traveling cases, comb and brush sets, shaving sets and hundreds of things we cannot mention here, all nicely packed in appropriate holiday boxes.

Then for the women folks we have suits, cloaks, dresses, manicure sets, comb and brush sets, sewing sets, handkerchiefs, slippers of all kinds, shoes, hosiery, and other appropriate useful gifts too numerous to itemize here.

Then there are the kiddies. Fifty of all TOYS! Wood, metal, mechanical and doodles of other kinds. The toy department is an education in itself. It will interest the old folks as well as the young. And don't overlook the games. Many of them very instructive.

And then dolls! Oh, my the dolls that they sow. Big dolls, little dolls, talking dolls, sleeping dolls, toy dolls, girl dolls, baby dolls and hundreds of other kinds. The list is bewildering and would take more than the entire paper to tell about it. Worth your while to investigate this department. It means dollars saved for you.

ONLY a few more days left in which to take advantage of this phenomenal bargains. The great whirlwind selling campaign has about come to an end. Prices cut deeper than ever. Buy now and buy early. A deposit on any purchase will hold it until Christmas. We have a complete line of fresh and high grade candies on the holiday trade.

NATIONAL TASTES IN EGGS.

The Spaniard Splits His Minute and Then Drinks Them Down.

How do you eat an egg?

To a stranger the manner in which you eat this part of your breakfast may indicate your nationality. Nearly every nationality has some special way of cooking and serving eggs for breakfast, and, quite unconsciously, the average person's order of eggs will reveal his nationality.

Americans are said to prefer poached eggs. The foreigner when traveling who sees a man order a couple of eggs poached on toast almost immediately jumps to the conclusion that only an American could have given the order. Hard boiled eggs, served whole, are another American dish, and "boiled eggs," where the yolk is mixed with various condiments, is strictly American. Fried eggs, too, are more common in America than elsewhere.

Hard boiled eggs are eaten in Germany too, but they are usually prepared in a glass, chopped with butter, salt and pepper. The German likes his soft boiled eggs very soft, indeed, and breaks the yolks into a china cup, eating them from the cup. The "egg cup" is an invention of Germany, but the German ones are large enough to contain several eggs. "Some eggs" are eaten in Germany too.

The average Englishman likes his egg boiled for three and a half minutes, no more and no less. He is particularly about the time. He prefers a small egg cup that holds one egg, the shell of which is not removed. The Englishman then removes the top of the shell, bread and butter, instead of the toast of the American, is eaten with the Englishman's eggs.

The Frenchman removes the top of his egg too, but then he stirs the contents thoroughly and adds bits of bread and butter to the egg. Sometimes squares of bread are dipped into the egg.

No Spaniard would dream of letting an egg boil three minutes—that is, if he prefers his eggs prepared strictly in the native fashion. The egg is allowed to boil only one minute and is then broken open and the contents poured into a glass. The real Spanish style—drinking it off as if it were water.

In Italy eggs to be perfectly prepared are cracked on their boiling by being put into cold water. When the water comes in a boil the egg is done. It is eaten on a large plate with bread

Wealth of Detail.

Former Governor Proctor Knott of Kentucky used to tell a story of a native who appeared as a witness in a mountain murder trial where Knott was an attorney. The mountaineer took the stand, chewing tobacco, and gave his name, his age and his place of residence. Then one of the lawyers asked him to describe his first meeting with a certain person who figured in the case.

"Well," drawled the native, "he rid through our place astraddle of a dun colored critter a-blowin' of a fox hunt in' horn and a warstin' of a beardskin overcoat, and hit was hot weather. I axed him if the critter he wore a-ridin' were a geldin' or a 'riginal, which he 'lowed it wore and driv on."—Saturday Evening Post.

Musical Tones in Architecture.

It has long been believed that each of the mammoth buildings of the world will vibrate in response to some special musical tone. Architects believe they have found the tones for such famous structures as the cathedral at Cologne, Notre Dame in Paris and St. Paul's in London. Certainly it is true that each of these buildings returns to the ear of the listener that one tone intensified and augmented to a surprising extent. The corollary statement that this keynote, if sounded long enough and with sufficient force, would bring disaster has never been proved.—Christian Herald.

Human Skin as a Polisher.

I had always supposed that the chamote possessed the skin best adapted for polishing purposes, but recently in a leading jeweler's shop I learned otherwise. Nothing it seems, can surpass such a luster to plate as the human skin, and all the best articles are polished, quite literally, by hand-rubbed gently by the lower arch of the hand at the base of the thumb. "We keep a girl to do nothing else," said my informant, and I reflected that I had discovered a new industry and a new definition of "palm oil."—London Opinion.

Who Gets the Medal?

"I understood that you have a fine track team here," said the visitor to the guide who was showing him through the college. "What individual holds most of the medals?"

The guide polished. "Well, sir," he said, "I guess it is the powerlifter downtown."—Exchange.

MADE A SECRET PACT.

Yet in Some Way the Story Was Pried Loose, and Here It Is.

Homer Croy, the humorist, was visited the other day by Frank Smith who had told a story to a magazine and wanted some money right away. It was a 3,000 word yarn. Croy figured it would bring 2 cents a word, so he loaned Smith $30 and Smith gave Croy the following agreement:

"Whereas, I,udent, and Know all men by these presents:

"I, the undersigned, Frank L. Smith, being, to the best of my belief, in my right mind, do hereby bequeath, be stow and otherwise make a free, gratis gift of any and all moneys that may be paid to me for a story entitled, 'Breaking Up the Bunch.' The facts of the case being as follows: Me, I, the party of the first part, having received written info, that the mag. has decided to fall for my story, and, being broke, I have decided to discount my claim for fifty ($50) beans, cash money, to be paid me by said H. Croy. It is understood that if I paid more than fifty I am to turn it all over to Croy without a murmur, yea, I must never squeal nor advertise to the world that Croy has made this soft money. And, likewise, and by the same token, if I paid less than fifty beans Croy is to keep his trap closed and make no reference in any way, shape, form, manner, language (including the Scandinavian, or dialect, to the fact that he has made an error in judgment."

"Will you be satisfied with $70?" asked Smith some weeks later. Croy thought a moment and then said "Ye-es."

Before a witness the money was paid over, but Croy still hung about. Final ly he asked:

"Would you mind telling me who you got for that yarn?"

"Sure you are satisfied?" asked Smith.

"Yes," said Croy.

"Well, I got $185 for it," said Smith.—New York World.

Discouragement.

What kills men is discouragement. It is sitting down under trouble that destroys them; it is standing up and making trouble that enables them to go through it without harm.

Some Old Story.

"They still do it, sir, say." $407.50 to it.—Detroit Free Press.

WOOD FLOUR FROM WASTE

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT LOOKING INTO POSSIBILITIES FOR NEW INDUSTRY IN THE MANUFACTURING FIELD.

In its efforts to attain complete utilization of our forest resources, the federal government has been making inquiries into the possibilities of manufacturing wood flour from sawdust waste.

The flour in question is not the kind which is converted into fluffy biscuits or flaky pastry, nor is it a substitute for corn meal, although it looks somewhat like it. This wood flour is made by grinding dry sawdust or small wood waste (that of pine or spruce is excellent for the purpose) in a cheap mill, similar to the kind in which corn and rye are ground. After passing through the stones and the bolting chest, it is sacked or baled for shipment. It is then worth $12.00 to $13.00 per ton.

This flour is used in making dynamite, and acts as the absorbent for the nitro-glycerine. Dynamite made with wood flour as one of the ingredients is somewhat inferior to that made with infusorial earth, but it is cheaper. The use of wood flour in the manufacture of dynamite, however, is but a minor use of the product. Its chief use is in the manufacture and sylvate, both in coverings that are very popular for use in kitchens, halls, corridors, cafes, restaurants and public rooms. It is impervious to water and practically fire proof. It is also used as floor material on some of the German way vessels, for it is not liable to absorb fire or splinter if hit by shells.

The manufacture of wood flour is already an extensive industry in Europe. Norway has been manufacturing it for years and exports thousands of tons. Germany also is a large manufacturer. England and France are extensive buyers. In the United States the matter of wood flour has not as yet been given much consideration. A few mills in the Middle West and one at Hoquiam, Washington, are all that have attempted to transfer their wood waste into wood flour. The amount of sawdust to be had in this country, especially in the Northwest, is unlimited, and lumbermen should welcome this method of turning their waste into a practical and profitable product.

SOUVENIR POST CARDS GIVEN AWAY AT GRAND

Christmas Day, Dec. 25, the management of the Grand Theatre will give each patron a souvenir post card of John Bunny, and every week following will have a souvenir post card day, so that you can secure the entire collection of all the famous proto players now appearing on the screen. Every Tuesday night will be souvenir night after Christmas. Don't fail to get a card of John Bunny, the Vitagraph Star, comedian, on Christmas Day, Dec. 25. All children accompanied by their parents go to the theatre FREE. We wish all our patrons a Merry Christmas, and express our thanks for your valued patronage. Our aim for 1915 will be to conduct the Grand in a way that will meet the approval of all photo play fans, securing the latest and best pictures that the market affords.

Prof. Kausrud's orchestra will continue to please our patrons with the best in music. Again expressing my appreciation of your support, I am respectfully,

W. C. Sellmer, Mgr.
Grand Theatre.

Good Time to Let Contract.

A considerable number of contracts have been let lately at figures well under the engineer's estimates, says Engineering and Contracting, a trade journal. Close figuring and unusual competition have been secured at recent public works lettings.

Prices of materials are lower now than they have been for some years. Labor is abundant and cheap. This combination makes possible a saving in construction undertakings. Municipalities should take advantage of present conditions by placing their improvements under contract. In doing this they not only will provide employment for many idle laborers in their own localities, but they also will be able to get their work done much more cheaply than has been the case in previous years. Any project advertised now will be sure to obtain the close attention of many contractors.

A fine musical program was rendered at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening.

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Rosa Bonner, 825 N. 18th St., Birmingham, Ala., says:

"I have been suffering with nervous prostration for nine or ten years. I have tried many of the best doctors in Birmingham, but they all failed to reach my case. I would feel as if I was smothering; finally I went into convulsions. My little girl saw advertised in the papers and I at once began to take it. I continued to take it for some time and now I am well."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep, if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what the matter with you, but there is no reason why you should delay treatment.

Dr. Miles' Nerve

has proven its value in nervous prostration for thirty years, and now a trial, in either form, may give you remedies long sought for by you. Sold by all druggists. It will bring you to health, your money is returned.
