IN WASHINGTON'S TIME

George Washington, in his message to Congress in 1870 gave utterance to these words which well apply to the situation today.

The disturbed situation of Europe and particularly the critical posture of the great maritime powers, while it ought to make us the more thankful for the general peace and security enjoyed by the United States, reminds us at the same time of the circumspection with which it becomes us to preserve these blessings.

It requires also that we should not overlook the tendency of a war, and even of preparations for war among the nations most concerned in active commerce with this country, to abridge the means and thereby at least enhance the price of transporting its valuable products to their foreign markets.

I recommend it to your serious reflection how far and by what modes it may be expedient to guard against embarrassments from those contingencies by such encouragement as our own navigation as will render our commerce and agriculture less dependent on foreign bottoms which may fail us in the very moments most interesting to both of these great objects.

TRUCK GARDENING

It is with amazement that one who has seen the fine quality of vegetables that can be raised in and near Bandon, first views the unloading of crate after crate of California grown vegetables from the ships at the Bandon wharf. This is certainly an industrial waste. With the establishing of factories and industries, the contributing industry of feeding the laborers in mine, field and camp should be developed also.

It is doubtful if Bandon offers a greater remuneration today for labor intelligently applied than it does to those who will engage in truck gardening. A rich soil, a suitable climate, and a ready market are waiting those who will take advantage of their opportunity to supply vegetables for which money is now sent out of the state.

Experts who are in a position to know declare it as their belief that the wool market this season will be the highest ever known. They base their opinion on the high offers already made to growers by some buyers and the big foreign demand. The embargo situation will play havoc with the situation in more ways than one, they say and conditions are decidedly unsettled.

It is the belief of these men that medium valley wool will probably open at 25 cts. and may go to 28 cts or thereabouts before the season is ended. Fine wool, they say, will probably not go over 18 or 20 cts. Most of the growers prefer to wait for the shearing season before selling, in the hopes of securing top-notch prices.

At the same time it is pointed out that the mohair situation is the best ever known, and the outlook the brightest ever recorded. There will be a good demand and many will use mohair in place of wool. Today it is cheaper than wool, but it is generally believed it will open around 30 or 31 cents, from two to three cents higher than the top price last season.

GREATEST LITERARY MAN

It takes a real writer to force people to read what they think they don't want to read about; you will notice that the writers of great literature started by choosing something that people wanted to read. It takes real gray matter to construct an ad-power."

In his epigrammatic way, Merrill A. Reed, president of the Reed Advertising company of Portland, told 120 State University students that the man who puts an ad. into an Oregon newspaper ought to pay just as much attention to his method of selling the goods as he does to buying them.

"An ad writer is like an architect in one respect, he said: "the architect has to know all about the different parts of building as he constructs it. So the writer of an ad should have full knowledge of the business and the goods he writes about."

Mr. Reed gave figures to show that others besides himself believe in advertising: "In American magazines alone $7,000,000 a year is spent on ads," he said.

The original man with something to sell knew he must advertise: He carved on a rock a crude announcement, Mr. Reed said. Printing type, fast presses, and development of modern printing facilities have given a wonderful impetus, "but even now advertising has not been reduced to an exact science, although it is one of the biggest factors in our daily life."

More than 100 students, nearly all men have enrolled for this advertising series. They include many of the future consumers of advertising in this state, who know that to be successful they will have to advertise, and who desire to learn while in the University how best to do it to achieve results.

SOMETHING TO MEMORIZE

Pictures of Memory

Among the beautiful pictures That hang on memory's wall, The one of the dim, old forest Seemeth the best of all.

Not for its gnarled oaks, olden, Dark with the mistletoe, Not for the violets, golden, That sprinkle the vale, below,

Not for the milk white lillies That lean from the fragrant hedge, Coquetting all day with the sunbeams And stealing their golden edge,

Not for the vines of the uplands Where the bright red berries rest, Nor for the pinks or the pale, sweet cowslip,

It seemeth to me the best.

I once had a little brother With eyes that were dark and deep, In the laps of that dim, old forest He lieth, in peace, asleep;

Light as the down of the thistle, Free as the winds that blow, We rove there the beautiful summers, The summers of long ago,

But his feet on the hills grew weary And one of the autumn eves, I made for my little brother A bed of yellow leaves

Softly, his pale arms folded My neck in a meek embrace And the light of immortal beauty Silently covered his face

And when the arrows of sunset Lodged in the treetop bright, He fell, in a saint like beauty, Asleep by the gates of light.

Therefore of all the pictures That hang on memory's wall The one of the dim, old forest Seemeth the best of all.

—Alice Carey

Treadgold Commends Petition

Attorney G. T. Treadgold, who has the legal work of the Port of Bandon in charge, has some commendation for District Attorney Liljeqvist's petition for a rehearing in the Port case. He avers that "it is a lengthy and well printed document," but doesn't expect the Supreme court to change its mind on account of it. It seems to us that the least thing the court can do, after refusing that petition, is to order the port boundaries changed so as to conform with the law, by eliminating all territory in the Coos Bay Watershed—Coquille Valley Section.
