RIVALS ON RIVER LET DOWN EASY

Capitol H. J. Parkinson Made Goal and Lewis Slipper's License for 60 Days

The champion Telegraph is now in the hands of a new owner, the third in the history of the newspaper. The transaction was completed today, with the purchase of the newspaper by George H. Parkinson, of the town of Oak Park, and he will assume the management of the newspaper. The transaction was made at a price of $3,000, which is said to be the highest price ever paid for a newspaper in the county.

The Telegraph is one of the oldest newspapers in the county, having been established in 1853. It has been operated continuously since its founding, and has been published without interruption for the past 100 years.

The Telegraph is published weekly, and covers local news, events, and happenings in Oak Park and the surrounding area. It is widely read and respected for its accuracy and fair-minded reporting.

The new owner, Mr. Parkinson, is a well-respected and respected business man in the area, and is expected to continue the tradition of quality journalism.

The sale of the Telegraph is a significant event in Oak Park, and is expected to bring continued prosperity to the newspaper.
