TUESDAY, MARCH 8
Report of Geological Survey Indicates Slight Chance for Commercial Development.

The general conclusion in the report and position along the Pacific coast of the Coast Ridges of California in the rain-bearing regions of the state was that rainfall may occur in commercial quantity in the eastern part of the state.

According to the report of a reconnaissance of that region by W. E. Wauthon, a geologist in the United States Education service, the chance of getting all in the commercial quantity there is very slight indeed.

In some areas, the climate seems to be being changed at the present time in the area but it does not appear that rainfall will be practically increased in the area. The report concludes that there will be a slight increase in rainfall in the future, but it does not appear that the increase will be sufficient to change the present conditions.
