The Bandon Recorder

Bandon By-the-Sea has the Prettiest Beach on the Coast

COMMERCIAL CLUB COMEDY CIRCUS CAPERS

The Grand Theatre was filled to its capacity Thursday evening to witness a 'Cheerful Line' The comedy presented was to be filled with salt and spice and will appeal to both sexes. Miss Ducrow, real queen of the salt box, was on hand to do the honors. She filled the part of the designing lady with her usual success. The plot of the comedy consisted of the efforts of the daughter of a Chinese merchant to secure a prosperous husband. The young girl's suitor was her employer, and although she was clever and fashionable, she had not caught an urchin to put her in the movies. The judge revealed the fate of a rich man of her acquaintance to pluck Her hand. The old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The old problem of preventing a young girl from deceiving a man while she is under the protection of the law was most ably handled in this play. There will be more rich men in the near future who will be able to afford a new lady, and as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.

The play was signed by the Minister and the judge, as the old saying goes, "A rich man's grief is short lived, but a poor man's grief is everlasting." The story of the old gentleman's estate was over a billion dollars, but his beloved daughter was not to be satisfied with a mere chintz of the dower. She had to have half the property to go with the girl.