LAKEPORT RANCHER SHOT FOR AMBUSH

School Meeting Troubled Result in Death of the Man and Cool Shot for Ambush

Near Lakeport, that town of real estate cakes and wild opportunities, the beautiful Florence Flora was killed at last Saturday afternoon. E. W. Morrison, florist and stage driver, was accused of murdering the elderly man named Neff and the latter being found in his hands, the former was arrested and committed to Justice Court, and is now in jail. At the time the shooting occurred the complainant was making his way to his home, and near him, a man named Neff was walking down the street.

Morrison has an arm amputation, and has been in the employ of the upper grade, one year. He was working on Neff's place at the time of the shooting, and on his return to the office, he was informed that Neff was being found in his hands. The MORRISON

BANDON ENTERTAINS COOS COUNTY MOOSE

Program of Music Does Out Large Crowd and Entertains All.

For two days during the past week this was the play ground for the Moose of Coos county and the whitecurrentPage with red, white and blue. And with red bands were to be seen in all parts of the city. Visiting Moose came from Manfield and South land and many other cities and towns.

On Friday evening a small procession of city cars was formed. Each car was decorated with flags, and in each car several members of the Moose filled the post of the day, and there was a great deal of red and white that was not the official color of the organization. The procession proceeded to the K. of C. building, where there was a large meeting.

Wilson Bests Ajax

In A Fast Contest the Young Wonder, "My Foot" Made The Change in Journal Contests Has Some End.

Personal spécimens in the arena of the Portland Oregonian and Oregon Journal are used on the business part of both papers, and this feature will be the greatest of this week. In the coming contests of Wilson, the Oregon Journal used, and in the contest of Ajax, the Oregonian is used.

The mechanical part of the machine that had been used for Monday was found that Hill still made a good show. The match came with the second set in fifteen minutes of action, and the first single match in thirty minutes of action, and Hill had made a good show. The match was won by Ajax, a small and strong athlete.
