Oregon at the Fair

It is constantly demonstrated here that the two magic words in English language are: "New" and "Free", with special emphasis on the latter. If a crowd is wanted at any building or exhibit, offer something new; if a larger crowd is desired offer something new and make it free. When the Oregon building advertised that it would give away Oregon Rosse, the structure was crowded and jammed to the limit. There are roses and roses in California, but none with the fame of the Oregon Rose, so they came to see and to carry away. When it was made known that on a certain day loganberry juice would be served to all comers, the crowds came. Loganberry juice sounded new and it was free to all a tasty stream. The crowds literally swamped the building and in turn were swamped with loganberry juice and liked the experience. During Oregon Week, just ended, the coast counties—Tillamook, Coos and Curry—told the hungry populace (everybody is persistently hungry on the exposition grounds) that they would give away cheese made in this incomparable dairy region. Did the people come! They came at such a rate that the hands thrust forward for a sandwich seemed as numberless as the sands of the seashore. And after they had eaten one generous morsel they went out the door and got into line for another. They even went into the moving picture theatre and listened for a half hour to J. A. Ward and George M. Hyland boosting the glories of the coast region—all because they were told they might get another morsel. During the afternoon, Mrs. D. L. Rood Miss Palmer Mrs. Carl Allrecht, Miss Francis France, and Mr. Ward had all they could do to hand out little squares of cheese and crackers and tell them they could get plenty of such cheese in Tillamook, Coos and Curry.

On Saturday the representatives of Eastern Oregon—Lackey and McCully—tendered sacks of popcorn. The city papers had heralded the fact that popcorn would be free at the Oregon building this date—and the entire force is still recovering from the experience in handling that crowd. During the entire afternoon the numbers were such that it was almost impossible to move in or out. No less than 15,000 of the half pound sacks were handed out after 2 o'clock. The popcorn was worked over-time and then broke down or the number of sacks given away might have reached 20,000. The people enjoyed the corn and they enjoyed the crowding; they also took time to enjoy the exhibits on both floors, for the entire building was filled to overflowing. Thus the effort served its purpose; it brought extraordinary numbers to the building for a glimpse, and many will return to see the exhibits at their leisure and when the crowds are not so great. The people are out to see all there is to see; they are in a holiday spirit, and they like the little extra efforts. They feel that since they expect to go to a certain building they might as well go when there is something special doing. The Oregon building people feel that if they will but come and get one glimpse they will come again and they invariably do so.

On Monday the big Exposition band played for us in honor of "All Oregon Day" and Commissioner John F. Logan and Senator Arthur Langguth of Portland, Dr. W. J. Kerr and George M. Hyland boosted for Oregon in a way that brought enthusiastic applause from the multitudes. On Tuesday Ben Sheldon, of Medford, and Judge William Colvig talked Rogue River Valley and Oregon to a theatre full and throughout the date the Rogue River Valley pictures were viewed by many hundreds. Wednesday was cheese day, Thursday Oregon School Day, Friday Willamette Valley Day, with stewed prunes on tap and Dr. Dunsmore of Independence, E. S. Evenden of Monmouth, F. W. Sullivan of Oregon City, Dr. L. M. Davis of Portland and M. Mosessoehn as speakers. Saturday was the memorable popcorn day—a great week and with the Oregon building more popular than ever.

Any booster, or any county in Oregon, or any other force that went to do a great service for this building can do so by furnishing from time to time any new and original idea about how to get publicity and crowds, and then furnish some means of carrying it out. Any county that has anything to give away can make a hit here just as big as their generosity. All mining men and miners of Oregon will be interested in the fact that during the last of September a "Miners Week" will draw thousands to the exposition. Some of the largest men connected with the mining industry are back of the idea and are co-operating with the officials here in the effort to interest both the big and the little fellow in the states of Idaho, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California. The details of the program will be forthcoming as soon as possible and it is already certain that the week will have very much of greatest interest to those connected in any way with taking from the earth the wonderful stores of riches with which nature has endowed the mountains and valleys of this great country.

M. Mosessoehn, for twelve years assistant secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, now editor of The Oregon Country, has been in the Oregon building at the fair several times recently. He is more than pleased with the structure and the exhibits and was amazed at the crowds passing through the Oregon building. "You may quote me as strong as you please," said Mr. Mosessoehn, "for I believe that Oregon is creating a tremendous impression here. Besides what I have seen, I have the expression of many from over the entire country, and they are enthusiastic in their reference to Oregon. I am stopping at Inside Inn, and in the lobbies there I frequently hear that which makes me proud of Oregon at the Exposition. Personally I think the state's showing is not only unique, extensive, and thoroughly adequate, but surpasses any reasonable expectation. As for the Oregon building itself, it is a beauty, inside and out.

Henry Reed, secretary of the Lewis & Clark Exposition here to attend the meetings of the National Tax Association, is another enthusiast over the Oregon building and the crowds that throng the building. He is satisfied that Oregon is getting her full share and even more of the publicity possible at the Exposition.

W. P. and J. C. Olds, prominent department store people of Portland, spent much time about the Oregon building last week and left no doubt of their intense satisfaction with all that they saw. And they found the O. A. C. domestic science luncheon so palatable that they ate at the demonstration dining room each day they were on the grounds, regardless of how far they had to travel to get there.

Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of the Oregon Agricultural College, is here until the twentieth. He thinks Oregon's showing is fully up to standard, attractive and doing very much to bring Oregon to the forefront. He is especially pleased at the extraordinary success of the domestic science demonstration, and after seeing the long line always waiting for places at the tables he could more easily realize just how much of a hit this college effort has made on the Exposition grounds. The college women serve but eighty at the room luncheon and charge 75c for it, but the line invariably from 150 to 200 anxious to be served. The remarkable thing is that the register at the dining room contains comparatively few names of Oregonians outside of Portland, and a tremendous number of people well known from coast to coast. The proof of their pleasure and satisfaction with the service comes in the fact that every many of them are repeaters three, four and even five times. And the expressions are too many and enthusiastic to tabulate.

The Southern Oregon booth boasts fifteen boxes of mighty fine Early Crawford peaches from Grants Pass. Many magnificent samples of flax, with some splendid farm scenes showing the harvesting of flax are new attractions in the Willamette Valley booth. B. W. Johnson, for sixteen years postmaster of Corvallis and for several years a resident of the state Postmaster's Association has come to represent Benton county.

Bandon and vicinity of approximately one township is given an annual rainfall of 40 to 60 inches the rest of Coos County, and a very small portion of Northern Curry is rated at 60 to 80 inches, the rest of Curry is rated at more than 80 inches.

ACT QUICKLY!

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Bandon
 Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Plenty of evidence of their worth. Mrs. M. Keelbeck, 1010 Birch Ave., Cottage Grove, Ore., says: "I was caused much annoyance by the kidney secretions. I never found anything that would help me until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They benefited me in every way. I use this medicine once in a while and it keeps me free from kidney complaints."
