

BANKRUPT SALE

The sale of the Averill bankrupt stock is now on. The Golden Rule Store has been moved into the Johnson building where the Averill stock is being closed out. New merchandise is being sold here much cheaper than your merchant can buy it at wholesale. It is seldom you get an opportunity like this. One dollar will do the work of two at this time.

An ideal picture program at the Grand, Wednesday night—A Broadway star feature in three acts with Anita Stewart and Earl Williams, entitled "Two Women" a powerful drama and our comical friend, Charlie Chaplin in a two act scream—Work—Six big reels.

A. Garfield sold a used Studebaker to A. Dufort and Clyde Stearns and they started with it for their home-stand near Bend last week. Not being familiar with an auto, Elbert Dyer went along with them as far as Ashland to show them how to manipulate the levers. Mr. Buckingham also accompanied them part way on his way to his home at Bellefontain.

Eighteen Camp Fire Girls enjoyed a hike last Saturday to Johnson's creek where they had a season of sports, jumping, walking and running. They started at 10 o'clock from the home of their guardian, Mrs. Dippel, and cooked their own dinner consisting of eggs, bacon, cocoa, etc starting for home at 3 p. m. having had a most enjoyable day.

About as good a thing as there is in the line of comedy is the animated drawings and as good as any thing in this line was a crow in one of these films presented at the Grand last Saturday night. This crow ate the smoking bullets as fast as they were fired at it and seemed to enjoy that kind of diet.

Southern California did service for Montenegro and its scenery showed up as well as the original at the Grand last Thursday night. Nor were its mission style of buildings lacking when the handiwork of man had to be brought into play. The uniforms and trappings gave the play, "The Unafraid" a romantic setting and it proved very enjoyable.

A dollar saved is a dollar earned. You can save money by trading at the SQUARE DEAL, opp. Grand theater, where solid leather shoes are sold and satisfaction guaranteed. Shoe repair shop in connection.

Entertained at Bridge
Mrs. W. S. Wells was hostess at a pleasant party, the social event of last week, given at her home Friday afternoon. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Lionel Garden of Marshfield, house guest of Mrs. Wells and bridge was the order of the afternoon. Card honors went to Mrs. F. L. Greenough and a guest prize was presented to Mrs. Garden.

The following is the invited list of guests: Mesdames Mann, Gale, Endicott, McC. Johnson, Sorensen, N. J. Crain, Richards, Geisendorfer, Greenough, Sullivan, Best, Guy and Ralph Dippel, Archie Rosa, L. Gallier, Wade, Elliott, Radley, Garfield, Briggs, Seofield, Kruse, Dickey, Tom Mehl, Felsheim, Lafaw, Kausrud, Houston, Byrne, Robert Johnson, G. Treadgold, Turnbull, Flom, Crimmens, Wilson, Lowe, Laird, Walker, Hughs and Mrs. Dyer, Misses Kate Rosa, Maude Lowe and Nora Solve.

A party consisting of Jns. Walstrom, F. S. Perry, Frank Holman and Ernest Boak, journeyed over to Coos Bay yesterday to see the wreck of the Santa Clara. They went in the International truck, started from Bandon at nine and got back at 11 in the evening. The truck made all the grades and mud or rock maintained an even keel demonstrating its ability to travel where the regulation automobile can not follow.

Mrs. H. A. Morris was at one time supposed to be among the missing in the Santa Clara wreck has been safely located. She had gone to stay with a friend in Marshfield and missed the first rescue parties sent out from Bandon for her. She had been visiting at the Dalles and her husband did not know she was on the Santa Clara until he saw her name listed. A telegram to the north confirmed the fact that she was on the wrecked boat and until she was found her Bandon relatives suffered considerable uncertainty.

Hornee Richards goes his week to Spokane Washington, where he will be employed by a large lumbering concern. Mrs. Richards and children will follow later, as soon as Mr. Richards has found where a residence will be most convenient for his work.

Eddie Oland vs Jim Benn is the title of a case being tried this afternoon at the city hall, in the Justice Court before a jury composed of T. W. Robinson, Harry Allen, Victor Breuer, W. D. Marshall, Thomas Anderson and John Nelson. Chatham and Gardner appear for plaintiff, Geo. P. Topping for defendant. Oland claims a contract with Benn for hauling logs and is suing for wages. Benn denies that he ever hired Oland, but claims that he hired Oland's father, and paid him in full, and that he does not own either the father or son, at this time.

"THE SPANISH JADE"
A Paramount Feature
A Strong Drama Set in the Quaint Environments of Spanish Life of Fifty Years Ago.

Whoever delights in what is quaint and novel and far removed from the well-trodden path will be greatly charmed and entertained by this feature which has been acquired by the Paramount Pictures Corporation from a newly formed producing company called the Fiction Pictures, Inc.

The film is based on a book entitled "The Spanish Jade" and written by Maurice Hewlett. The novel has been dramatized by Louis Joseph Vance and the filmed version closely follows the lines of the original dramatization.

Few films have a stronger more consistent and more gripping plot than "The Spanish Jade." If the production had no other merit than the strength of its plot it would deserve to rank high, but the strength of the plot is not its only point of merit. The type and the atmosphere in the film story measure up to the highest expectations. One cannot run through ten pages of Spanish literature without encountering the very types and the very atmosphere which make this film so different from the general run of film plays. There are many of the exterior scenes which are obviously "faked", but the imitation is always clever, and though we all abhor artificial exteriors in a film, we must admit that the designer worked with a good original before his eyes. Nor are all the exteriors artificial. Some are wonderfully fine; so much so that one regrets that there was any necessity for artificial props anywhere in the film.

The elements, mystery, adventure, and pathos have been most skillfully woven into a story which is bound to hold the interest of the spectator every part of the way from start to finish. The visualization of the characters is perfect in every detail. This means first that the acting is brilliant and second that the character actor is able to understand the character almost the very instant it appears on the screen. The Spanish grandees feeding on dry bread and an onion and spicing the frugal meal with recollections of past glory, the eringingly faithful servant, the unbridled youth scoring discipline and flattering impulses of passion, the blond Spanish beauty (there are such beauties,) graceful with a womanly dignity all her own, the Englishman disappointed in love and traveling in Spain to forget his disappointment—all these are figures that might have stepped from the pages of any old Spanish book of fiction. It must be noted, too, that all the minor characters—and there are many of them, are as truly drawn and as true to life as the leading parts. In this perfection of detail lies one of the great charms of the picture; the other is the powerful, well-developed plot, which never lags or halts or digresses for a moment.

It looks as if the Bandon school district is in for a lot of grief. They have sold a $14,000 bond issue to James N. Wright & Co. of Denver the same people with whom this city had so much trouble in relation to the $30,000 issue of refunding bonds.—Coquille Sentinel.
