Miss Mary Beckett who for the past several years has been a popular sales lady in the dry goods department of the Wedderburn Trading company store was in Port Orford over last Wednesday night returning to Rogue river from a visit with relatives at Portland.

Ammunition for the fight against Tuberculosis in Oregon has been received by the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, and a call is sent out for additional recruits to handle the Red Cross seals.

Walter Sinclair of Coquille has been chosen chairman of the Republican Central committee to succeed P. M. Hall-Lewis, recently resigned.

The cash registers in two saloons in Marshfield were robbed on Wednesday night of last week. The National lost $140 and the Brewery missed $40.

Every man, woman and child may do something to help in the Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign. More than ninety per cent of the anti tuberculosis movement in the United States is supported from this annual holiday sale.

The Portland Journal of the 12th reports the following progress on the Ocean View Military Highway.

Samuel W. Hill of Portland, nationally known as an advocate of good roads is in San Francisco today preparing to confer with Senator Pielan over a proposed national highway 1600 miles long down the coast from the northern boundary of the United States to San Diego, passing through San Francisco.

According to Hill, a bill is to be introduced at the next congress to give the project a definite start. It will run about 900 miles in California. The entire cost of the highway will be about $50,000,000.

A Portland dispatch announces that James Cartwright a merchant formerly engaged in business in Bandon killed himself recently in the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland. Ill health and advanced age prompted him to the act. He had established himself in the state Odd Fellow's home before going to the hospital.

The Southern Pacific issued a statement of earnings for October showing an increase over the same month of the preceding year of $1,198,107. This is the largest gain for that month in the history of the road and is keeping with the returns recently made by other transportation companies, especially in the west and northwest.

Work trains will not go through to the Umpqua river from Marshfield until February 1. This was the information made public this afternoon by Willamette Pacific officials in this city. It was also intimated that all equipment to be moved from Coos Bay to the north will be taken out over the road at that time.

There will still remain a link on Smith river necessary to connect Eugene with the Umpqua, but work trains will have access over most of the line between here and Eugene at that time.

Work on Smith river was delayed for a time an account of the scarcity of piling for trestling. One contractor gave up the job because such long ones were needed, and another man had to be secured before the work could go ahead.

The fact that the rails will be through to the Umpqua in seven weeks will mean that steel will be rushed across the Coos Bay bridge and also from the North Lake on North from a distance of about nine miles—Eugene Guard.

Workmen employed in the Phoenix ditch of the Rogue River Canal Company construction Friday afternoon touched off a charge of dynamite underneath a stump, and half dollars and dollars filled the air. The blast uncovered a money cache that had been buried since the early '60s. Most of the coins were of the mintage of the '50s, and when the silver rain began to fall there was a wild scramble.

the coins were of the mintage of the '50s, and when the silver rain began to fall there was a wild scramble. The cache contained about $500, according to the conservative, but some of the more imaginative place it was high as $2,500. How it came beneath the stump or why is a mystery, but was probably hidden in pioneer times. It might have been the last resort or a hard pressed criminal—Ashland Tidings.

Stanley Frye returned from his trip to the railroad since our last issue, and as was rumored in advance, brought back with him a charming bride. Stanley has been quite busy since his return introducing his bride and receiving the congratulations of his many friends in this locality.

Wm. Hunter, one of the passengers on the ill fated Santa Clara, arrived here Friday evening coming via auto from Bandon. He charges the Santa Clara's wrecking to the Captains carelessness and says the loss of life was wholly unnecessary—Gold Beach Globe.

The Globe is authoritatively informed that arrangements have been made where by Mrs. C. D. Lamson will take over the Breakers Inn on a lease covering a period of time from three to five years. The Lamsons are very popular hotel people and the traveling public will find under their management, as of the present, plenty to eat and a good comfortable place to sleep. It is stated the house will go under the new management December 1st—Gold Beach Globe.

Chicago, Ill.—"Stop thief!" The cry echoed through the city hall, and a passer-by clutched the flying coat-tails of Stephen McBeth. At the Central police station Mrs. Marie Alphonso testified that McBeth became nervous when they went to get a marriage license and started to run, and that she called "Stop thief!" because she knew if he got away she could never get him to the marrying point again.

Tomato and Onion Pie.
PARBOIL some onions, slice them and fry in butter until colored. Dip some tomatoes into boiling water, skin and slice. Lay alternate layers of tomato and onion in a pie dish, sprinkling each layer with bread-crumbs, small pieces of butter, salt and pepper. Cover with mashed potato. Score with a fork and brown in the oven.

Tomato Rice.
Wash two ounces of rice thoroughly and cook it in half a pint of milk until quite soft and flavor with salt and pepper. Take one pound of stewed and sieved tomato and beat together. Stir in one ounce of butter and cook until quite moist, but not wet. Serve very hot and, if liked, strew grated cheese over.

Tomato Rice and Eggs.
Serve the tomato rice in a fireproof dish with poached eggs on the top.
Stuffed Tomatoes.
Prepare the tomato rice as before. Take the necessary number of large dry tomatoes, dip into boiling water, skin, cut the tops off and remove some of the pulp (the tops and pulp can be used for the puree). Fill the tomato cases with rice. Scatter with fine browned crumbs, seasoned with celery salt and cayenne. Put a little piece of butter on each and bake on a greased tin in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes. Serve hot.

Vegetable Curry (Hot or Cold).
Weigh five ounces of margarine. Chop very fine four medium sized onions. Melt the margarine and cook the onions in it until they are a deep gold brown, a process which takes time. Meanwhile put on a saucer in the oven a tablespoonful of curry powder and leave it for ten minutes and then mix it smooth with a little milk or cream. Add to the onion mixture and cook gently for two hours at least, stirring now and then.

Cut into neat squares one small vegetable marrow, a small peeled cucumber, one raw apple, two tomatoes (peeled) and some French beans with the strings removed, all of which have been previously cooked. Place in the curry mixture and cook gently for thirty minutes. Serve very hot with well boiled rice or ice.

Almost any leftover vegetables may be used in the curry, such as peas, cauliflower, broad beans, etc.

Anna Thompson.
FORGET NOTICE
The bulk of the railroad ties exported from the United States is shipped to Canada and Mexico. South America ranks third in the receipt of this material.

Canada and Mexico also take the lead in the amount of shingles received from the United States. Australia and the Oceanic Islands rank next in the amount of this material received from the United States.

Of the total amount of railroad ties exported during 1914 (over five million), the State of Washington alone furnished nearly half a million.

According to the latest Forest Service figures, the amount of Douglas fir in the national forests of Washington and Oregon is estimated to be 28,695,000,000 feet.

Nearly seventeen million pounds of wood pulp was exported to Europe from the United States during 1914. Canada ranks second receiving from the United States over seven million pounds.

Yew is given preference over all other American wood in the manufacture of archery bows. This tree occurs in the Coast region from northern Alaska to northern California. It is also found to some extent in the Cascade Range of Oregon and Washington, and in the mountains of Montana and northern Idaho.
