J. M. Young Admits Shooting

Bullet Wound is fatal to Condas

J. M. Young, a Greek, died Thursday night of a bullet wound received in the shooting. He was staying at a rooming house on the north end of town. The shooting occurred in the early part of the evening. The bullet entered the man's body and struck the bone. The wound was fatal and the man died soon after the shooting. The police are investigating the case and no further information is available.

In a statement made for Deputy Sheriff Condas, the young man said that he had gone to the rooming house on purpose to shoot the man who lived there. He had been acquainted with the man and had been driven by jealousy to take this course.

The police are examining the body and will take the bullet out of the man's body. They are also examining the gun used in the shooting.

J. M. Young was a Greek and had been in this country for only a short time. He was a good natured fellow and was well liked by all.

The shooting occurred in the early part of the evening. The bullet entered the man's body and struck the bone. The wound was fatal and the man died soon after the shooting. The police are investigating the case and no further information is available.

In a statement made for Deputy Sheriff Condas, the young man said that he had gone to the rooming house on purpose to shoot the man who lived there. He had been acquainted with the man and had been driven by jealousy to take this course.

The police are examining the body and will take the bullet out of the man's body. They are also examining the gun used in the shooting.

J. M. Young was a Greek and had been in this country for only a short time. He was a good natured fellow and was well liked by all.

The shooting occurred in the early part of the evening. The bullet entered the man's body and struck the bone. The wound was fatal and the man died soon after the shooting. The police are investigating the case and no further information is available.

In a statement made for Deputy Sheriff Condas, the young man said that he had gone to the rooming house on purpose to shoot the man who lived there. He had been acquainted with the man and had been driven by jealousy to take this course.

The police are examining the body and will take the bullet out of the man's body. They are also examining the gun used in the shooting.

J. M. Young was a Greek and had been in this country for only a short time. He was a good natured fellow and was well liked by all.