NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT—GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York. FOR VICE-PRESIDENT—THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS—W. D. FENTON, of Yamhill. L. B. ISON, of Baker. A. C. JONES, of Douglas.

"Public Office, a Public Trust."

"WHOOPEMUP."

When the moral State of Maine was "heard from," the Republican party, whistling to keep its courage up, was beside itself with joy and enthusiasm; never for an instant allowing the fact that Maine had not gone Democratic in a Presidential year since 1852 to drown the wild, untamed war whoop of victory. It had won in its own stronghold—in the home of its tattooed chief—and that was sufficient to "fire the heart" to jubilation.

Then along came staid old Vermont with considerably less than its regulation Republican majority, when at once the wires came laden with the news of the great victory. (It may be proper to state in this connection that the telegraph did not bring the word that for the first time in its history Edmunds' home went Democratic.) And in their boundless joy they were blind to the fact that Vermont had not contributed a Democratic vote to the Electoral College since 1824.

Now in Ohio we are confronted by a pitiful 12,000 majority—that too in the face of Blaine's junketing tour through the State, the blazing of camp fires in every village and hamlet, the wool cry and the distribution of the million of money contributed by Gould, Huntington, Astor, Russell Sage, Crocker and the Hocking Valley company. Yet the very hills are made to reverberate with the glad cry of victory. Even the New York Tribune is moved to "thank God for the sweeping success."

At Columbus, the telegraph informs us, "the noise of the enthusiastic Republicans on the streets is becoming infernal;" "the air is filled with rockets of all shades and colors, and nearly every combustible was brought into use;" "the Democrats have retired from their headquarters, and those who have not retired to their beds are watching the Republican procession and listening to the discordant sounds; that rend the heavens, all having the purpose of glorifying the Republican chieftain." Nor in their excessive joy do they call to mind the icy truth that Ohio was not claimed by the Democracy; that the National Democratic Committee conceded the State to the Republicans by 12,000; that it had not gone Democratic in a Presidential year since 1852; that at the October election in 1880 the Republican majority was 19,005, and that at the November election in the same year the majority was 25,115. Verily, the Republican party, like the chameleon, "doth feed on air."

"PROOF STRONGER THAN HOLY WRIT"

Telegraphic portrayals of the great distress of the unemployed thousands at the East multiply. This state of things should suggest the inquiry: How can these be in this highly "protected" country, if indeed "protection" does "protect" the laborer. The bosses are generally millionaires or thereabout, and fare sumptuously every day, which fact should popularly be taken as bearing out the theory, that "protection" was, and is, intended solely to advance the interests of the factory lords. The apostles of a high tariff have been claiming that, by reason of it, the workpeople were enabled to live in comparative luxury; that they could own pianos, fine buggies and all that, but the wail of want which goes forth from the manufacturing districts does not vindicate the assertion that luxury abounds among the working classes. The fact is, the whole fabric of "protection"—the entire high tariff superstructure is based upon a lie, and we shall marvel if the producing masses of this country do not rebuke the false-pretense by voting its promoters a permanent leave of absence from all participation in the affairs of the Government, and that at the approaching November election.

The charge sometimes made against Mr. Cleveland that he is in sympathy with the monopolists so completely refutes itself that it seems strange anyone could be found to believe it. In the first place, Mr. Cleveland is comparatively poor, a circumstance in poor keeping with the assumption that he had bent the knee to the monopolies, considering the opportunities he has had. But the crowning evidence that there can be no shadow of truth in the charge is found in the fact that all the monopolists and capitalistic influences of the whole country are arrayed against his election, and are contributing vast aggregates of their ill gotten gold in almost frantic efforts to elect Blaine, whom the country knows has always served them.

SHEEP HUSBANDRY.

One of the planks in the National Republican platform claims to recognize the importance of sheep husbandry. Let the following from the Fresno Expositor show how they recognize it: "It began recognizing it away back in 1867, when at the demand of the woolen manufacturers of the North for greater profits on the products of their mills, the tariff was reduced on all wool imported from east of the Cape of Good Hope, for the express purpose of bringing the Australian wools in competition with those of California. It continued to recognize the importance of the industry when a few years later the Tariff Revision Commission appointed by a Republican administration, reported in favor of a still further reduction in the tariff on raw wool, in obedience to the behests of the grasping manufacturers of the East and the soothing influences of Australian coin.

It showed its appreciation of the interest when the Republican Congress, in obedience to the same influences that swayed the Tariff Commission on the 4th of March, 1883, again reduced the tariff on raw wool the Republican Congressmen from California, Page and Pacheco, voting for the reduction, and the two Democratic Congressmen, Berry and Rosecrans, against. The party has shown its recognition of the importance of sheep husbandry by keeping the tariff on raw wool down for the 17 years, while the tariff on manufactured wools has been kept up. The real importance of this industry was, however, discovered this year, when there was a threatening dearth in Republican votes.

With a known record of 17 years of hostilities to the wool-growers of the country, it seems like the crowning effort of unblushing falsehood, for the grand old party to, at this late date, claim to be the champion of wool growers.

MR. CONKLING'S OPINION.

Hon. Roscoe Conkling is reported by a New York paper as saying that for years "the Republican party has waged a relentless war against superiority, it has placed a penalty upon leadership, and driven to the wall those who gave it strength and success." In regard to the Republican campaign he represented as saying: "There is not a man of national importance or reputation at the committee headquarters, nor a man who represents anything but Blaine's personal favor. It is simply a Blaine campaign without an issue, except the defense of the candidate's private reputation."
