Says It's a Good Show
W. C. Sellmer, of Bandon, came over to Marshfield last night purposefully to see the California Jubilee quartet. He has the colored boys booked for an appearance at Bandon and wanted to see whether he had been filmflamed, as is frequently the case when unknown shows are contracted for. However, Mr. Sellmer went home entirely happy and told the Record this morning if such high class attractions as this could be brought in more frequently the show business would have a better standing in Coos county.—Marshfield Record.

Deputy Assessor A. B. Collier, who was in the city this week from Coquille, finishing up the assessments for Bandon and the country to the south of the city, states the work is progressing rapidly and that Assessor T. J. Thrift hopes to have the assessment roll completed by the 15th of next month.

R. J. Long of Bandon was over on the Bay this week getting ready his machine for use in mining to the south of this city.

Is the Port of Bandon here to stay? We should say so!

JOHN C. PAYNE
the female impersonator, with the Jubilee Quartet, who will appear in Concert at the Grand next Saturday and Sunday nights.

Mr. Payne gives a wonderful interpretation of the famous "Black Patti," having a lyric-soprano and baritone combination of voices. The Quartet will be heard in solos, duets, trios and quartet work. A good deal of clean humor in song and speech makes for a diversified entertainment that will merit fullest approval.

The Jubilee Quartet will appear Sunday night in a complete change of program. Seats are now on sale at Boyle's Jewelry store.

Mary Pickford, America's most popular screen actress will be seen in her best play, "Tess of the Storm Country," at the Grand next Tuesday, March 30th.

Mary Pickford gets a salary of $50,000 per year from the Famous Players Co. See her in her best production.

Social Doings of the Week

Recital a Success
The accomplishments of Mrs. Geo. Geisendorfer's students of all ages and grades were demonstrated at an elaborate recital given at the Orpheum theatre, Friday evening.

Selections from many of the great masters of the musical world, which made up an extended program, were successfully rendered, to the entertainment of nearly 500 invited guests. The work of the students, especially that of the advanced pupils was very commendable. Although some of the younger ones appearing before a large audience for the first time, were slightly timid and confused in the beginning, everyone proved equal to the occasion, displaying the result of careful training and diligent practice. It is a difficult task to prepare so large a class for public appearance, especially in view of the fact that some had commenced their studies but a few weeks ago, and much credit is due Mrs. Geisendorfer for her success.

A feature of the program was the appearance of Wolfram Schmedding, recently of Berlin, Germany, who rendered several beautiful flute solos. Mr. Schmedding deserves the distinction of being one of the foremost soloists of the northwest. His interpretations were perfect, proving a rare musical treat to lovers of his favorite instrument. Another greatly appreciated number was the double male quartet selection by Messrs. Quigley, Dippel, Sidwell, Knight, Boak, Corson, Watkins and Webb. They compose an organization of rare talent and their selections are always highly appreciated by Bandon audiences.

The ability of Mrs. Geisendorfer as an accomplished musician was proven by her splendid accompaniment to Mr. Schmedding, and the rendition of "Adante, Finale de Lucia di Lammermoor" (T. H. Leschetizky, Op. 13) written for the left hand only. In the latter she exhibited wonderful attainment, the result of years of training and study.

Camp-Fire Girls Pow-Wow
A very enjoyable and unique reception was given the members of the "Bandon-by-the-Sea Camp-Fire Girls Club" at the home of Miss Elva Webb, Saturday afternoon, March 20th. The house was beautifully and appropriately decorated, being filled with small fir trees, old logs, green moss and the foliage, and numerous wild animal skins, making a miniature reproduction of a natural forest. In one corner of the woods a genuine Indian tepee was pitched, in front of which a very natural looking camp fire glowed. Around this the girls pow-wowed and "smoked" the pipe of peace.

Various games were played and a war dance was given by the girls, dressed in their Indian costumes. Refreshments were served to the young "Minnehahas" as they squatted around in true Indian fashion. Invitations had been extended to the following: Misses Vida Averill, Beatrice Averill, Edna Dippel, Marjorie Lorenz, Anna Leuthold, Edna Runde, Evelyn Pierce, Mildred Crain, Thelma Leneve, Violet Fish, Mae Wilson, Pauline Swift, Alda Mars, Clarice Danielson, Ila Johnson, Gladys Oakes, Mabel Neuman, Ruby Hoyt, Mrs. J. L. Kronenberg, Miss McKay, Mrs. H. J. DeWitt, Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. H. E. Hornung.

The Rebekahs, at a lively session last evening at the Odd Fellows hall initiated the following into the order: Mr. and Mrs. Thad Shinn, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Scofield and Ed. Kilduff. Music and recitation furnished entertainment and refreshments were served. About 45 were present.

Mrs. Fassbender entertains the Thimble Club at her home this afternoon. It being her birthday she has arranged for an enjoyable party, at which cards will be the entertaining feature.

The birthday anniversary of Miss Edna Gallier was occasion for a party dinner last Thursday evening, at which a few immediate members of the family and friends participated. It was a delightful event and Miss Gallier was the recipient of a number of pretty and valuable presents.

Woman's Relief Corps Active
Bandon Woman's Relief Corps No. 40 holds sessions on the first and third Saturdays of each month and up to the present time they have been record-breakers in attendance and interest. All officers are especially making it a point to be in their places promptly which adds so much to the harmony of the sessions.

Last Saturday's fine weather brought out several of our dear old members to gladden our hearts and make us both laugh and sigh with their reminiscences of "the days of the war." The women left to take care of the home and children found many tasks that seemed impossible to do, but as Mrs. Young said, it was not "I can't" but "I'll try." That was the golden slogan of those days.

As an object lesson she related an incident of her own experience. She was left with her small child, her mother and a brother about 10 years old. They got out of wood and not a man was to be hired. Her mother asked her if she thought she could yoke up the oxen. She said "I'll try" and she and that little 10-year old boy did do it; drove to the woods, cut down saplings, piled the wagon full and climbed on top, she holding her baby and driving at the same time. In going down the hill the yoke pin broke, the pole shot out ahead of the oxen; they stopped short and the shock spilled them into the ditch. But undaunted she took the axe and whittled out another pin; loaded up again and reached home safely. So this venerable lady believes that we can do anything if we try hard enough, still our heart goes out in sympathy for the woman left to bear the burden of the present war.

Conference committee of Post and Corps met to plan for a celebration on the ninth of April, that most glorious day that saw the close of the war—that great struggle between North and South. Every American citizen should celebrate and every house should have a flag either at a window or outside.—M. J. Z., Press Correspondent.

Little Miss Anna Ogren celebrated her tenth birthday at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fox, on Eight street west, Sunday afternoon. Games were played and a dainty luncheon was served, the little folks having a very enjoyable time. The invited guests were: Alice and Mary Hubbard, Dorothy Bowman, Mary McGinnitie, Memphis Lipps, Lillian Bane, Agnes Hoover, Valene Langley, Goldie Randall.

Domestic Science
The advanced class of the domestic science department has just had one of the last of a series of suppers to celebrate the special days of the year. On March 18, a St. Patrick's supper was served at the High school under the management of Misses Ruth Burkhard as hostess and Mary Haberly as assistant. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. Quigley, Miss McKay, Miss Dark, Miss Fish, Miss Treadgold, Mr. Wolverton and Miss Wilkins. The decorations were in keeping with those of the day; potatoes and ferns. The menu was also Irish: Bean soup and croutons, sliced ham, stuffed potatoes, pickled pears, honey, pig biscuit, Shamrock rusk and punch.

The series of suppers will conclude with the one on April Fools' Day, after which the beginning class will give a series of simpler suppers. There is a double purpose in having these meals. They give the girls practice in cooking larger quantities of food and acting as hostesses and waitresses; also to raise a little money for further additions to the equipment.
