Atty. and Mrs. G. T. Treadgold and son, Graydon, accompanied by Cashier E. D. Webb of the First National and A. Garfield drove to Gold Beach Saturday in Mr. Treadgold's new Studebaker. The attorney is attending to legal matters in circuit court now in session there.

The Bandon-Coquille road, which was impassable for a few weeks until repairs of the past winter's flood damages could be made, is now open for traffic and is said to be in fair condition for auto travel. Many cars have been traveling over the road the past two weeks and one auto stage line is now operating.

A look at the Orange Pharmacy window makes one want to dig out his old clothes, grab a rod and a can of salmon eggs and hie himself to the wilds of Curry county for a fishing trip. Mr. Wells' display is a miniature reproduction of the famous Looking Glass creek and is suggestive of his new line of fishing tackle.

Genial W. L. Beach was in from his ranch the first of the week greeting local friends and transacting business matters. Mr. Beach states that he finds farming is the only life. He was one of the musicians at the Four Mile hall dance Saturday night and states the crowd was the largest he has seen at a country dance in years.

D. G. Murray, formerly of Falls City, Ore., a building contractor by trade, is one of the late comers in Bandon, having taken up residence with his family on Filmore avenue. Mr. Murray expects to engage in his business here this summer, but if the shipyard opens he will try to get employment there. He is an experienced ship carpenter.

Circuit court will convene in Coos county Monday, April 21st, with Judge Hamilton of Roseburg presiding, according to Judge John S. Coke, who was in Bandon Saturday enroute to Gold Beach. Atty. G. T. Treadgold's $50,000 damage suit will probably be heard at this session, unless some important witness gets "crippled up" in an auto accident as before.

Dave Colvin is now captain of the Rustler, bringing that craft into the local port Friday. Mr. Colvin has been employed on small gasoline coasters for a number of years and is considered a capable man for the job. He was engineer on the ill-fated Randolph and was one of the two men saved from the hull of the overturned vessel by the Bandon Coast Guard crew.

The Moose lodge is making the weekly Thursday night meetings interesting these days and the attendance is growing. Each week two members are selected to furnish the entertainment, and some of the stunts pulled off would easily qualify on the vaudeville stage. The boys are keeping tab on the talent produced in view of staging a minstrel performance sometime in the near future.

Many people remark about the clean and orderly condition of the Peery drug store. The change is entirely due to the industry and taste of the new pharmacist, T. W. Laird. Mr. Laird is a pleasant and affable gentleman and evidently possesses the know how to keep a drug establishment in order. He is rapidly becoming assimilated with Scioans and the Tribune opines, is destined to become a popular citizen of our town.—Scio (Oregon) Tribune. From which it is deduced the former Bandonian is evidently "there with the goods" in his new home.

A recall election held last week at Eastside was successful in ousting two school directors, W. F. Byerly and Mrs. Eleanor Hadlock. There is also a school fight on at Kentuck Inlet in this county.
