OPENING INSPECTION DAYS

Monday and Tuesday, April 17 and 18

In order to give the people of Bandon and Community an opportunity to inspect our new Sanitary Meat Market equipment before it is occupied, we extend a cordial invitation for Monday and Tuesday, April 17 and 18. Be sure to call on one of these days; our new electric refrigerating plant will be in operation and will interest you.

No expense has been spared in giving Bandon the finest, most modern and sanitary meat handling plant in the county. With a large cold storage room, refrigerating counters and marble slab fixtures, every convenience is offered to maintain absolute sanitation. Our meats will not be exposed to the air at any time, except in cutting and wrapping.

Our market has in the past always received the highest local rating for sanitation from the state inspector. With our new equipment we aim to still further increase our standing in this respect, and the people of this community may rest assured that they will at all times get the best of meats, under ideal conditions, and at the lowest possible prices.

Remember the inspection days—Monday and Tuesday.

Sixes Mining Co. Finish Big Flume

Big Payroll Means Much Money Is Distributed—Majority of Workers Are Local Men.

Ever and anon one of the Bandonians who is working with the Hydro-Sixes Mining company at Sixes river in Curry county, comes back to the city for a short stay. It is from these men who are constantly in touch with the big operations, and not from a short visit to the place, that one may grasp the magnitude of the venture.

The company, under the supervision of A. H. Thomas, is constructing over four miles of flume extending from Edson creek back up in the mountains, to the location of the mines. This flume work was started a number of months ago and in itself was a large undertaking. It necessitated the construction of a good-sized saw mill to furnish the required lumber, clearing a right-of-way through the heavy timber and brush over rough ground; considerable tunneling and cuts and several trestles. The flume is to furnish water at a required pressure for operating the hydraulic mining machinery. The water will be carried by it to a storage reservoir, from which it will flow through a thirty-inch pipe line to the giants at 300 feet gravity pressure, giving an enormous head at the giants which will be sufficient to handle tons of gravel per hour. The flume will in all probability be completed about the middle of this month and the crew will then be transferred to the "diggings" to complete the installation of the giants and sluices needed. From 35 to 40 men are now employed on the works, and as the average pay is reported at $3.00 per day, it is evident considerable money has been brought into Curry county the past year by the company.

The company has from 25 to 30 acres of gravel mapped out for commencement work and it is understood the plant will probably be in operation for years before all of the pay-gravel has been sluiced. The Sixes gravel carries a goodly amount of free gold and it is evident the river bed will yield hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of the precious metal.

EUGENE MAN RUNS AMUCK

Insane Man Informs Coquille People He is Running for President.

An insane man, supposedly from Eugene, who claimed he was running for president on the Independent ticket and who held as cherished possessions an old auto lamp and a catsup bottle, was taken in charge by the officials at Coquille Tuesday morning. He was taken before Judge Watson, pronounced insane and committed to the asylum at Salem.

Speaking of the fellow's actions, the Herald of that city says: When he alighted from the train at the local station he walked up to the marshal and asked if there were any banks in town and where he could find some Pinkerton detectives or how he could get in touch with a United States marshal. He also informed the cop that he was running for president on the Independent ticket. Hickman, upon being informed of this fact, thought that the man needed looking after, as he didn't in any way resemble Hughes or T. R., so he swore out a complaint and took him before the judge. The man gave his name as Bowerman and Centennial and said he was looking for a new name. Upon being searched many objects were brought to light, from an auto light to a bottle of catsup. He said that he resided at Eugene. He first arrived here Monday evening.

The man whose eyes are nailed, not on the nature of his act, but on the wages, whether it be money or fame, is almost equally low.—Emerson.

FIFIELD SLIDES BACK INTO THE OCEAN

Tug and Wrecking Equipment Expected in a Day or So to Pull Vessel Out to Sea.

The fact that the steamer Fifield had broken loose from her moorings and slid back into the breakers a distance of about 100 feet during the heavy surf of Sunday night, may alter the plans of Capt. E. C. Genereaux of Portland, who expected to begin operations at once to pull her out to sea. It is believed that she has again filled with sand and it may prove difficult to float her. Regarding the plans under contemplation the Sunday Portland Journal has the following:

Captain Edward C. Genereaux, Portland marine surveyor, is to attempt the salving of the wrecked schooner Fifield at Pandon. With an outfit he is to leave San Francisco tomorrow enroute to Bandon, and he hopes to have the vessel floated within two weeks. The Fifield was wrecked at the entrance to the Coquille river February 29, and, after her cargo and some of her gear had been brought ashore, had been practically given up by the underwriters, to whom the owners had surrendered her.

Captain Genereaux pondered over the matter, however, and, from the description of her position on the sand, could not believe that the vessel was beyond hope. The long trip to Bandon was taken, and he came back convinced that the vessel could be saved.

He hurried to San Francisco and laid his proposal before the underwriters. They gladly financed the proposition, and work will start at once. Captain Genereaux has secured the services of the Union Iron Works wrecking schooner Iaqua, with her gear and equipment, and will attempt to salve the vessel with it. With steam schooners as valuable as they are at present, the underwriters and Captain Genereaux are expected to clean up a neat sum, if the salvage venture is successful.

TO DUMP ROCK IN BEACH WALK COVE

The past winter has seen the small cove or tidal wash under the beach walk a few hundred yards west of where the walk joins Edison avenue, considerably enlarged and the chief boosters for the beach walk have had grave fears the foot-way would again be destroyed at that point. The matter has been discussed on the streets and at the Council meeting last Thursday was brought to the attention of that body. On Friday evening it again came up and the council voted to have City Attorney G. T. Treadgold take the matter of having the Port Commission place a few loads of rock across the mouth of the cove, thus breaking the force of the waves.

It is understood the commission will probably have the rock dumped there as the cost would be quite small. In addition to saving the city's beach walk the rock will also be of considerable benefit to the government tramway at that point as the force of the waves there in a heavy storm endanger that structure also.

DIXIE GOES TO COOS BAY

Gasoline Launch Taken Over Bar Latter Part of Week.

The small gas boat Dixie, formerly the property of Frank Timmons, but recently disposed of to Coos Bay parties, was taken up the coast the latter part of the week. Heavy swells were met soon after leaving the local port and the trip was rather exciting. The Coos Bay News has the following concerning the trip:

Capt. Herman Larson brought the sloop Coast with the launch Dixie in tow from the Coquille, Sunday. D. Fawcett was engineer on the Coast for the trip. They left the Coquille river before daylight Sunday morning, and after getting off shore they experienced a heavy sea rolling in from the westward. By the time they arrived off the Coos Bay bar it was rather rough for small boats, but after waiting until 3 p. m. they decided to take the risk. While crossing in, a big sea caught the Coast under the counter, almost capsizing her. She was practically on her beam ends for a few minutes, but finally righted. Capt. Larson says it was the closest shave he has had yet in crossing a bar. The Dixie, towing behind, was more fortunate, as the sea passed her before breaking. The Coast will be used for towing on the bay and tributaries. The Dixie is the property of Stewart Lyons, who lately purchased her.
