SAYINGS OF SAGES.

Men seldom, or, rather, never for a length of time and deliberately, rebel against anything that does not deserve rebelling against.—Carlyle.

Recompense injury with justice, and recompense kindness with kindness.—Confucius.

If those who are the enemies of innocent amusements had the direction of the world they would take away the spring and youth, the former from the year, the latter from the human life.—Balzac.

The contemplation of celestial things will make a man both speak and think more sublimely and magnificently when he descends to human affairs.—Cicero.

METHOD.

The absence of method, which characterizes the uneducated, is occasioned by an habitual submission of the understanding to mere events and images as such and independent of any power in the mind to classify or appropriate them. The general accomplishments of time and place are the only relations which persons of this class appear to regard in their statements. As this constitutes their leading feature, the contrary excellence, as distinguishing the well educated man, must be referred to the contrary habit. Method, therefore, becomes natural to the mind which has been accustomed to contemplate not things only, or for their own sake alone, but likewise and chiefly the relations of things, either their relations to each other or to the observer or to the state and apprehensions of the hearers.—Coleridge.

After State Prizes
County Agriculturist J. L. Smith, assisted by Archie Phillip are gathering agricultural exhibits for the county fair this week. They plan to send the choicest of these to the state fair at Salem and if the farmers co-operate with them they believe that it will be possible for Coos to carry off most of the prizes at the big show. That would be a wonderful advertisement for this county.

Infantile Paralysis Death at Frisco

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—The city health department warned all mothers to guard against infantile paralysis, following the death of Jane Senter, aged four, last night. The child died of the dread disease. The communication of the plague was traced to the receipt of a doll she got recently from her grandmother, in New York City. At least, the health department believes this may have been the means of bringing the disease to the coast.

Interesting Bandon Literature

Western World is indebted to Col. C. T. Blumenrother for a copy of a special edition of a local newspaper published in 1907; also several descriptive booklets issued by the Bandon Commercial Club at that time. Apparently Bandon was very active in those days as the publications represented the expenditure of large sums of money for advertising. Many interesting articles and pictures are contained therein, furnishing proof of the boom times this town had. Col. Blumenrother at that time was manager of the Bandon Real Estate, Loan & Insurance Co.
