Son of Founder of Bandon Dies at Bay

J. W. Bennett, Prominent Lawyer and Banker Succumbs at Marshfield Last Week.

J. W. Bennett, prominent banker, politician and attorney of Marshfield, died at his home in that city last Thursday night, after a short illness. He was a son of George Bennett, locally known as "Lord Bennett" who was the founder of Bandon and who lived for many years on his big estate south of here overlooking the ocean.

The deceased was a native of Bandon, Ireland, and came to the United States in 1873 in company with his father, a brother G. A. Bennett, Harry Baldwin deceased of Bandon, and George M. Seeley, now a resident of Portland. His career was varied, he having begun as a rancher, from which he branched out into the legal profession, newspaper field, and later became a banker and part owner of the Coos Bay water system. Mr. Bennett was identified as part owner of the Coos Bay News from 1876 to 1884, when he began the practice of law. With Patrick Flanagan, he organized the Flanagan & Bennett bank at Marshfield in 1889, later opening a branch at Myrtle Point.

Several trips were made to the old home in Ireland by Mr. Bennett, and on his return from one he was accompanied by a bride, the sweetheart of his youth and daughter of the Rt. Rev. Thomas Bennett, bishop of the Episcopal church at Cork.

IDAHO GOVERNOR IS LOUD IN PRAISE OF LOCAL EVANGELIST

Meetings at Orpheum Under Auspices of Church of God Are Gaining Interest.

Revival meetings under the auspices of the Church of God are now in progress nightly at the Orpheum theatre and will continue for some time. The principal speaker is E. G. Marsters, an evangelist of Seattle, who in company with the Oregon evangelist, J. J. Gillespie, arrived in Bandon Saturday.

REV. E. G. MARSTERS

On Sunday night Rev. Marsters will give a "chalk talk" lecture on the relation of the sun, moon and stars to God and man. This lecture was recently given at Middleton, Idaho, with Governor Moses Alexander of that state present. The following day the governor gave the following interview to the Boise Capital News, concerning the lecture:

"I was invited to speak at a religious meeting held in a big tent at the edge of the town of Middleton. Yes, there was a very large crowd, and the people were not interested alone at what the governor might have to say but also at the address of Rev. E. G. Marsters. I spoke at about 11 o'clock and was followed and an orator of the biggest type, by Mr. Marsters, who is an artist

He gave a chalk talk on religion, God and light; his knowledge of astronomy and the sciences attributed thereto, and the results following from the orbit system, the sun, moon and stars, and their relation to God and man. It surely was a masterpiece worth a trip of hundreds of miles to hear.

"With the aid of the blackboard and white and colored chalk, he painted a spiritual picture taking the solar system for its basis that carried conviction to the minds of every man, woman and child present. He spoke for an hour and 30 minutes and not a person left his seat and had he spoken another hour he would have been listened to with the most intense interest. No matter whether you believe in him or with him, when you see the man and see him bring doubtful dogmas and theories onto the blackboard and demonstrate them with practical illustrations by every day occurrences so you can feel the words of the Bible in the light that you see everything else, then you have to pay tribute to the genius of the man.

"Should he ever come to Boise, do not fail to hear him, it is a lecture that is worth while and I have never heard one like it before. He is not alone a minister, orator and evangelist but is also an artist of the first class. He can draw anything in crayon."

The meetings here are growing in interest and the attendance is gradually getting larger.

MRS. FOREMAN ASKS DAMAGES

Papers Served on Mrs. Anderson Just After Burial of Husband.

Just after the funeral services of her husband had been completed, Mrs. Abe Anderson of Eastside was served with papers in a $10,000 damage suit instituted by Mrs. Flora Foreman, the school teacher who had charged Mrs. Anderson with assault.

Mrs. Anderson clad in mourning and eyes still reddened with tears from her grief completely broke down when the papers were served on her.

The grand jury recently returned not a true bill against Mrs. Anderson in the case on which Mrs. Foreman now bases her suit for personal injuries.

North Bend Sufferer Suicides
C. F. Greve, a well known North Bend shoemaker, Saturday night shot and killed himself to end three years of suffering and anguish from cancer. Somehow he secured a revolver which had been kept in the house for years. Standing before a mirror in his room, he placed the muzzle of the weapon to his cheek and the bullet went crashing into his brain, death being almost instantaneous. He was a native of Germany.

Was Off Year for Fruit

The Enterprise says: Generally speaking this has been an off year for fruit in the Myrtle Point section. Apples are estimated as about a half crop, taking the valley as a whole. There are some peaches in various parts of the valley, and while on account of the late rains the coloring on the fruit is not very highly developed, the flavor is good.

Try a bottle Theo-Nett sparkling grape juice. Looks like, tastes like Champagne. It has the fizz. Sanito.
