VARSITY SIX HUNDRED OVERCOATS

THIS name stands for one of the greatest style ideas ever developed in overcoats—youth, energy, vigor, virility.

While these overcoats are designed for young men, many older men with young thoughts and youthful looking figures like to wear these models.

$25 is a small price when you know all the value it pays for

EYE WITNESS TO TRAGEDY MAKES STATEMENT

hind end of the car about 8 feet Joe shot from his cover. I took the first explosion for a tire explosion for he shot from opposite the hind wheel and under the lowered cover.

Treadgold gave a cry I will never forget and sank against the east wall of the garage. His legs braced and he commenced to slide down the wall. Joe jumped out and delivered a second shot while in front of Treadgold, but shot a man already out, it passed through his heart.

Joe or any of his friends, if he has any, can not derive any satisfaction from his act for Treadgold never knew what or who hurt him, and I denounce him as one of the most arrant of cowards, also I apply this to all or any who have bolstered up this moral degenerate's cause. And, I now say that Treadgold never took as dirty money as those who opposed him in the libel trial.

"Compare the two men, Treadgold at sixteen was 6 feet, weighed 119 pounds, left school, commenced teaching school, saved his money and obtained his legal education. By such efforts he never cost his father a cent after. He early assumed the responsibilities that make for good citizenship, and has never sought to shift his responsibilities on others. Treadgold did not keep questionable company and has been the persecuted individual in this case. This is definitely established by the Coach testimony against Mitchell and by Mitchell's testimony against Coach; also by the verdict in the libel trial. But he was clear grit and nobody ever heard him say he was persecuted. After the testimony by Coach and Mitchell during their trial it was up to O'Brien and the Record, as a gentleman, to have publicly apologized to Treadgold. Failure to do so he certainly lacks one of the qualities that go to make a gentleman.

"As to Coach as a man, I leave it to his admirers to say whether he had one good quality.

"There is one comical side to this matter. Arthur Coach came into Bandon the morning after Treadgold was killed and said 'Joe had done a good job, but it would have been better if he had got Liljeqvist, Sherwood and Cary, and he started away from Bandon with the avowal to get them. These boys have been making such threats against other people for the last five years and nothing was done, but as soon as Liljeqvist, Sherwood and Cary believed their own hides might be punctured he was arrested and shut up.

WORDS OF MURDERER'S THREATS

Former Local Police Officer Expresses Sympathy for Relatives.

The following letter from a former Bandon police officer was received in today's mail:

"Mooster, Ore., Oct. 23, 1916.
"Western World, Dear Sir: Glancing at the head lines of the Portland Journal, I saw where the City Attorney of Bandon was shot. I did not need to read any further, for I knew who it was, and who did the shooting. I cautioned G. T. Treadgold to watch J. Coach. While I was night officer of Bandon, some time in September, J. Coach was talking to me and in the conversation made a remark about Mr. Treadgold that we would have a new City Attorney soon.
"Oct. 12, 1914 at 2 a. m. J. Coach and myself were standing in the street in front of the Bandon Hotel, and in his conversation at that time pointing to G. T. Treadgold's office, said 'I will get that — — —' I told Mr. Treadgold the remark he made.

"I know it is a great blow to the people of Bandon to lose Mr. Treadgold, a man that was so well known and loved by all, with a great future before him, a man in the prime of life.
"My heart aches for his wife and children, mother, father and brother. They have my greatest sympathy.
F. J. ENGELKE."

WORDS OF APPRECIATION

The sympathy, comfort and encouragement; the willingness of kind hands and good hearts to assist and console; the tokens of respect, bestowed during our extreme sorrow, give rise to feelings of appreciation which words cannot express.

Humbly we must bow to the will of Providence, but, to know that friends, mourn with us, removes at least in part the sting of the worldly wrong we have suffered.

ARMSTRONG BABY DOLLS COMING TO BANDON SOON

Manager Lemanski of the Grand theatre announces that he has booked to appear at the local theatre for Monday and Tuesday nights, October 30 and 31 the Armstrong Baby Dolls Company, which comes direct from the Pantages circuit. The Armstrong Baby Dolls are a well known musical comedy company, having played long engagements in all the principal cities. Last season the company played from the Pacific coast to New York and back. While in New York Mr. Armstrong under whose personal direction each of the productions is staged, procured a number of the latest eastern successes, and is offering them to the local theatregoers with all the latest song hits and novelties of the season. Mr. Armstrong has selected a very strong cast of principals for this season's tour, and has also been most particular in the selection of his chorus. As well as being very pretty, the young ladies who go to make up the Baby Doll chorus are clever dancers as well as artistic singers. The company carries special scenery for each of the productions, with special lighting effects. Mr. Armstrong has paid particular attention to the wardrobe which the Baby Dolls wear in the various shows. The company comes to Bandon for two nights, Monday and Tuesday of next week.

SCHOOL NOTES

Frank Bullard, while crossing the logs on the beach on the cross country course, slipped and fell between two logs. He was severely bruised, and his right elbow was dislocated. At first it was feared that the bone was broken at the elbow, but an X-ray photograph showed that the arm was not fractured.

George Scott and Harold Scott, formerly of Rogue River, entered the local High school Monday. The former entered as a Senior, the latter as a Freshman.

Those attending the Coos County Institute pronounce it the best ever held in the county. The attendance was nearly double that at any previous institute in the county, there being about 200 teachers enrolled. The instructors were uniformly strong, and furnished an abundance of both practical and inspirational material. Two instructors new to the county were Dr. Hart of Reed College, and Prof. Mathews of Willamette. The state's higher educational institutions were all represented, University by Dr. H. L. Sheldon; the Agricultural College by Miss Millam; Monmouth by Mr. Pittman. Miss Major of Salem lead in music. A large part of the success of the institute was due to the excellent musical program provided by musicians of Marshfield.

After the Institute Friday the football teams of Marshfield and Coquille High Schools met. The latter were defeated in a loosely played one-sided game of 56 to 0.

The first regular meeting of the Coos County Round Table was held Thursday. Principal Noblett of Coquille was elected president; Principal Ralston of North Bend, vice president; Superintendent Turnbull of Bandon, delegate to the Representative Council of the State Educational Association meeting in Portland.

The editor of the World has discovered that doing the work of three men is almost impossible. His partner, Mr. Howe, has been away on a vacation and Monday Compositor R. H. Osborne, took sick, leaving the scribe to himself. This edition is somewhat late and lacks some news matter it should contain.

LOYAL TO COQUILLE RIVER

Congressman Hawley Aims to See Big Boats Dock at Coquille

Congressman Hawley, in his address at the Grand theatre recently, declared that he would use his influence in securing appropriations for the Coquille River, until the harbor and river were of sufficient depth to allow the ocean going vessels to dock at Coquille.

However, he said that he was handicapped because of the repeated cry of "pork" in connection with rivers and harbors appropriations and just at the present time it is practically impossible to get any appropriation whatever unless it is first recommended by the government engineers.

The Girls Good Time Club wish to announce to those who received invitations to the Halloween masquerade Tuesday, October 31, that the affair will be given at Dreamland at 8:30.
